THE ODELL FAMILY AND THE ODELL BOOK.

Notes for a Lecture by Harry A. Odell at Tarrytown, N. Y., June 27, 1942

King

The best way to study the Odell Family is to have a copy of the Odell Book handy, but we must seek another source for the earliest records. The first efforts to write genealogies of our family were made by Rufus King and Mrs. Pool. Mr. King made a Chart called: "Pedigree of Odell in United States and Canada," 1894; and Mrs. Pool: "Odell Genealogy," 1935. The copyright on King's Chart ran out years ago and the work is long "out-of-print", so we have reproduced it in toto on pages 141-142. The work of Mrs. Pool can be purchased from the publisher, Emory A. Odell, Monroe, Wisconsin.

Pool

To keep THE ODELL BOOK free from anonymous, unreliable statements, or such as might be called "fabricated", I have tried to make ~~my~~ direct assertions without corroborative evidence. Until I have such proof I shall not include the following in Our Book, so we refer to Pool. On page 11 she says:

"Reference is made to the 'History of the Phoenicians during Hiram's Reign' as tracing of the character ~~and the character~~ possessed by members the Odell Family and the mental and physical characteristics of their ancient ancestry."

Again down the middle of the page we find:

"There are compilations by Odell genealogists that make the claim that there exists in the possession of the Counts of Flanders a complete and ~~unbroken~~ unbroken record traced back to Priam the King of Troy, about 1200 B. C."

Pool

This statement was omitted from Our Odell Book because we do not know ~~where~~ ~~to find~~ who these genealogists are nor where to find their writings. Mrs. Pool also states, page 10: (quote whole page.)

181
Burke
(321-2)

On the other hand we do have such reliable authority as "Burke's Colonial Gentry", page 321, for the statement that the family was founded in England by Walter Flandrensis, who came over with the Conqueror in 1066. Both King and Pool have quoted this authority. There are also some reports that Flandrensis was related to Alfred the Great, which might place them in England during his reign, 871-901. There is probably some truth in this and his aid to the Conqueror may have ~~consisted~~ been of the family connection at a time previous to the Conquest. Even possibly

172-81

We now turn to page 172 of Our Odell Book and here we find twelve ~~pages~~ pages under the Subdivision ENGLISH RECORDS: The first page of this part of Our Book is the Title Page of a book published in London in ~~1787~~ 1787. It is one of several books bound together in a larger volume called: "Collection of History and Antiquities of Bedfordshire." This particular section of the "Collection" is entitled: "An Historical Account of the Parish of Odell," 1787.

of the The next page is our reproduction of a tablet displayed on the east wall, British Building, opposite the Magna Charta display, in the New York World's Fair of 1939-40. It shows the pedigree of George Washington descending from nine of the Baron Sureties of the Magna Charta and King John himself. The two pages that follow are descriptive of this tablet.

176

On page 176 we find another Chart, by Donald Lines Jacobus, who left much Odell material in his voluminous genealogical writings. It shows the "Pedigree of Morgan Gardner Bulkeley" from the Baron Sureties down to the present living (1942) Morgan Gairdsar Bulkeley who is Chairman of the Board of the Aetna Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut. His grandfather was Mayor of Hartford and a Governor and Senator of his state.

177

On page 177 we have the "Genealogies of Wadhul and Chetwode." from the "Collection" just referred to. It is very definite and shows the descent through the Eleventh to the Eighteenth Centuries.

177a

On page 177a we find a "Comparative Table". I am very fond of making Comparative Tables. Some hold that "comparisons are odious" but we rather suspicion they are odious only to those who suffer from the comparison. However my comparisons are not of that kind. I make these tables so one may see at a glance, without turning many pages, just what the evidence is when summed up -- shown graphically all on one page.

This Comparative Table is made from four different tables from three widely divergent sources of Odell information, carried down together:

177b

1. From the Parish "Collection", page 177 of Our Book.
2. Pages 282-3 of the "Woodhull Genealogy," our page 177b, (with a glimpse of the Bulkeley Genealogy, page 82.)
3. The "Morgan Gardner Bulkeley Succession"; and
4. The "Magna Charta Sureties" by Browning, our page 179.

If all these lists from Walter Flandrensis were exactly alike we could be skeptical. We might look for the proverbial dark man in the coal bin. The fact is we would have good reason to conclude that they were all copied from ONE SINGLE SOURCE which might be wrong. But they do not agree in many places. One writer may have put in every person in any way related to the LINE; as an uncle who ruled while a young child was becoming of age, or a wife who ruled for a week or so, perhaps unknown and in name only, while the courts were settling on the successor.

Another writer may have left all these out and included only those who succeeded to the estates or titles or both. So they do not agree clear through, showing that they were compiled by different persons. In fact they were not only written by different writers but at different times; sometimes centuries apart and in countries thousands of miles apart.

M.C.
Baroas

From all these sources, and there is another, page 178, from Browning's Magna Charta Barons, (page 323) which is a part of the LINE of Woodhull from "No. 1, William Malet, Lord of Malet, Curry Malet," down to "No. 12. Nicholas Woodhull, Lord of Woodhull Manor, Bedfordshire."

Now these tables do not agree in every particular; but they DO AGREE in all essential points. There is not the slightest doubt about it. The Odells do descend from Walter Flandrensis who was the First Baron of Odell, if not the first baron of all England, at least after the Conquest. The fact that one version of our Coat-of-Arms bears an Earl's Coronet above the helmet also proves the fact. This was the highest title of nobility until 1337 and indicated close relation to the crown, a brother or a brother-in-law. It replaced the title of Count in England after the Conquest. The ladies were still called "Countess."

180

Hudson
(333-4)

There is one more page, 180, in this Subdivision. It is not from English Records but it concerns English Origins. It is the descent from the Magna Charta Barons, and Walter Flandrensis, down to Ralph Waldo Emerson. This also agrees with the other tables though written in modern times. It is from a book entitled: "the History of Concord, Mass." by Alfred Sereno Hudson, a Congregational Minister of that town, written and copyrighted by the author in 1904, our page 180, also page 180 Browning's Magna Charta Barons; and Hudson's pages 333-334.

All these things do agree. Anyone who says the Odells do not descend from a family next in rank to royalty in England just do not know what they are talking about.

(177a)

There is just one more point I wish to call to your attention. On page 176 we find Morgan Gardner Dulkeley's Chart. On 177 we see The "Genealogy of Wahull and Chetwode.". On page 177a we have the two compared, columns 1 and 3.

If we follow the table on page 177 we see:

"Nicholas died in 1410."

He left a son:

"Thomas called Baron of Wahul died 1421."

177

178

179

177b

177a

Thomas married Elizabeth daughter of Sir John Chetwode; also the Woodhull Genealogy, page 177b, and Browning's Magna Charta Barons, pages 178-179. have the same names Nicholas and Thomas, (lined up across one page 177a); but it seems Thomas by his wife Elizabeth Chetwode left two sons:
"Thomas, Lord Wahul" and "Roger Chetwode." Of course his name should have been Roger WAHUL, but he was evidently given the name Chetwode, his mother's sir-name instead of his father's. Just why this was done we do not know. Probably it had something to do with keeping a title and the estates that went with that title, the Chetwodes and not the Wahuls having ceased to exist in the MALE LINE.

176

177a

Anyhow the two families continued to live side-by-side under the names Wahul and Chetwode for five generations until about 1550, when the last of the MALE LINE OF WAHULS;

"Anthony, Lord Wahull," died leaving an only child: Agnes, and she married (2nd)

"Richard, third son of Roger Chetwode;" But this Chetwode family were Wahuls, so the Wahul LINE continued under the name of Chetwode; and IN THE MALE LINE, though no one seems to have noticed it until the Odell Book was written. (Note: The spelling of Wahul gradually changing to Woodhull, not only in the writings of separate chronologists, but ON THE SAME PAGE.)

So we have definitely established the ODELL LINE from the brother-in-law of William the Conqueror, WITHOUT A BREAK, down to Morgan Gardner Dulkeley and Ralph Waldo Emerson.

We do have a break in the continuity of our Odell Family before the original ancestor William Odell, who came to America in 1635. Of course we know he was a Wahul and we have lots of reason to so know aside from a "wish-thought". Anyone who reads THE ODELL BOOK will understand why. There are also breaks in many of the great Odell Families now living in the United States and the original William, (the author's being included). Future research may clear up many of these gaps.

AND

A CAPITAL "I" PREFACE

Being a Description of the Book

"A good book needs no preface," I have read and I don't agree. In my library are over 5,000 books, some good, some not so good and some very good, but all good a little bit or they would not be there. There are some books in every language; Latin, of which I can read very little; German of which I read not at all; but to some of these foreign language books I have fastened stars, little golden stars on the back, where they can be seen on the shelves.

These golden stars mean that I have taken stories out of these books for the press or they contain stories that I can use later. I have some other books, many of them, in English, which I preserve for the prefaces, introductions or author's notes they contain, the real text being worthless. These too have golden stars.

At first I labeled the article "Why a Genealogy" a preface, but that is really an editorial, if I must say it, the reason for the book. Many prefaces should really be called, in the language or jargon of the print shop: "blurbs" which means in praise of the book, advertising such as all magazines put before their stories.

This preface I shall use to describe the book. I have advertised it in hundreds of letters to my relatives, my dear own folks, most of whom have contributed something to the book; without which there could have been no such book. This is really their book, I having simply arranged the different stories into a more or less uniform style and typed them as they are here, and we both had lots of fun doing it. We all worked for nothing and we produced something quite different from anything that has been produced before. And we commend it to our children and their children and so on and all who may come after that. We hope they will enjoy reading the history of what happened to us in keeping such a large family on earth.

On the outside front cover I have placed the name of each person who receives a copy of the book and that also means that they have written a part of it. Of course there is the name Odell after that, the dates when the family started as far back as any records go, or rumors of records; and the giant cactus, emblematical of the fact that many Odells live in the southwest of our country.

On the first fly leaf is the signature of the author, the number of the book, how many books there are, 30 in all, and the Affidavit which explains itself.

We turn the page and there is the old Odell Castle in Bedfordshire, England. I have colored that half of it which is part of the old building, the original part, and covered it with Cel-U-Seal. The coloring I do with just crayons and of course it would rub off if it did not have this protection. Cel-U-Seal is a new product, so very new that but few stores have got on to it yet. It costs around 5¢ for a sheet a little larger than these pages, some stores charge 35¢ and others 75¢ per package of six sheets. This Cel-U-Seal can be wiped off with a damp cloth and not injure the picture.

Next comes the title page and then the dedication with all your names who helped. Then comes the Family Tree. It contains only names of persons who have Odell blood in their veins. I am sorry some names are not there who should be there but I have done it over several times, each time it gets worse in appearance, the original drawing having almost disappeared, so if you are left out it is because your letter came after the last change.

Now here is something important and interesting, not much thought of in the United States but considerably looked up to in England. It is the Blazon of Arms, family crest or shield. It is authoritative. The description explains it except that I might add that the Ducal Crown on the old shield with eighteen quarterings proves there were Odells at one time higher than Barons. Royal blood flows in our veins, there is no doubt of it.

Here are two pages of "Why a Genealogy," the Table of Contents, the article on Philology, which concerns itself principally with the spelling and changes in the spelling of our name; then follows five photostats proving what I have said about spelling of the name Odell, two pages about our Governor, one of our Congressman and separate genes of each with one also of the Pipe Organ Builders. Next is the criticism of Mrs. Pool, comparison of Mrs. Pool with Rufus King, photostat of Rufus King's Chart, reduced from the real size of 25 inches long, and it can be read, the rewriting of King and table explaining that; a code to find the names on the chart, King Stars; short notes of Odell wives and their fathers and mothers where known; the article contributed by Mr. Haacker; the Odells in the Revolutionary War from New York State, with some from Vermont; photostats of our grandfather's house which is a very dear landmark to us older Odell of the 9th and 10th genes, a page of notes re Robert Ferris Odell part of the book, the Genealogy of his part interspersed with many very interesting photostats, which are still coming in at the time this is being written; the Map of Westport, blank pages to keep the work up to date; photostats from my mother's half of the book; Genealogy of Mary Melvina Odel part of the family, really all one great family if we could establish the connection, and the blank pages following that.

Now, having just passed the high point or climax, as a teacher in literature might say, we go down hill into the finish. There are several Maps, one with the History of Westport, and two showing the routes our people traveled over the world. Some have returned and spread roses over the places our people once lived in and loved. There are notes about sources including a page from the principal index work showing more sources, a few pages about those great institutions devoted to Genealogy in New York City: The Division on Genealogy of the great Public Library at 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue, The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, the Long Island Historical Society and the New York Museum of American History.

All of these institutions have given much help. A small Map shows the location of most of the Museums in the city. There is an Address List of all living Odells in our family in 1940, and many other things you will see, some of which may develop after this Preface is mimeographed.

On the outside of the back cover is an illustration of probably the greatest material creation made by an Odell and proudly bearing our name until destroyed by fire a few years ago. The hulk lies at a dock near West Point.

There now I think that is a Preface worthy of the five or six nights I lay awake thinking it out.

I thank you one and all,
I love you all and
I am more than proud of all of us, who could help it?

October 1, 1940.

HARRY ADELBERT ODELL, H3-1.

ODELLS SETTLE IN CANADA.

Note: There were none of the Westport Odells in Canada during the War of 1812. Robert Andrus Odell was in Essex County, N.Y. by the Census of 1800, 1810 and 1820. His son, our Grandfather Robert Ferris Odell, was born in 1805 and Census reports and other documents prove his continuous residence, but I believe we were related to these Canadian Odells and it may be through them that we will finally establish our War of the Revolution connection. The following is from Mrs. Pool. HAO.

"There was a group of Odells just over the line in Canada from Lake Champlain near Plattsburg, N. Y. at the time Commodore MacDonough defeated the British, September 11, 1814, (War 1812). These families originally lived around Tarrytown but after the Revolutionary War that part of New York State, now a suburb of New York City, was subject to raids from marauding bandits, called 'skimmers' and 'cowboys.'"

"These bandits made life impossible for the early settlers. They stole their chickens and drove off their cattle and threatened their lives. The state promised restitution in money or lands but the Odells never got any satisfaction so they moved to Canada where emigrants were welcome and life secure (at that time) also lands were to be had free. They were however compelled to take the oath of allegiance to Great Britain and were on both sides in the war. Some of the settlers gave up some British deserters who were hiding near by and later on the Odell's barns were burned in revenge, several barns being on fire at the same time. The affidavits made by an Odell family about this fire makes very dramatic reading in Pool's Genealogy. They got no better satisfaction from Canada for their losses than from New York and very poor thanks for their help in the war. They lived in Odell Town and Burtonville."

COATS OF ARMS

ODELL BLAZON OF ARMS

There are four different Coats of Arms credited to the Odell Family in this book. That in the upper left corner is the original, a very simple form. The simplest forms are the oldest. The first of these sealed instruments was the Charter of Westminster Abbey from Edward the Confessor about 1065, A. D. The Normans seldom used seals, the Charters of William the Conqueror were confirmed by a cross and very few but the greater Barons had seals until the time of Henry II, 1154-1198.

The Odell shield shown below, with eighteen quarterings, includes seventeen escutcheons of heiresses who married into the Odell (Woodhull) Family. This we have of a right and it makes the eighteen quarterings, as such divisions are called no matter how many there are. The crest is out of a Ducal Coronet, next in rank to royalty.

The seal used by the Tory, Rev. Jonathan Odell, was chosen by him from the Odell Coat of Arms adopted by that branch of the family which went to Ireland in the reign of Charles II, 1660-1685. He added the rooster as his crest. This is blazoned on the Rufus King Chart, found elsewhere.

The colored plate on the opposite page is, we believe, that which American Odells should adopt. It will at least make a good book plate. The helmet is that of a Baron, of a style introduced in the 14th or 15th centuries, so could not have been added before that time. As time wore on additions were made until the shields of all kinds became so complicated it was necessary to have a royal committee to regulate and identify them. We now have the right; in one case to add a movie camera, a printing press in another and an airship in still another. This plate is the last used by the whole Odell family in England. In case any American Odell should desire to emblazon it on his car we have taken care have it correct and in its proper colors.

The following is from a description by Mrs. Pool:

"Or," in heraldry, means gold. "Gules" means red. Three red crescents on a golden shield. The golden shield represents the character of the Odell individual upon whom this coat-of-arms was conferred by his sovereign for some national achievement. He was a man of sterling worth, riches, prosperity. Gold is the symbol of the sun, of majesty, might and elevation of mind.

The Crescent—Watchman of the World. Its color—red—indicates courage, valor. It is a half moon when horns are upturned and indicates increasing greatness and power.

Arm—Regent, three crescents, gules.

Crest—An eagle displayed.

Motto—Eae et Spera
Do and Hope.

The science of Heraldry includes among other things, the laws of precedence and ceremonies, the recording of descents and the granting confirming and marshalling of Arms. The first are perhaps of less value in this country; but the last two, which are closely connected, are of great importance. A knowledge of Armoury (as Mr. Lower styles that part of the herald's functions which relates to Arms) is often a very great help in tracing a descent. A well authenticated pedigree is in this country the only possible evidence of a right to a coat of arms; since, as there are no new grants, arms can no longer be borne by any who have not inherited them from their ancestors. There is no possible mode of acquiring a new coat of arms.

WHY A GENEALOGY

The author is fully acquainted with the prejudice against any such thing as a family history in the United States, the common belief being that it is of no importance what your parents or grandparents were just so you are all right; we also are prone to make sport of the class distinctions set up in England and the other old countries because of birth. This attitude may be partly right but Genealogy is an intriguing study, once in its toils one does not easily relinquish the subject until the particular family under compilation is completed.

Of course it is what you are not what your forebears were that counts but I believe a knowledge that our ancestors were a great and proud people will encourage us to emulate them. Surely we believe that a statue of George Washington is good for our young folks to look at and how the heart swells at the strains of the Star Spangled Banner; how much more we can swell up if we know in our own family also are great leaders, that our own ancestors were a great people, among the greatest in the English speaking world. What boy or girl would do a mean or shameful thing if he or she knew what a great name he was dragging down?

Surely the average young person would not throw stones at the Father of Our Country, and if we know our own are also great, would we not hesitate to put any disgrace upon them?

When I first became interested in My Own Family I expected to find just an average American people. As I progressed in this work my heart warmed at the great honor among my fathers, then as I progressed further I began to swell with pride.

What I have found I am passing on to you that the precious record may not be forgotten. Among the thousands recorded in English Ancestry few have more space in the books than the Odells. Many names common in America are not even mentioned in these records, but our people have enough of material preserved for a lifetime of research. The earnest worker in this grainery will never run out of grist.

The Odells sprang from King Priam of Troy, 1200 B. C. They were related to William the Conqueror, he having married Matilda of Flanders, sister of Walter Flandrensis, whom he made the First Baron of Odell, so of course Odell blood flows in British Royal veins. Some claim the Flandrensis Odell record goes back to relation with King Arthur. An Odell, Lord Chetwood, was ~~among~~ ^{descendant from} those who compelled King John to sign the Magna Charta on June 19, 1215, and he was chosen as one of the Sureties who saw to it that the King lived up to his pledge. Through the female side we come in an unbroken line from Flandrensis through Rev. Peter Bulkeley, through Chetwood, to Ralph Waldo Emerson.

CHAPTER I

The first part of the book is devoted to a general survey of the subject. It is divided into three sections: the first dealing with the history of the subject, the second with the principles of the subject, and the third with the application of the subject to practice. The first section is the most important, as it gives a clear and concise account of the progress of the subject from its origin to the present time. The second section is also of great importance, as it explains the principles which govern the subject, and shows how they are applied in practice. The third section is the least important, as it only gives a few examples of the application of the subject to practice.

The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed examination of the subject. It is divided into two sections: the first dealing with the theory of the subject, and the second with the practice of the subject. The first section is the most important, as it explains the theory which governs the subject, and shows how it is applied in practice. The second section is also of great importance, as it gives a detailed account of the practice of the subject, and shows how it is applied in practice. The third section is the least important, as it only gives a few examples of the application of the subject to practice.

An Odell, (see photostat Major William Henry Odell), who went back to England became a great soldier and was honorably mentioned in the campaign in South Africa, receiving the Medal and Clasp in 1879.

But if the reader objects to all this ancient British record we will take up the more recent and American one. We have had officers and heroes in all the wars. There were fifty who left Westport, New York, in the Civil War and only three or four ever returned - they held the line for Sheridan's Ride. Three have been Congressmen, one a Governor. Majors, Captains, Ensigns and Generals fought in the Revolution and War of 1812. The blood of the first President of Princeton flows in Odell veins.

The speech of the Hon. Moses Fowler Odell, (see our photostat reproduction), when nominated for his second term as Congressman from this Brooklyn district, is something any American can be proud of. A Democrat running in a Democratic district, he came out for Lincoln in words that could well be repeated by those in a similar position in the war-torn times of today. My father, Charles Wesley Odell, often referred to him as his uncle.

At present we have an Aviator of 25 years in the United States Navy, an Art Director in Hollywood, Paramount Studios, and teachers and college professors in important positions in New Jersey, Wisconsin and Montana.

No wonder we sometimes look with awe at the way our children carry off the honors in school and college. It is in the blood. If we don't want to brag out loud at least we can strut a little among ourselves.

Keep this little record. I Consecrate it with you. Add to it from time to time as the family grows and show it to your children, it will do them good; and if anybody should like to continue the work, to dig deeper into the records, I am sure he will find the subject extremely interesting, and if not profitable to him immediately, at least of very great benefit to those who peruse his work. I am leaving such leads as I can for his start.

HISTORIC ODELL CASTLE

The Odell castle stands on the bank of the river Ouse, near the ancient village of Odell, in Bedfordshire, England. The wall to the left in the photograph is a part of the original castle given by William the Conqueror to Walter Flandrensis, created Baron de Wahul, in 1066, the year of the conquest.

My Dear Mother Sister & Brother

Your letter came to hand in due season & we were so well pleased to get so much news from home & the pictures they are just what I wanted only I would like a picture of Father & all the rest of the Family. The pictures are fine, how young Mother looks, Hat looks like a girl. Odith I see is a little bit Frank looks fine, Corolla like myself is growing old. The children all look nice & you look very much as Aunt Jodie did when she was about your age or perhaps a few years older. Corolla's children Minnie & her daughter I would ^{know} they look like two Aunt Maud Davis. We had the children all in their night places before your letter came telling us they were. But Elsie had the laugh on me all the same. She

The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the general principles of the theory of the structure of the human brain. It is shown that the brain is a complex organ, the structure of which is determined by the function it performs. The brain is divided into two main parts, the cerebrum and the cerebellum, each of which has its own specific functions. The cerebrum is the larger part of the brain and is responsible for the higher functions of the mind, such as thought, feeling, and volition. The cerebellum is the smaller part of the brain and is responsible for the lower functions of the mind, such as the control of the muscles and the maintenance of equilibrium.

Thanksgiving Prayer

Dear Father, as we gather at this table,
 Filled with the lavish bounty of Thy hand,
 We ask Thy help that we be better able
 Thy loving care to feel and understand.

Grant that, as 'round this board we take our places,
 Our heads be bowed in deep humility;
 And may we, feasting, think, with happy faces,
 Of all Thy many gifts we do not see.

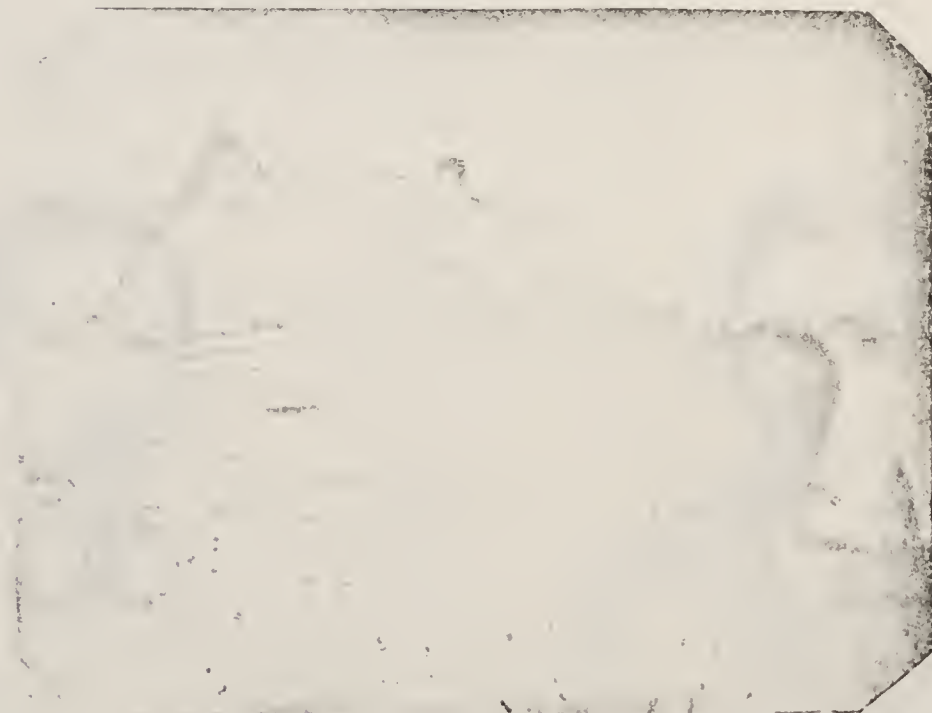

For Thou dost give us care and love supernal,
 And strength to smile in spite of pain and loss,
 And faith to follow on to realms eternal,
 Where we shall find a crown beyond the cross.

Then teach us, Father, to be meek and lowly,
 Be near us as we bow our heads to pray;
 Thus in our prayers we'll find communion holy,
 And in our hearts we'll find Thanksgiving day.

REFERENCE NOTES ON ROBERT FERRIS ODELL'S GENEALOGY

Short History of Westport, N. Y. by the Author, in this Genealogy.

" of Essex County, N. Y. by H. P. Smith, 1885.

616 "Bouten Lobdell, Town Clerk, 1815.

"Supervisors, 1817-19, John Lobdell."

Mr. Haacker in a letter to the Author says: "Levi or Levy Lobdell was baptised in Washington Co, N.Y. August 31, 1766, died at Stephentown about 1805. His wife was Rachael Toucey and -- Grandma -- Harriet was the third of five children."

That is how their (RFO) second son came to be named "Levi".

Again Mr. Haacker: "Robert A. Odell was father of Robert Ferris Odell, who was the elder of four sons."

Mrs. March calls our attention to the fact that three girls, in the generation immediately preceeding or the same as that of our grandfather Robert Ferris Odell, were named Eurette. This is a very uncommon name and everybody in those days, and even many now, named their children after their uncles, aunts, cousins, brothers, sisters, fathers, mothers, etc. The Author was given his second name after Judge Robert ADELBERT Odell. This about proves we descended from the Odells that went to Canada after the Revolutionary War. There was also a Sarah Roseltha Odell, the second child of Henry Clay Odell, and he had a sister Roseltha, born Oct. 5, 1835, married an artist named Quick and moved to Cincinnati, Ohio. This latter information from Mrs. Violet Lewis (Odell) who was also the (eighth) daughter of Henry Clay Odell, born Feb. 2, 1864. Our Eurette Roselthy Odell was born in 1845.

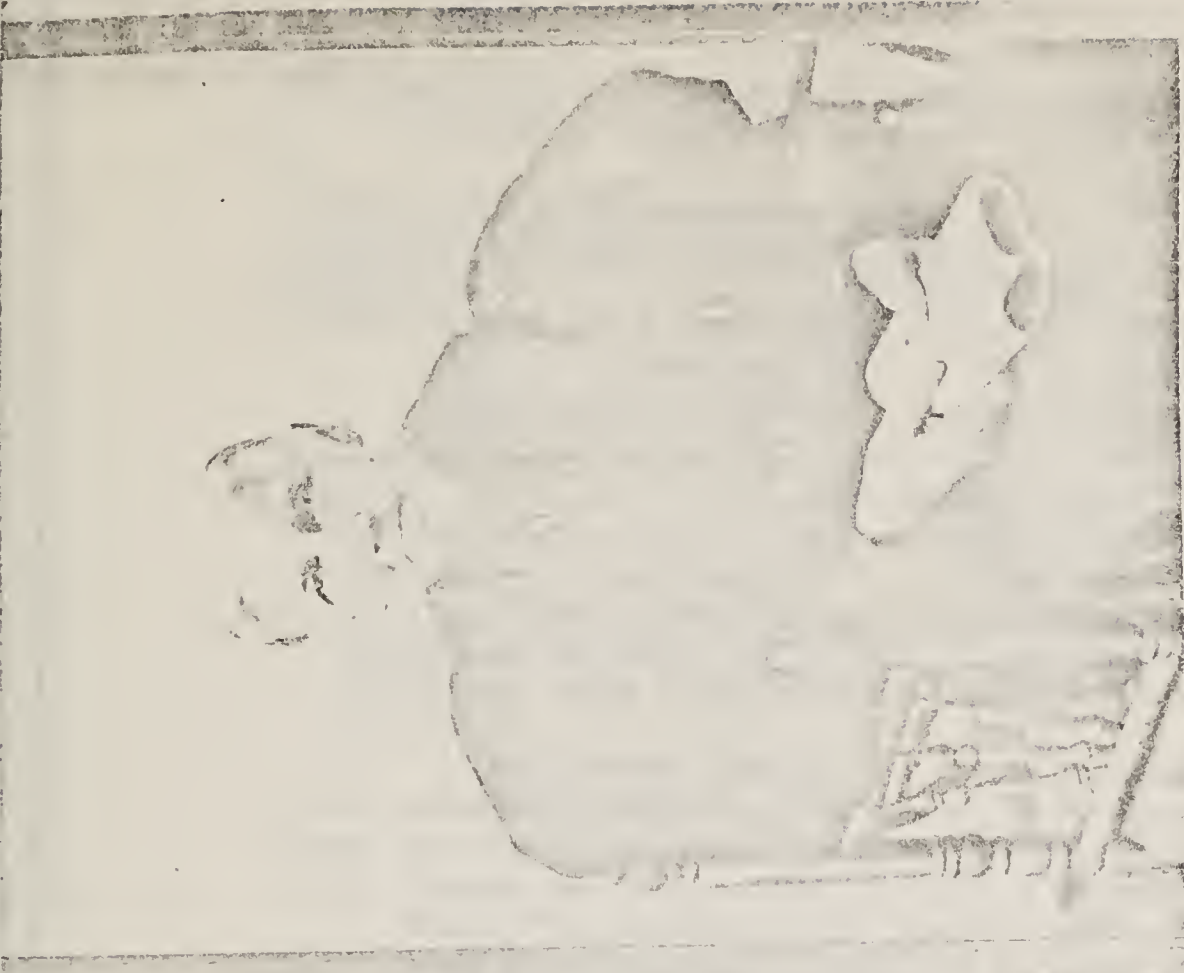

Haacker says: Judge Robert Adelbert Odell had two wives, viz: "Married in Galesville, Wis. Sept. 1863, Emma Frances Clark, daughter of William P. Clark of Vermont, who died in Trempealeau in 1873. The Judge had one son Ross Clark Odell, born in Galesville in 1867, the boy's mother dying the following year. In August, 1882, the Judge married his second wife, Mrs. Lovisa Boardman of Chautauqua, N.Y. She was the widow of Arthur Boardman who died in San Jose, California, where they lived from 1873. The Judge went west; first to LeClaire, Scott Co., Iowa, where he taught school in 1858. In 1859 he went to Galesville, Trempealeau Co. Wisc. In 1875 he was elected Clerk of the Circuit Court, holding that position for ten years, then being elected County Judge.

Mrs. Bessie Thomas husband Fletcher Thomas died Dec. 5, 1939. His death was quite sudden though he had been ailing since returning from an auto trip to the San Francisco World's Fair that summer.

Three babies have been born to our folks since I began work on this Genealogy. They are Janet Louise Coleman, granddaughter of my sister Mrs. Effie Elida Stone (Odell), born May 12, 1940. Her parents are Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Perry Coleman, (Wilma Effie Stone). Ardis Bessie Coffelt is the second child of Mr. & Mrs. Kenneth Lloyd Coffelt, born August 11, 1940; and another one from the Capt. Davis Odells is Charles Leroy Gates, born to Mr. & Mrs. John Henry Gates, July 31, 1940. Mrs. Coffelt was Velma Salina Berends and Mrs. Gates, Aletha Maude Coffelt. The happy grandparents are Mr. & Mrs. Ira Lawrence Coffelt, (Edna Glenn Davis.)

PIONEER ALEXANDER EUGENE ODELL

Built the cabinet work on the first train to run into Walla Walla, Washington. The rails were of wood with strips of cowhide to make them slick, but coyotes ate the tops off these rails so they were compelled to use metal strips nailed to the wooden rails, thus Mr. Odell first began the use of iron rails. For Civil War and other record see photo-stat of Discharge from U.S. Army and typing under that.

CASTE IN ENGLAND.

When the author was in Samoa the "Printer" of a British ship came on board the "Philadelphia", which lay at anchor in the harbor at Apia, to pay me a visit and we had a very interesting exchange of experiences.

The British Navy men, "lime-juicers" we call them, make the navy a life work. Their government sees to that. They enlist for 25 years and are frequently sent far from home for the entire time. Those we met had been on the Western Pacific Ocean or the "Far East" for their term of enlistment and were about to return home.

The Britisher asked me what my salary or pay was as a "Printer" in the U.S.N. I told him "$35 a month." He replied, "Why that's 145 bob. Why I don't get 145 bloody bob a year." He then wanted to know what my father did and I told him he was a Mill foreman in charge of hundreds of men. "Oh," he said- "My father was a gentleman. I could not be a printer in the English Navy if my father was not a gentleman." I laughed and asked him what a gentleman was. He replied, "a school teacher is a gentleman, a printer is a gentleman, lawyers and doctors are gentlemen, but no business man or laboring man is a gentleman."

PIOTTER ALFREDER FUGGER ODELL
Built the cabinet work on the first train to run into Walla Walla, Washington. The rails were of wood with strips of oanhide to make them click, but ooyates ate the tops off these rails so they were compelled to use metal strips nailed to the wooden rails, thus "r. Odell first began the use of iron rails. For Civil War and other records see photostat of Discharge from U.S. Army and typing under that.

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business and for the protection of the interests of all parties involved. The author argues that without accurate records, it is impossible to make informed decisions or to identify areas for improvement.

2. The second part of the paper describes the various methods used to collect and analyze data. It outlines the steps involved in designing a study, selecting a sample, and collecting data. The author also discusses the importance of ensuring the reliability and validity of the data collected. Various statistical techniques are mentioned, including descriptive statistics, inferential statistics, and regression analysis.

3. The third part of the paper presents the results of the study. It shows that there is a significant positive correlation between the amount of time spent on record-keeping and the overall performance of the business. The author also finds that businesses that use more advanced record-keeping methods tend to have higher profit margins and lower risk of fraud.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the implications of the findings for business practice. It suggests that businesses should invest in training and resources to improve their record-keeping practices. The author also recommends that businesses should regularly review their records to identify areas for improvement and to ensure that they are in compliance with relevant laws and regulations.

5. The fifth part of the paper concludes the study and provides a summary of the key findings. It reiterates the importance of accurate record-keeping and the need for businesses to invest in this area. The author also offers some final thoughts on the future of record-keeping and the potential for further research in this field.

DEATH CLAIMS ONE MORE GOOD CITIZEN

MILTON WALDO HANCHETT HAS PASSED AWAY AT THE AGE OF EIGHTY-TWO.

LIVED HERE MOST OF HIS LIFE

Died, 12-28-1904

Figured Prominently in Many of the City's Industries—Twice President of the Y. M. C. A.

MILTON WALDO HANCHETT.

The death of Milton Waldo Hanchett, one of the oldest residents of the city, occurred at 9:15 a. m. to-day at this home, 311 West Onondaga-st.

Mr. Hanchett was the son of Dr. J. Wilkes Hanchett, and was born on July 12, 1822, in Suffield, Conn. He was a direct descendant of Deacon Thomas Hanchett, who landed in this country in 1630 in the ship Mary and John, and who came from Plymouth, England. He was the youngest of his family. When about two years old, he and his father moved to Onondaga Valley, and two years later came to this city. He attended the select school of the Valley, and in 1836 the institution of Prof. Charles Anthony at Troy, and also the Syracuse academy.

In early life Mr. Hanchett became a manufacturer, later a druggist, and still later he studied dentistry with Dr. Amos Westcott, whose practice he had in charge for some time. He was a clerk in his father's drug store, and in 1840 located in Troy. After this he entered the firm of Rushton & Aspinwall of New York city, and returned to this city with his brother, John C. Hanchett, and succeeded to the business of his father.

BECAME AN UNDERWRITER.

In 1848 Mr. Hanchett married Martha Anna Huntington, daughter of Jered Huntington of Owego.

In 1850 he went to Hartford, Conn., and practiced dentistry, but his health was unreliable, and he returned to this city, becoming an underwriter, in which business he continued for 40 years. He was for several years vice-president and a director of the New York State Banking company.

When a boy Mr. Hanchett was a member of the old Presbyterian church. He, with his parents, helped organize the First Congregational church and was a prime mover in the organization of Plymouth church, of which for many years he was organist and musical director. As superintendent of the Sunday school he became a promoter of Bible study classes. For a time he was organist and musical director of the Salina Presbyterian church and afterwards for St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Mr. Hanchett was twice elected president of the Young Men's Christian association and it was owing to his efforts that a paid secretary was employed by that organization.

BUT ONE SURVIVOR.

His mind was always alert and far-seeing. He had a daughter who died in her infancy, and another daughter, Miss Addie E. Hanchett, also deceased. He is survived by a son, Dr. Henry G. Hanchett, a musical artist and teacher in New York city and Brooklyn.

Mr. Hanchett had been ill for the last nine years, and he retired from active business ten years ago. He was not long confined to his bed, and insisted on giving some Christmas presents on Sunday. Death resulted from a complication of diseases.

Contributed by M. Frances Ferris, American History Department, Syracuse Public Library, where Part I., a brief history of the Hanchett Family, may be found.

Note. It will be found that this document agrees in every particular with the Hanchett Charts, assembled by your author from Mather Hanchett and much other data, the discrepancy of a few figures in dates is of no importance, and must be expected in material collated by many minds and over centuries of time. They rather prove than set doubt of the facts. I have underlined them wherever I have found them. H.A.O.

This genealogy of the Hanchett Family was prepared and compiled after making a personal inspection of many of the Town Records of Suffield, Conn., and after visiting the cemetery at West Suffield where Lieut. John Hanchett and his sons, Corporal Luke and Captain Oliver, are buried. Much information has been obtained at the Syracuse, N.Y., Public Library. Great credit is due the late Milton Waldo Hanchett (1822-1904), a man of high culture, who gave me my first great start in this work. I wish to acknowledge the valuable assistance of *Frank E. Hanchett, an able genealogist, son of L. L. Hanchett, of Jamestown, N. Y., and a descendant of Zacheus Hanchett (1719-1758), now deceased, who supplied me with important leads, and to many others who have aided me in the work. I must not forget L. Parker Murray, a grandson of Charlotte Hanchett Tiffany, whose address has been unknown for many years, who inspired the work.

Warsaw, N.Y., Nov. 4, 1940

Dear Sir;--In reply to your communication of Oct. 25, will say that you are descended from Ebenezer Hanchett, a brother of Lt. John, my husband's ancestor. Upon a separate sheet you will find his line as far as I know, and from letters and other data enclosed you will be able to continue it.

We lived in Syracuse for over 30 years and it was from Milton Waldo Hanchett that Mr. Hanchett obtained the History of the earlier Hanchetts, and he spent all of his available time in research. I haven't the health or money to continue the work.

In 1910 there was a Wm. M. Hanchett in Brooklyn, a descendant of Amos, and I know there is a LaFayette Hanchett.

Trusting this is of use to you, Respectfully,
(Mrs. Jay B.) Bertha Hanchett.

Mr. Jay Hanchett

Dear Sir:--Your letter at hand today and am very much pleased with the information contained therein as to the Photo I certainly do want one and will enclosed stamps for same also copy of Coat of Arms and Crest as soon as convenient, of course there is no hurry about it. I am also answering your queries as best I can. Our Aunts came into the West when I was only a mere child and you know how families frequently lose track of each other. Aunt Zada Warner's family kept track of their Aunts as they were own sisters, but I suppose, because there were so many of us we had enough to do to keep track of each other. Yes Jonah Hanchett was our great grandfather.

Whose son is Frank Hanchett of Jamestown, N. Y.

Please keep me informed of your success in learning from other members of the family. Have written brother Leivi to send me all data concerning his family. With deepest interest,

Very Sincerely Yours, Mrs. A. S. Wright,

Mr. J. B. Hanchett

Vergennes, Vt., Apr. 2nd, 1910.

Dear Sir:--I have just received a letter informing me where my Aunt is, I think the only one left of mother's family. I will give you her address so you can write to her. I have written to her and spoken of what you wrote to me, but I think she can tell you more about her father's family than anyone that I know of. Her name and address: Miss Alzina Hanchett, Ackley, Iowa, in care of Mrs. C. H. Davis. I could not finish this when I had found out about Aunt as I have been laid up with a burned hand. I do not know what year mother was married but perhaps Aunt will, but I think the place was Elizabethtown, N.Y. She was born Aug. 17, 1824, her name Zada Ann Hanchett, and I think she always lived in E'Town until she married and came to Ferrisburg, Vt. where she died Apr. 16, 1897.

Her Children:

Henry Wood Warner, born May 6, 1848, (killed by cars) died Jan. 1898.

Lucy Emeline Warner, born Dec. 26, 1851.

Morse Kent Warner, born Nov. 2nd, 1853; died Feb. 16, 1864.

Jennie Mark Warner, born March 27, 1855.

Norman Towsley Warner, born Feb. 16, 1864.

Frank Maynard Warner, born May 19, 1867.

I have no such record as you mentioned, if there is any such thing some other person must have it, but I should think perhaps you could find out more by Aunt Alzina. I have not been well and I hope you will pardon my not writing sooner. Respectfully

R.F.D. #3, Vergennes, Vt.

LETTERHEAD OF THE NORTHERN REALTY AND CONSTRUCTION CO.,

((There is no date to the following letter.))

Enid, Okla., 190..

Mr. Jay B. Hanchett

Dear Sir: Your letter of Dec. 10th finds me today in Enid, Okla., and as I have as keen an interest in the subject as any of the name I hasten to reply and will do all I can to help you in the matter. My step-grandmother (Mary)*Polly Collins, wife of Ebenezer Hanchett, my grandfather made out a genealogical tree that reached back to the English origin and applied for a legacy to the Hanchett heirs of about 40,000 pounds (($200,000)) but owing to some error I believe in the spelling of the name with two TT's it was declared void and the money turned over to the Crown. I have always known that our family was of good origin and had a Coat of Arms but what it was I did not know or how to obtain the information. My father was William Foster Hanchett and was the man you speak of being cut in two at Elizabethtown in 1860 which is a wrong date. It happened in 1872, April 21st. He had two half brothers, younger one Howard or Milton, one sister Alma who died before I was born and six half sisters: Zady Ann, Electa, Rachael, Roxy, Alzina and Phidelia. ((Now our Hanchet list is: Electa, Eleanor, Roxy Ann, Zada and Alzina; so our Eleanor, in another place called Ellen, would be Rachael.))HAO. There were two brothers: Seth and Jonah. I believe Jonah was my great-grandfather as I can remember grandfather speaking of Uncle Seth who I think was Waite Hanchett's father, a cousin of my father. Waite had a sister Minerva who married Wm. Simonds of Elizabethtown. She had two daughters Sarah and Helen, now wives of T.C. Lamson, deceased, and Orlando Kellog, prop. of the Windsor Hotel, all of same place. I will send copies of your letter to my brothers and sisters and a cousin whom Grandmother lived with the last years and who had the tree that she prepared, and get all the information I can for you. My father was named after William the Conqueror but why I never knew. I am the youngest of the family living. My mother's name was Eliza Ann Ferris of Wadhams, N.Y., daughter of Eli Ferris, (all deceased) all highly respected families. My father was very proud of his ancestors and always told us that we were as good as the best if we only kept our good name as it was and we always associated with the best although we were not rich in this world's goods. My father died singing "Nearer My God to Thee." He was one of the best men that I ever knew. I have one son living: Roy Rex Wright, 29 years--Oct. 23rd--old and buried a daughter Grace Leah, Oct. 29th, two years younger than he when she was nine years old. Will give you more information as soon as possible and in return would like a copy of the Coat of Arms. Yours very truly, 605 West B'way, Enid, Okla. Mrs. A. S. Wright, nee Josie Hanchett.

* (Mary) Polly Collins is the second wife of the second Ebenezer Hanchet in the RFO Genealogy, page RFO--1, 1790-1883. "Mary" and "Polly" seem to be thus mixed up in many Genealogies, written in, erased, disputed about. "No, Aunt was called 'Polly'" someone writes. The small photostat of pedigree under the NORTHERN REALTY AND CONSTRUCTION CO. follows this letter. Mrs. Wright's Pedigree can be written briefly; starting from RFO's first Ebenezer Hanchet:

EBENEZER HANCHET, Iron Worker, etc. - Sarah

JONAH HANCHET - Sarah Squares, 1760-1860.

EBENEZER HANCHET - Rachael Pangborn; (2nd) 1813 - Mary Collins,

WILLIAM FOSTER HANCHET - Eliza Ann Ferris

LETTER OF DR. RAY G. HULBURT, ANS. TO AD IN GENEALOGICAL DEPARTMENT
HARTFORD TIMES, MARCH 23, 1940, M.M.R.W. 6170; OF JUNE 6, 1940.

Dear Madam: You asked for data of John Hanchett, 2nd, and wife Lydia Hayward, married Suffield, Conn. Feb. 26, 1706/7.

Mr. Jay Bush Hanchett, Weedsport, N. Y. collected much Hanchett information; has manuscript in public library, Syracuse, N. Y.

He believes Deacon Thomas Hanchett, the immigrant, was b. presumably at Braughin, Hertfordshire, Eng. about 1610-1620: and that at that time all the Hanchetts in existence were within a fifty mile circle about the point of junction of the counties Cambridge, Hertfordshire and Essex. He believes Thomas was brother of John of Braintree, Roxbury and Boston, who was in this country as early as 1634, buried at Roxbury Feb. 23, 1684, whose male line died out in the second generation.

American Ancestry, Vol. 8, page 83 tells of the family. I do not accept it as authority, but it is worth while to know what it reports, for checking and comparison. It says Thomas came, 1630 in "Mary and John", resided Roxbury, Mass. Wethersfield, Conn., New London, Conn., Northampton and Westfield, Mass.: deacon and selectman, Northampton: received grant of land Westfield, 1668/9, selectman there 1672: received 60 acres Suffield 1679.

Jay Bush Hanchett believes Thomas did not come in "Mary and John." Says the first authentic account of him is as the holder of a home lot at Wethersfield in 1642. In 1648 he married Deliverance Langton (Lankton, Langdon), daughter of George. ((Mather Hanchett's Chart says "George Laughton". H.A.O.)) (George came to Westfield in 1646, had a child born at Springfield in 1649, removed to Northampton in 1658.) John Hanchett, son of Thomas and Deliverance, was born at Wethersfield, Sept. 1, 1649. In July, 1861, Deacon Thomas was on the payroll for a mill dam at New London. He was there three years. J.B.H. says also that Thomas' sons, John and Thomas, Jr. each received 40 acres, Suffield when Thomas, Sr. got his 60, these being among the original Proprietors of Suffield.

Trumbull's "History of Northampton" says Thomas came to Northampton in 1660 from Wethersfield and that his name appears in the records not only of New London but also of Saybrook. At Northampton he took the oath of fidelity to the Commonwealth before there is any record of any court having been there. On June 18, 1661, the church was organized of which Jonathan Edwards was later pastor, and still later Calvin Coolidge was a member. Eight persons are mentioned, evidently a committee, including the minister and Thomas Hanchett. In 1668 he was elected second deacon of the church.

Thomas' son John married Ester Pritchett of Suffield in 1667, (according to Trumbull's "History of Northampton") while at Westfield. (Mrs. Howard C. Raymond, Watertown, Mass. says this Esther or Hesther, was daughter of William, killed by Indians at Brookfield, 1675, whose son, William, was founder of Suffield.) After two children were born at Westfield they removed to Suffield in 1680, where John was freeman and voter at the first town meeting. He held many offices and was deacon for many years. J.B.H. says he was tithing man, fence visor, surveyor, commissioner, and many times selectman. Six children were born at Suffield, after which Esther died Nov. 23, 1711. John's second wife, the widow Mary Harmon, died Sept. 17, 1680, his third wife, the widow Sarah Taylor, d. Jan. 6, 1733. He died Oct. 23, 1744, aged 95, survived by his fourth wife, the widow Mary Southwell.

DR. HULBURT'S LETTER OF MARCH 23, 1940, Cont.

J.B.H. says that John Hanchett 2nd also held town offices. He and his wife Lydia Hayward were married for 54 years.

Your correspondent desires also data concerning Lydia. I cannot connect her positively with those whom I believe to be her ancestors. I should like to give tentative pedigree and to ask your readers to communicate with me concerning every statement which they know to be or not to be correct.

Shattuck's History of Concord, Mass., says George Heaward, whose wife was Mary, came there in 1635. He was drowned Mar. 29, 1671. Mary died 1693. Among their children were John, Joseph born Mar. 26, 1643; Sarah, Hannah, Simeon, George.

William Frederick Adams of Springfield, Mass., has written a book about James Hayward, of the Revolution, in which he says that on Oct. 26, 1665, Joseph married Hannah, daughter of James Hosmer, and March 23, 1676, he married Elizabeth Treadway, whose first husband, Shadrack Hapgood, had been killed by Indians. W.F.A. gives the children of Joseph and Elizabeth as Ebenezer, 1679; James 1681, Simeon 1683, Abiel 1691. Mrs. Raymond, already mentioned, says that between 1683 and 1691 there were born two daughters, Lydia and Prudence. She says they finally removed from Concord to Brookfield and that in all probability at least some of the children went on to Suffield. Lydia Hayward, and two others having the names of children of Joseph, married at Suffield. Mr. William J. Deavitt, Los Angeles, Calif. substantiates this. There are many circumstances which cannot be mentioned here for lack of room, which bear out the hypothesis that this Lydia, said to have been born 1685, is the same as our Lydia, wife of John Hanchett, 2nd, who, my family records say, was born 1683.

The Genealogy of the Families and Descendants of the Early Settlers of Watertown, Mass., by Henry Bond, M. D., 1860, shows that Elizabeth, daughter of Nathaniel Treadway, a weaver, married, second, a Hayward.

The Gregory Stone Genealogy by J. Gardner Bartlett, published by the Stone Family Association, Boston, 1918, shows that Nathaniel Treadway's wife was Suffrance, daughter of Walter Haynes, a weaver, and Elizabeth, his wife. Very truly yours, RGH:LP Ray G. Hulburt.

ANOTHER DR. HULBURT LETTER

Dr. Ray G. Hulburt, writing of Sept. 25, 1940, says: (in part) "My record of the children of John and Esther Hanchett (which he got from Jay B. Hanchett) does not agree with yours. My information is that the children were Esther, born at Westfield, Mass. Aug. 1, 1678, married Samuel Grainger May 16, 1700, died May 20, 1721; John born at Westfield Nov. 16, 1679, married on Feb. 26, 1706/7 to Lydia Hayward (not Haywood) who was born in 1683 and died 1777, he died Oct. 14, 1761; Samuel born at Westfield April 7, 1682, died Sept. 11, 1682; Hannah born at Suffield, Dec. 7, 1683, married in 1706 to Abraham Grainger who died June 7, 1728, and she died Jan. 18, 1707/8; Bathsheba born Suffield May 19, 1685, married Joseph Fuller Sept. 16, 1715; Mehitabel born Jan. 22, 1636/7, died Feb. 12, 1739/40; Ebenezer born Jan. 13, 1688, died in infancy; Deliverance born Aug. 10, 1693, died June 27, 1715; Ebenezer (as you know it was common when one child died young for another child later to receive the same name) born Nov. 22, 1711, died 1795."

Mrs. Jay B. (Bertha) Hanchett writes: "evidently Jonah Hanchett's Family."

CHILDREN OF AMOS HANCHETT, b. 2/16/1738, at Suffield, Conn. and wife, Hannah Hawley, m. 1/1/1761. (Amos Hanchett was a son of Ebenezer Hanchett, 1716-1788, and Sarah (.....), 1715-1787.)

1. Ruth Hanchett, b. 11/29/1761 at Salisbury, Conn. d. Nov. 1839, m. Simon Jaqua, b. 1754-d. 6/25/1825. Judge F. A. Henry of Cleveland, Ohio, is a great-grandson.

NOTE: The Historical Collections of the town of Salisbury make the birth of Ruth as 1761, but Harry Hanchett, son of John, next below, at his death left records showing Ruth to have died Jan. 3, 1854, age 91.

2. John Hanchett; b. 8/28/1764 at Salisbury, Conn. d. 4/24/1837 in New Haven, Vt. m. 1/24/1778, Sylphina Hamlin of Sharon, Conn. She was b. 1756-d. 4/10/1800, mar. by Justice of the Peace Roswell Hopkins of Dutchess Co. New York; m. (2nd) Desire (.....), b. 1774-d. 12/23/1848. He lived in New Haven, Vt. where some of his children were born. All are buried in Evergreen Cemetery there.
3. Reuben Hanchett, b. 3/6/1769, m. Salisbury, Conn. Thought to have lived in the town of Marshall, Oneida Co. N.Y. and died there, in 1805 or 1806 and buried at Hanover Green.

Elias Howe and removed to Ellisburg, Jefferson Co., N.Y. Her sons Daniel Hanchett, Jr. and Silas Hanchett followed soon after. Daniel erected a forge near the center of the town of Marshall in 1801, on the site which was later known as Forge Hollow.
7. Hannah Hanchett, b. 3/5/1778 at Salisbury, Conn.
8. Silas Hanchett, b. 6/20/1780 at Salisbury, Conn. d. 10/29/1848 in the town of Marshall, Oneida Co., m. 5/3/1804, Lydia Daniels a sister of Lovisa Daniels. She was b. 5/14/1785-d. 10/8/1881.
9. Holly Hanchett, b. 1789-d. 1/15/1806 aged 17 years. He and two brothers Daniel and Amos died close together of fever, so states DeAlton Brayton Hanchett a grandson of Daniel.

NOTE: These children of Amos were probably born in Salisbury or near Middlebury, Vt. The charter of Middlebury dated Nov. 2, 1761, granted by Gov. Benning Wentworth of New Hampshire has indorsed upon its back the names of Amos Hanchett and his father Ebenezer Hanchett as applicants for the land covered by the grant. (It is recorded in the Book of Charters at page 278. Theodore Atkinson, Secy.) As all the proprietors (60 in all) lived in Salisbury, the town meetings were held there and Ebenezer was elected selectman and held several other offices. It seems these proprietors did not migrate to Middlebury until 1783. (See History of the town of Middlebury by Samuel Swift published in 1859.).

Benton Hanchett of Saginaw, Mich. was a grandson of Silas Hanchett, 1780-1848. He was a leading attorney and banker and a Regent of the University. He attained the advanced age of 96 years, dying June 24, 1931.

CHILDREN OF JONAH HANCHETT

2. Jonah Hanchett, Jr. m. Anna Pangborn.
3. Esquire (Probably Seth) Hanchett, m. Anna Waite.

(*) Since Ebenezer Hanchett, 1785-1860, married his second wife, Mary Collins, in 1813, (Silas) Howard Hanchett, 1815-1857, must be her son; and William Foster Hanchett, 1812-1872, must be the son of his first wife, Rachel Pangborn.

In the first letter by Mrs. Wright, page HL--1, we see a sentence or question: "Whose son is Frank Hanchett of Jamestown, N.Y." I am sorry I cannot tell if she is asking whose son he is or asserting he is the son of Jonah Hanchett on the line above. There is no question (?) mark.

Note that the name in the last or lowest tier of the Mather Hanchett Chart, in the fourth column is John Jay (Hanchett). The tier above, in the fifth column is Milton Waldo (Hanchett). The omission of the last name, as (Hanchett), in this style of pedigree is a very reprehensible practice. It tends to make errors easier to make, is confusing and sometimes it is impossible to tell just who is meant.

My Dear Mr. Odell:--

Warsaw, New York, Feb. 25, 1941.

In reply to your letter of Dec. 15 will say that I am very glad that I was able to connect you to the Hanchett Line.

If all you have is what you obtained from Mather Hanchett which includes Capt. Oliver's descendants we have that as far down as 1930; also many other lines. While Hanchett is not a common name Deacon Hanchett left many by that name throughout the United States.

There were many in Portage, Ohio. Frank E. Hanchett (*1) was descended from Zacheus Hanchett (1719-1758) and Mary Sikes. His father was L. L. Hanchett, of Jamestown, New York; has been dead several years. He had two sisters there and when a letter to Frank E. Hanchett (*1) was returned Mr. Hanchett ((Mrs. Bertha's husband)) wrote to one of them. I have forgotten her name. She said he was dead and she knew nothing of his wife. She was called Lill. I doubt you ever find his Ms.

Mrs. Everingham's mother was Mary Drake, was 92 about 1932. Mrs. Everingham was admitted to the DAR through Capt. Oliver, but is a descendant of Capt. Luke. I believe she corrected it, I believe their address was Teal Ave., Syracuse.

Mr. Hanchett gave the Syracuse Library all the Hanchett Gene. he had. I hope I have given you the information you desire. I know my husband would have enjoyed corresponding with you.

I am enclosing a (*2) Chart of my husband's family and wishing you success in your task I am, Very Truly Yours, Bertha Hanchett.

*1. See F. E. Hanchett, mentioned in RFO-, under Mary Collins.

*2. This Chart is incorporated in the JBH sheets added to the Mather Hanchett Chart.

In looking over these letters I am reminded of the fact that most queries which I had in my first copies have disappeared because many doubtful points have been cleared up by some of our Odells to whom they were submitted. The name Phidelia, in another place Fidelia. The latter spelling is favored by some. I don't think those differences in spelling mean anything just so we recognize it is the same person in each case. Re Roxy Ann and Zada Ann, I have not been able to arrive at any satisfactory explanation in that regard. "Roxy Ann Hanchett" (with one T) is given in Grandfather RFO's Bible so we must stick by that. "Roxy Ann" also appears on several legal documents discovered by Mr. Haacker. On the other hand we have the written word of Miss Lucy E. Warner, her daughter, that her mother's name was "Zada Ann". I wrote to several genealogists asking if it was common to give the same second name to living children and received only one reply, that it was not. There are many conclusions that one can draw from a study of these letters. I leave that to the reader. Mrs. March and Mrs. Leach both remember Fidelia, as being visited by Grandma Roxy Ann in South Dakota, but no one of our living people seem to have ever seen her. From Lucy Warner we learn that Aunt Alzina was never married, and from Mrs. March that Eleanor (Ellen) and Rachael are the same person.

My Dear Kinsman:

Red Boy, Oregon, May 18, 1910

You will no doubt be rather surprised to hear from me in the far Northwest, but I was offered a good position out here had to take it at once or not at all so I made the trip, arriving here a week ago today.

Am away up in the Blue Mountains about 6,000 feet above sea level, quite cold up here. Mercury stood at 19° this morning, frost every night, had fall of 2½" of snow here Thursday night. This is an isolated plant, 26 miles from the R.R. and 6 miles from a town, but very pleasant otherwise.

Had a very pleasant trip, stopped off at Chicago and Denver for a day each and saw some Hanchetts at both places. Had quite a visit with Fred. H. in Denver. He looks much like you in some respects.

The hunting and fishing out here is fine; deer, bear, and cougar, pheasants, grouse, squirrels & rabbits plentiful, and at the lake, where we get our water supply for power, 1,000 feet higher up in the mountains, the trout are thick and easily caught, run from 7 to 15 inches in length and fine eating.

Am much pleased with the place, have good cottage near the power house and think my wife will enjoy a summer out here. I expect her in about two weeks, and will go to Baker City, 56 miles, to meet her; from there we take the Sumpter Valley R.R. a narrow gauge lumber road, to Sumpter, 31 miles. There the Co. team will meet us and bring us out here.

Don't believe I care to stay out here in winter as they tell me the only way of getting in and out is on snow shoes or skis and that it is necessary to lay in enough supplies by Nov. 15th to last to May 1st for no teams can get here during that time. The air up here is clear and pure, finest spring water close to cottage and I believe that both myself and wife will be much benefitted in health if we spend the summer here.

I can go in to Baker City in the employ of the same Co. if I desire to do so but shall wait before deciding until Mrs. H. has the chance to see the place and let her decide for I feel that she is the one to be suited for she has faithfully nursed me through my illness all winter and has seen little pleasure and I want to make everything as pleasant as I can for her now for she is a jewell and I feel that I can't do too much for her, and the man who gets a good wife now-a-days can consider himself mighty lucky and should show his appreciation by doing everything for her comfort and happiness.

I have turned all the genealogical work over to her and she is carrying it on and we hope to practically finish the American Lines this year, and we hope, the English connections also. This matter is now in the hands of Hardy & Page, professional genealogists of London, and we hope to have their report soon.

I have heard from Levi Pangborn Hanchett and Jno. Clifford, also Elbert E, all sons of Wm. Foster, but have not all of their lines complete yet. Am trying to find out what became of the genealogy that Ebenezer, the ~~grand~~father of Jonah was supposed to have had, that recorded the line back to England, but none of them seem to know anything about such a record and it may have been only a rumor without any real foundation, but I am anxious to establish this fact if it be so.

Regarding that St. Lawrence branch, I have concluded that Chas. and John must have been sons of either Reuben, son of Amos: or of Seth the brother of Zacheus. These two seem to be the only real possibilities and we know but little of Reuben and practically nothing of Seth.

My opportunities for library research are now entirely cut off and I am dependent on your efforts to dig this out.

I have never heard from Mrs. Josie Wright from Oklahoma although I wrote her and sent her some blanks to fill out and shall try again. All of Jonas descendants seem to have and still are following the farming line. I had quite a letter from Elbert E. also from Jno. Clifford, and expect to get the data soon. They are both looking up old records for me. Levi P. who lives up in Michigan is in poor health, so his wife wrote me and I judge in poor circumstances, also they have quite a family. I had one letter from Philemon but have been unable to get any further word from him and shall write him again. I sent him a lot of blanks to fill out and he may be getting these in shape to send me, hope so anyhow. There are several Lines of which I have but meagre information and as soon as Mrs. H. gets here and I can do so, will go over my records and let you know what Lines are missing.

At Sumpter, Oregon, I met a man, a Mr. Dygert, who was intimately acquainted with Miles Hanchett, (who married Phoebe Marshall,) years ago. They were both Wells Fargo Express messengers out of St. Louis to Texarkana. He told me much of Miles but did not know if he were living now or not. (He is dead but I don't know when or where.) Miles is a brother (I believe) of Erastus of Honeoye Falls. I received, the day I left Jamestown, a letter from Erastus son, Fred.C. several sheets of record from the old family Bible which gave me a lot of valuable data of that Line, (Hiram, son of Joseph.) I am located right in the heart of the Gold Mining district and shall spend part of my spare time in working the gravel in a creek bed just above us as there is gold there and in paying quantities and needs only the work to get it out. Shall build a sluice box and see what I can mine out this summer if I stay out here.

Two "Chinks" washed out from $300 to $400 apiece there last summer using only a pan so I think if I put up a sluice box and riffles I can take out considerable gold, which will pay me to do and let Mrs. H. attend to the genealogical work.

Shall be glad to hear from you whenever you have the time and hope that our combined efforts may succeed in closing some of the gaps in the records.

Thanking you for many past courtesies and with best wishes to you and yours, I am Cordially yours, (Signed) Frank E. Hanchett

"THEIR DIAMOND DAY

"Joseph Hanchett

"Couple married 75 years celebrate on March 5, Iona, Mich. Feb. 28, 1931.

"Three-quarters of a century of matrimonial happiness, broken only by four years separation, during the Civil War, will be celebrated next Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hanchett of Bushnell Township, Montcalm Co. The anniversary will be observed at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Marshall Sherd.

"The advanced years that, not so long ago, caused the Hanchetts to leave their own farm home and go to live with their only surviving child, have been unkind to them. Mr. Hanchett, now 96 years old, is nearly blind, and his hearing has become impaired. His wife is 91, also has found her vision fading until she no longer can sew or read. Her hearing however, has not been affected.

" 'They can hardly talk together any more, but she is near him always, and waits on him constantly,' Mrs. Sherd said of her parents.

"It was in 1855 that Mr. Hanchett came to Michigan from New York State to claim land offered by the government. 'Central Michigan then' he said, 'was a wilderness.' A year later he married Miss Angeline Husker, who had settled near Bushnell, with her parents, when they left her birth place at Lenawee Co.

"The Hanchetts had to cut a road to their farm home, and oxen were used to haul their possessions. The progress of Michigan, in the 76 years he has been here, is the most amazing thing in Mr. Hanchett's memory. 'What was a wilderness has become a garden spot,' he declared.

"The automobile, Mrs. Hanchett believes, has brought the greatest progress she has seen.

" 'We used to get up before dawn, have breakfast by candle light, and drive oxen over almost impossible roads to church' she said. 'Services lasted several hours, and in the evening we started home. It was hard but worth it. Now the automobile carries in less than an hour the distance that oxen could not cover in a day -- but because of the automobile people don't seem to find time to go to church,'

"When the Civil War broke out, Hanchett left his bride and enlisted. Ten other men from the vicinity also joined. He served throughout the war, most of the time under General Thomas. The last of the 'Eleven Veterans' Mr. Hanchett now calls himself 'the old soldiers of Bushnell'. Each year the descendants of his comrades send flowers to the Hanchetts on their wedding anniversary, and call and wish them well.

"Mr. Hanchett was the oldest of nine children. Two sisters now survive. They are: Mrs. Mary E. Drake, of Syracuse, N.Y., now 90 years old; and Mrs. Lottie Leach, of Palo, who is 81. The Hanchett's son, Irving, died in 1881.

"Besides the daughter, Mrs. Sherd, the Hanchetts have six grandchildren, most of whom will help them observe their Diamond Jubilee."

NOTE IN HANDWRITING OF JAY BUSH HANCHETT:

"Joseph Hanchett was son of Isaac Hanchett and grandson of Joseph Thompson Hanchett and great grandson of Luke Hanchett."

Automobile parked along side but still has several hitching posts in front of the cement sidewalk. H.A.O.

Big Rapids, Mich. Apr. 26, 1901

Mr. J. B. Hanchett
Syracuse, N. Y.

Dear Sir: Your Letter to Hiram Joseph Hanchett rec'd this day, the writer is a son and will answer your questions as far as possible, but I fear will not help you much from what you know now. We are not very well posted on the Hanchetts beyond Dr. Luther Hanchett.

Dr. Luther H. used to tell his children that two Hanchett brothers came over from Wales and settled in the east. (We think it was Connecticut). We are the direct descendants of one of them. What became of the other we do not know. Dr. Luther's father lived somewhere in New York State, think his name was Joseph. Dr. Luther did live in Middlebury, Ohio, in 1815. Hiram Joseph was born there Oct. 6, 1816. Dr. Luther was an Army Physician in 1812, one place he was stationed was (Sorven?) Sandusky (now Fremont) his 2nd wife was buried there.

Dr. Luther had three own brothers and two half brothers. They were, commencing oldest: Elijah, then the Dr. Luther, then Joseph, then Hiram: half brothers were: Bryant and Seth.

Bryant Hanchett died at Quincy, Mich. last year. A letter there to his widow might lead to the information you want.

Seth Hanchett lived and died near Detroit and has sons living there now. Mrs. Bryant Hanchett could give you their address. It would be well to find out what they know.

I can give you something of the history of the descendants of Dr. Luther Hanchett and of his brother Elijah, Joseph and Hiram, if you want it. Would be glad to hear from you again if I can be of any service to you. Let us know when you get your Pamphlets out, we want some of them.

Yours fraternally, (Signed) Volney H. Hanchett. over.

P.S. Father says his father (Dr. Luther) was born in Connecticut and so was his mother, (Dr. Luther's 3rd wife.)

This letter on the letter head of "Junius T. Hanchett, Attorney at Law, 237 Fulton Street, New York City."

New York, May 8th, 1910.

Mr. Jay B. Hanchett, 247 Baker Ave.
Syracuse, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Hanchett:- I thought I would drop you a line to tell you how much pleased I was to receive your call a day or two ago. It is not often one meets with a member of the family who is a thoroughly good genealogical investigator and although I had of course heard of you repeatedly through Frank E. Hanchett, it was not the same as seeing you face to face.

I was especially interested in what you told me of the tradition in the family of Jonah touching the English connection. If the tradition is well founded and not simply a distorted version of statements already put out from late sources of a chancery estate, it is of the most importance because it points to the Arkesden Line of Hanchetts as the one we come from, since the Chancery estate comes in on that line. That has been my idea of the origin now for several months for other reasons, and I told you I expected last week to get final word on the subject from the English record agents. It did not come then but will be in hand very soon and I hope will clear up the whole matter.

In Frank's absence I have written Mrs. Hanchett asking her to take up the matter of this tradition with you so as to get it in the best possible shape for my records, and she will no doubt write to you this week. I owe it to Frank Hanchett to do it in this way, for we have been careful not to interrupt each other's correspondence. I have written Mrs. Hanchett of your call and told her that I would leave it to her and simply write and thank you for calling. The English work has been my particular task and this you have told me interests me very intimately. The Jonah Line Frank E. Hanchett has promised me although he has been very busy and not sent it as yet.

I should be glad to have you call again and perhaps you would be interested to look over my notes which are very voluminous as to both English and American data. I am especially strong on the period prior to the revolution and although the notes could be polished to advantage it is not likely that there will be much added by way of new information.

If I find the connecting link which I have great hopes of doing in the batch of wills coming from England next week I shall communicate at once to Mrs. F. E. Hanchett and ask especially that she pass the word along to you. I beg to remain, Cordially yours, (Signed) Junius T. Hanchett

NOTE: Taking a cue from the reference to F. E. Hanchet, Genealogist, 4401 Fourth Ave. in South Brooklyn, I called there and found, as I expected, no one knew or ever heard of him, (he went to Red Boy, Oregon), but following up with my usual persistence, I took the slim chance to find some of the record he had compiled; so went to the nearest Methodist Church and found nothing of him but did locate Mr. Mather Hanchett at his mother-in-law's home and found he had a Genealogy of his family, the Chart of which he very kindly allowed me to photostat. He said it was given him by his father, who had only this one copy made. It is part of a book of large proportions, impossible for me to copy in its entirety. I am very sorry this is so because it may thus be lost to the world and it confirms what is in the Chart, also, no doubt, clears up much that J.B.H. and others tried to find out. The reference figures on the Chart: 76, 95, 82, 70, refer to pages in this book. Next an article in the Hartford, Conn. "Times", July 13, 1940, appeared and all this Hanchett data came from this start. Of course Mrs. J.B.H., Mrs. White and Dr. Hulburt have added their considerable parts, for all of which we must be very grateful. H.A.O.

I BELIEVE IT IS NOT A GOOD THING BUT IF I WAS IN LOVE WITH A COUSIN I DON'T THINK I WOULD DO DIFFERENT. PROBABLY IF NOT CONTINUED TOO OFTEN IN A FAMILY IT WOULD HAVE NO ILL EFFECT. H.A.O.

ON THE BACK OF THIS SHEET IS THE FOLLOWING IN TYPEWRITING--RED INK.

Charles went to Upper Canada at Norwich, where he started a saw mill and where he met his death by drowning in his own Millpond, after which his wife, with the two sons, Hiram Solon and George Washington, returned to the States and probably to St.Law.Co.going from there to Sullivan,Ind. and from there to Woodstock, Ill. from which place the remainder of the family scattered.

Hiram Solon was a Capt. in the 9th Ills.Cavalry, was taken prisoner just before the close of the war and sent to a prison in Alabama and was never heard from again. He was commissioned Major but the commission never reached him.

The birth of the Charles mentioned, given as Sept.5,1792, is in a period of which we have little authentic records and is therefore hard to trace but the records of the St.Law.Co. ought to show something and should be thoroughly searched. New York, February, 1910.

To the Kinsfolk of the American Hanchett Family:

Dear Bretheren--In the following I give a summary of the work done by me and my collaborators upon the English Genealogy of our family.

THE PROBLEM.

The problem is two-fold. First, to find the connection of Deacon Thomas Hanchett, our common ancestor, with the English Family of that name, Second, To Trace back the English pedigree as far as possible.

The first part of the problem is still unaccomplished. The second part, work upon the ancient English origin of the family has gone forward with some very pleasing successes.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

The Hanchett family is more fortunate than many of the other American families in search for their English tie, for while many families in England are found in multiplicity of lines, widely scattered over the whole kingdom, with many unrelated groups, the Hanchett family in England is a unit, small numerically and compact geographically, and the common relationship of all the different branches is very apparent. Thus we are not confronted with a host of names on the one hand or with the necessity for exploring the records of the whole kingdom on the other. We may say with considerable confidence that at the time of the birth of Deacon Thomas Hanchett, all the Hanchetts in existence could be found within a fifty mile circle having for its center the point of junction of the three counties of Cambridge, Herts and Essex, thus the work now being done is not irrelevant ramblings which new discoveries might render obsolete but is a direct dealing with our own ancestry, albeit we are at present ignorant of the exact number of our connections.

It should be generally known, if not already, that all American Hanchetts descend from Deacon Thomas Hanchett, who first appears as the owner of a house lot in Wethersfield, in the Massachusetts Bay Colony (now Connecticut) in 1642. He must have been a very young man at that time, probably about 21, and had probably been here for several years before this first notice. ((Since both the Mather Hanchett chart and JBH himself say he was born in 1610, he must have been 31 at that time, a more reasonable supposition, and he was not so young. HAO.)) There was also a John Hanchett of Roxbury and Boston, who was here as early as 1634. John's line died out in the second generation as to male issue of the name Hanchett, and he is interesting to us chiefly from the fact that we suppose him to have been brother to Deacon Thomas.

That these two Hanchetts were Englishmen is not open to doubt. All the colonists of New England at that time were English, and even should we admit of the possibility of exceptions, further facts place the matter beyond doubt. Both were Puritans and Deacon Thomas was founder and deacon of the celebrated church at Northampton. They spoke the language of England and took part in the public affairs, thoroughly identifying themselves with the rest. They had English Christian names themselves and named their children in the same style. Lastly, but not least, they bore the English surname of Hanchet, for as we shall presently see the name Hanchet is exclusively an English name. Thus we have to look for our ancestry to England.

THE NAME HANCHETT.

The writer has experienced, and doubtless it is the common experience of us all, that the stranger is apt to view the name Hanchett as French, doubtless on account of the ending (ett) which is a common one in France, and perhaps also because he has heard the somewhat similar name of Hachette which is purely French. This supposition however, becomes thoroughly routed when it is learned that the ending of "et" was attached to the name in England and that too after the family had been there certainly for over two hundred years. Before the year 1400 the family had went by the name of Hanchache, but in the year 1392 the then head of the family was beheaded for treason on account of having taken part in an insurrection and his estates were forfeited to the crown.

Very likely this disruptive event may have led to the changes, at any rate the Hanchetts thereafter generally used the name in its present form. The name "de Hanchache" is, of course, Norman which itself implies a French intermixture. In that sense all Englishmen are of French descent and the Norman origin of the Hanchetts does not qualify the purity of their English blood.

THE NAME HANCHACHE.

As just noted the name was originally Hanchache and this statement is not loose guesswork but established fact. This is made clearly evident by the fact that for about a century after the change in name Hanchache was occasionally used by prominent Hanchetts interchangeable with the modernized form. Thus Thomas Hanchet, of Bedford, the head of the family in his day, and a wealthy and prominent man, is referred to also as Thomas Hanchech, and again as late as 1516 in a deed James Hanchech is described as son of John Hanchet. The places of residence and the land holdings of the Hanchaches are the same as those of the Hanchetts and the coat of armor is the same. The fact is so patent that it is recognized by compilers of records who index the Hanchache references under the name of Hanchet. I may add also that my two English Correspondence are in no manner of doubt upon the subject.

THE HANCHETT ARMS.

The characteristic form of the Hanchett arms is,--Sable, three right hands couped at the wrist, argent, 2-1, or in everyday parlance the arms are displayed as three right hands in white upon a black shield. The form varies a little with different branches. Sometimes the hands are depicted as lefts and sometimes as gauntlets. The crest is not a mark of the family as the arms are but is the embellishment of some member. We know but one, that of the Braughin Hanchetts, consisting of a sun shining upon a sunflower. The memorial window at Bulter's Manor dating about 1600, depicts the arms of Hanchet quartered with those of Montifichet, showing connection by marriage although the connection of the two families extends back as far as 1150. ((Richard de Montfichet was one of the Magna Charta Sureties, see Browning's Magna Charta Barons, p. 83. H.A.O.))

SPELLING OF THE NAME.

Spelling of proper names in the days of old was no fixed quantity. Sound is safer guide than orthography. Even in this country the name of Hanchet is found misspelled in all imaginable ways, the most radical departure being Hanset, which was used by both Deacon Thomas and his supposed brother. For the first five generations in this country the name was spelled with a single T, but after that and today the general usage has been the double TT. In England we find the single T more common than the double T, although that too is frequently met with before 1600. In England today both forms are used.

The first of the year was a very successful one for the company. The sales were up to the mark and the profits were also good. The management was very efficient and the employees were very hard working. The company was very lucky to have such a good year.

The second of the year was also a very successful one. The sales were up to the mark and the profits were also good. The management was very efficient and the employees were very hard working. The company was very lucky to have such a good year.

The third of the year was also a very successful one. The sales were up to the mark and the profits were also good. The management was very efficient and the employees were very hard working. The company was very lucky to have such a good year.

The fourth of the year was also a very successful one. The sales were up to the mark and the profits were also good. The management was very efficient and the employees were very hard working. The company was very lucky to have such a good year.

The name Hanchache was even more grotesquely handled than its successor. I find Hanchache, Hanchich, Hanchech, Hansleg, Hancchacche, Handchicks, and in one of the earliest notices, Haustach. The spelling Hauchache is, I think, the fault of the copyist, the written "n" being mistaken for "u". The Successful deciphering of ancient script is not an easy matter and very likely the abnormal Haustach is partly due to bad reading of a poor text. The preposition "de" or "de Hanchache" is commonly met with in the Norman times but passed out of currency with the change in general usage in this respect.

GENEALOGICAL SKETCH

The genealogy of the family is conveniently classified according to geographical locations.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE,

Shody Camps. The earliest location of the family of which we have record is at the little parish of Shody Camps, which is in the extreme southern portion of Cambridgeshire, very near to the point of junction of that county with the contiguous counties of Essex and Suffolk. This was their seat for several centuries. The earliest reference is to Henric de Haustach, who held the parish in 1150 of Richard de Muntfitchet. The next record is considerably later in 1273, the year of the death of Thomas de Hansheg, who left his son and heir, Henry. This Henry is very like the same as Henry de Hanccheck of 1264.

We then come upon a very full record of the administration proceedings settling the estate of William de Hanchache, who died in 1310 and left numerous holdings at Shody Camps. I have the text of the inquisition post mortem, as it is called, in the original Latin and it refers to his son Thomas aged 15 years. My next record is of the unfortunate John de Hanchache already mentioned as having been beheaded. He left three sons: William, John and Henry. This event seemed to have scattered the family a little and we do not hear of them again at Shody Camps until 1516 when James Hanchech, son of John Hanchet was party in a real estate transfer there. Mr. A. H. Johnson writes us that two or three miles from Shody Camps there is today a small modern farmhouse that goes by the name of Hanchet Hall, and that a corner of the road not far off is called Hanchet End. The secretary of the owner was unable to attribute a reason for these names.

We have great reason to be interested in the ancient Shody Camps Hanchets for they are probably our own ancestors.

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE.

About the time of the disaster in Cambridge the Hanchets appear in the county of Bucks, and I may record that as late as 1600 this short removal was yet their most remote removal from the early seat of the family. The name is now Hanchet. About 1400 Andrew Hanchet, or Hanchyt, Gentleman, purchased the manors of Caldcote and Willen in Buckinghamshire and established a new family seat. He died shortly after, leaving his minor son, John, his heir. The Bucks estates remained in the family for nearly 150 years and were finally sold about 1540 by John Hanchet to one White. We also get some notices of the intermediate holders.

BEDFORDSHIRE.

The most notable of the descendants of Andrew Hanchet was Thomas de Hanchet, also called Hanchech. Besides the Bucks estates he held valuable estate in Bedfordshire and was one of the richest men of the county. Bedfordshire lies between Bucks and Herts and is an indication of the progress of the family in the direction of their ancient seat at Shody Camps. This Thomas Hanchet was the one whose coat of armor shows the left hands though right hands appear upon those of his descendants. This Thomas de Hanchech died in 1509 leaving his son William Hanchet.

SIR:

HERTFORDSHIRE

William Hanchet, just named, is the first we definitely know to have been a Letchworth Hall Hanchet. The Hanchets had been in Hertford as early as 1450 but the location of William at Letchworth Hall is the first positive evidence we have of the definite establishment of a family seat in Hertfordshire. The Manor of Letchworth in the parish of that name, was also called Montfitchet, the Montifitchets having been early proprietors. It will be remembered that the Montifitchets were with the Hanchaches at Shody Camps, and this new recurrence of the two names in conjunction may indicate a prolonged relationship. This William also had another Manor of Montfitchet in Wallington. He also had at his death the Manor of Caldecote in Bucks, originally purchased there by Andrew Hanchet. William's son Andrew, a child of tender years, died there two years after the death of the father, the father having died in 1513,. The second son, John, came into these estates, and is, I think, the same John who was owner of the Manor of Gatesbury nearby, which he made his seat. I have a picture of Letchworth Hall and am expecting shortly to receive a much better one, which I intend to have copied and sent to the contributors to the fund. ((Is in photostat.H.A.O.)) I cannot state at present that the present hall or any part of it was standing at the time of the Hanchet occupation but there is good prospects that this is so. The present building is over 300 years old and I hope that it will be found that parts of it are still older.

THE BRAUGHIN HANCHETT.

John Hanchet of Gatesbury is accepted by the English correspondents and me to be the father of the first Thomas Hanchet of Braughin. The Braughin Hanchetts upheld the best traditions of the family and were evidently of considerable means. The daughters married into the nobility and the most distinguished Hanchet became Sheriff of Hertford and erected in 1600 the first Manor House of Uphall, a picture of which is enclosed with this sketch. ((Also shown, see photostat. H.A.O.)) The Braughin line more especially interests us because they were the only Hanchetts who were at all numerous at the period of critical interest to us, viz: the emigration in the 1630ties. To Braughin and the parishes in the vicinity our most careful search has been directed. From Braughin the family removed to Hinxworth and became less conspicuous.

ESSEX.

The Hanchetts were also numerous in Essex the county adjoining Hertford and were located on the one hand not far from Braughin and on the other hand not far from Shody Camps. The principal names of places are Christhall and Arkesden. They become numerous about the time we lose trace of the Braughin Hanchetts and very likely come from there. They do not interest us greatly because they appear a shade too late to have included any ancestors of Deacon Thomas among them.

CAMBRIDGE.

About 1600 we again find traces of Hanchetts in Cambridge, at Ickleton not far from Shody Camps. They are a little too late to be of interest to us but the line may go farther back than present knowledge has developed. A. E. Johnson, my correspondent, is of this line.

SOCIAL STATUS.

The Hanchetts of whom we have just been speaking belonged to the class called gentlemen, that is to say, they were neither of the nobility nor of the yeomanry, but were higher than yeomen and less than the nobles of rank. They were landed proprietors, wore coat armor, and were entitled to be called Arminger, Esquire or Gentlemen. They were the chief men of the parish and in the earliest times held court in the Manor houses.

The Hanchetts of this rank were of sufficient importance to be recorded in permanent records. Doubtless there were others of the family who were less conspicuous and whose names do not appear in any record, but who might with an equal probability be ancestors of Deacon Thomas. The presence of the latter lines around 1600 without known ancestors warns us that this is so. Still it is certain that the family was very limited as to number even in those later years. In fact, at any stage prior to the emigration there was not more than the merest handful.

PAST DISAPPOINTMENTS.

It was thought at the time of the circular letter that the original shipping list of Deacon Thomas had been found, and in fact this supposed discovery was the chief stimulus to the proposed research. Then I learned more details of the find. I found that the evidence was by no means sufficient to justify the high hopes that had been built by the English correspondent. The name on the list was not Hanchet but Hatchet and had the vessel been bound for New England even the misspelling could not have deprived the item of most serious consideration. The shipment was, however, to Virginia, and to the mistake of name was added the fact of the two colonies and the vast difference between the thoughts and customs of the Puritan New Englanders and the conformist Virginians. While the note is still to borne in mind it is badly in need of further corroboration.

((This same story has been copied and circulated about the Odell family, in spite of contrary data which is true beyond all doubt. I think it is a deliberate effort to discredit the New England ancestry of both families. It would be interesting to look for this story elsewhere. In the Odell case it was accompanied by a second circular of scurrilous implication and innuendo of absolutely no relevance. The way these things are put out and the fact that they breathe deliberate falsehood in part should be conclusive that they are false as a whole. H.A.O.))

FUTURE WORK.

The work of the immediate future will be the records of wills upon which we need and will have to employ more expert help than that of George S. Hanchett. This is a most important field of enquiry and is likely to prove more fruitful. The tracing of lines in England is far different from here. There are very few parish registers and these are not at all full when found and rarely state parentage. Deeds and wills are the best evidence and the hardest to get at long range.

THE FUND.

Less than twenty five dollars of the fund has been so far spent but the new work will be much more expensive. However, it is not anticipated that more will be needed.

With thanks to all who have assisted with money, or active cooperation, or both, and hoping that the above will serve as an interesting skeleton outline which may be elaborated with future reports, I remain

With friendly regards,

Jamestown, N. Y.

THE NAME AND FAMILY OF ODELL

The surname ODELL is said to be derived from a parish of that name in Bedfordshire, England, which was originally called Wodhull, from its location on a hill covered with trees or woods. The surname is found on ancient records in the various spellings of Wodhull, Wahull, Woodhull, Wadhull, Wadhulle, Waddell, Woddell, Wadehelle, Odehull, Odill, Odle, and Odell, of which Woodhull (with which the present paper is not concerned) and Odell are the forms most commonly used in America today.

Families of the name of Odell in its variant forms were to be found at early dates in the English Counties of Bedford, Oxford, Warwick, Northampton, Buckingham, Surrey, Hertford, Middlesex, and London, as well as in various parts of Ireland. It appears that the early bearers of the name were of the landed gentry and yeomanry of Great Britain.

Among the earliest records of the name in England are those of Walter Flandrensis de Wahull, a Flemish Baron of

The total number of the Society's churches, in the United States, was 11, and in the West Indies, 2. Bedfordshire in the time of William the Conqueror, who was probably the ancestor of the entire family; Walter de Wahull, of Oxfordshire, in 1273; John and Walter de Wadhulle, of Bedfordshire, about the same time; and Fowke or Fouke, Baron Woodhull or Odell, of Oxfordshire, in the latter fifteenth century, who was the father by his wife, Anne Newenham, of Nicholas, Laurence, and Thomas, of whom the first settled in Northamptonshire and the second resided in Oxfordshire, where he had issue by his wife, Alice or Elizabeth Hall, of Fowke or Fouke, who married Alice Wicliffe or Weekly and was the father by her of Leonard, Thomas, William, Isabell, and Anne, of whom the first married Elizabeth Reve and was the father of Anthony, who married Mary Hales and had issue by her of Anthony, Richard, and Mary.

Other early records of the name in Great Britain include Thomas Odell, of St. Buttolphes, England, who died about 1624; George Odell, who died about 1647, and his brother John Wodell or Odell; the brothers Abraham, Thomas, and Henry Odell, of whom the last was the father of a son named Thomas; John Odell, of Northamptonshire, before 1650, who had a son named Richard; John Odell, of County Limerick, Ireland, in the latter seventeenth century, descendent of an English line of the family, who was the father of Thomas,

Odell

Fitzmaurice, and John; and Charles and Edward, brothers of John of County Limerick.

Charles Odell, of County Limerick, above mentioned, who died in 1683, was the ancestor of the line of Odell of Carriglea, County Waterford, Ireland. His son Charles married in 1678 Anne, daughter of Sir Richard Osborne, by whom he had issue of John Osborne Odell, who married Frances Power and had issue by her of Richard, Pierce, Isabella, and Grizel, of whom Richard married in 1743 Isabella Radcliffe and left issue.

Although it is not known in every case from which of the several lines of the family in England and Ireland the first emigrants of the name to America were descended, it is generally deemed probable that most, if not all, of the Odells derive from a common ancestor of a remote period.

Probably the first of the name in America was William Odell, who came from Bedfordshire, England, to Concord, Mass., before 1639. He later removed to Southampton, Long Island, N.Y., and thence to Fairfield, Conn., about 1644. His children were William, James, John, and Rebecca. Among his descendants were Benjamin Barker Odell, of New York, and Jonathan Odell, of New Jersey, further mentioned below.

William, eldest son of the immigrant William, resided at Rye, N.Y. By his wife, a Miss Vowles, he had issue of John, Samuel, Hackaliah, Isaac, Jonathan, Stephen, and Michael.

Odell

John, son of the immigrant William, had issue by his wife, Joanna Walker, of John, Samuel, Hannah, Deborah, and Mary.

About 1640 one William Wodell, many of whose descendants adopted the Odell form of the name, settled at Portsmouth, R.I. By his wife Mary he had issue of Mary, Gershom, Sarah, Frances, and Alice.

Gershom, son of William of Thode Island, had issue by his wife, Mary Tripp, of six children, Gershom, William, Richard, Return, Ruth, and Mary.

There is record that one Henry Odell settled in Westmoreland County, Va., in 1654, but no information is available as to his immediate family or descendants, if any.

Reginald Odell, who was residing at Boston, Mass., sometime before 1687, had issue by his wife Priscilla of Reginald, Samuel (died young), Thomas, Samuel, and William.

The numerous offspring of these lines of the family and of others of more recent establishment in America have scattered throughout the forty-eight States and have contributed by their lives and deeds to the advancement of American civilization. Described on the whole as a vigorous, serious-minded, and enterprising race, possessed in many instances of intellectual ability, the Odells have been successful as public officials, businessmen and manufacturers, and members of the learned professions.

Among those of the name who served in the War of the Revolution were Captain John, of Connecticut; Ichabod, Samuel, and James, of Massachusetts; Daniel, George, Henry, and Joshua, of New York; and others from the other original American States.

Walter, Fowke or Fouke, Thomas, Anthony, Henry, William, Charles, Richard, James, John, Reginald, and Gershom are some of the Christian names which have been most favored by past generations of the family for their male offspring.

The following are a few of the many representatives of the family who have distinguished themselves in America in comparatively recent times:

Arthur Lee Odell (b. 1877), of Missouri, Presbyterian clergyman.

Benjamin Barker Odell (1854-1926), of New York, businessman, public official, Congressman from New York, and Governor of that State.

George Clinton Odell (b. 1866), of New York, educator and author.

Jacob Odell (1756-1846), of New York, brigadier general in the Revolutionary War and State legislator.

Jonathan Odell (1737-1818), of New Jersey, physician, surgeon in the British army, clergyman, poet, and Loyalist during the Revolutionary War.

Moses Fowler Odell (1818-1866), of New York, customhouse clerk, public appraiser, Navy agent, and Congressman from New York.

Paul Edwin Odell (b. 1870), of Vermont, railway official.

William Robert Odell (b. 1855), of North Carolina, cotton manufacturer.

Probably the best-known coat of arms of the Odells is that which is described in heraldic terms as follows (Burke, General Armory, 1884):

Arms.--"Argent, three crescents gules."

Crest.--"An eagle displayed gules."

WHY YOU HAVE A FAMILY NAME AND WHAT IT MEANS

Primitive personal names doubtless originated soon after the invention of spoken language, in the dark ages long preceding recorded history. For thousands of years thereafter first or given names were the only designations that men and women bore; and at the dawn of historic times, when the world was less crowded than it is today and every man knew his neighbor, one title of address was sufficient. Only gradually, with the passing centuries and the increasing complexity of civilized society, did a need arise for more specific designations. While the roots of our system of family names may be traced back to early civilized times, actually the hereditary surname as we know it today dates from scarcely more than nine hundred years ago.

A surname is a name added to a baptismal or given name for the purposes of making it more specific and of indicating family relationship or descent. Classified according to origin, most surnames fall into four general groups: (1) those formed from the given name of the sire; (2) those arising from bodily or personal characteristics; (3) those derived from locality or place of residence; and (4) those derived from occupation. It is easier to understand the story of the development of our institution of surnames if these classifications are borne in mind.

As early as Biblical times certain distinguishing appellations were occasionally employed in addition to the given name. as, for instance, Joshua the son of Nun, Azariah the son of Nathan, Judas of Galilee, and Simon the Zealot. In ancient Greece a daughter was named after her father, as Chryseis, daughter of Chryses; and a son's name was often an enlarged form of his father's, as Hieronymus, son of Hiero. The Romans, with the rise of their civilization, met the need for hereditary designations by inventing a complex system whereby every patrician took several names. None of them, however, exactly corresponded to surnames as we know them, for the "clan name", although hereditary, was given also to slaves and other dependents. This system proved to be but a temporary innovation; the overthrow of the Western Empire by barbarian invaders brought about its end and a reversion to the primitive custom of a single name.

The ancient Scandinavians and for the most part the Germans had only individual names, and there were no family names, strictly speaking, among the Celts. But as family and tribal groups grew in size, individual names became inadequate and the need for supplementary designations began to be felt. Among the first employed were such terms as the Hardy, the Stern, the Dreadful-in-Battle; and the nations of northern Europe soon adopted the practice of adding the father's name to the son's, as Oscar son of Carnuth and Dermid son of Duthno.

True surnames, in the sense of hereditary appellations, date in England from about the year 1000. Largely they were introduced from Normandy, although there are records of Saxon surnames prior to the Norman Conquest. During the reign of Edward the Confessor (1042-1066) there were Saxon tenants in Suffolk bearing such names as Suert Magno, Stigand Soror, Siuward Rufus, and Leuric Hobbesune (Hobson); and the Domesday record of 1085-1086, which exhibits some curious combinations of Saxon forenames with Norman family names, shows surnames in still more general use. By the end of the twelfth century hereditary names had become common in England. But even by 1465 they were not universal. During the reign of Edward V a law was passed to compel certain Irish outlaws to adopt surnames: "They shall take unto them a Surname, either of some Town, or some Colour, as Blacke or Brown, or some Art or Science, as Smyth or Carpenter, or some Office, as Cooke or Butler." And as late as the beginning of the nineteenth century a similar decree compelled Jews in Germany and Austria to add a German surname to the single names that they had previously used.

As stated above, family names fall into four general classes according to their origin. One of these classes comprises surnames derived from the given name of the father. Such names were formed by adding a prefix or suffix denoting either "son of" or a diminutive. English names terminating in son (or the contraction s), ing, and kin are of this type, as are also the innumerable names prefixed with the Gaelic Mac, the Norman Fitz, the Irish O, and the Welsh ap. Thus the sons of John became Johnsons; the sons of William, Williamsons or Wilsons; the sons of Richard, Richardsons or Richardses; the sons of Neill, MacNeills; the sons of Herbert, FitzHerberts; the sons of Reilly, O'Reillys; and the sons of Thomas, ap Thomases (ap has been dropped from many names of which it was formerly a part). There are also German, Netherlandish, Scandinavian, and other European surnames of similar formation, such as the Scandinavian names ending in sen.

Another class of surnames, those arising from some bodily or personal characteristic of their first bearer, apparently grew out of what were in the first instance nicknames. Thus Peter the strong became Peter Strong, Roger of small stature became Roger Little or Roger Small, and black-haired William or blond Alfred became William Black or Alfred White. A few examples of names of this type are Long, Short, Hardy, Wise, Good, Gladman, Lover, and Youngman.

A third class of family names, and perhaps the largest of all, is that comprising local surnames—names derived from and originally designating the place of residence of the bearer. Such names were employed in France at an early date and were introduced into England by the Normans, many of whom were known by the titles of their estates. The surnames adopted by the nobility were chiefly of this type, being used with the particles de, de la, or del (meaning "of" or "of the"). The Saxon equivalent was the word atte ("at the"), found in such names as John atte Brook, Edmund atte Lane, Godwin atte Brigg, and William atte Bourne. A vestige of this usage survives in the names Atwell, Atwood, and Atwater; in other cases the Norman de was substituted; and in still others, such as Wood, Briggs, and Lane, the particle was dropped. The surnames of some of the Pilgrim Fathers illustrate place designations. Winthrop, for instance, means "of the friendly village"; Endicott, "an end cottage"; and Bradford, "a broad ford". The suffixes "ford", "ham", "ley", and "ton", denoting locality, are of frequent occurrence in such English names as Ashford, Bingham, Burley, and Norton.

Commencing about the time of Edward the Confessor a fourth class of surnames arose—names derived from occupation. The earliest of these seem to have been official names, such as Bishop, Mayor, Alderman, Reeve, Sheriff, Chamberlain, Chancellor, Chaplain, Deacon, Latimer (interpreter), Marshall, Sumner (summoner), and Parker (park-keeper). Trade and craft names, although of the same general type, were a slightly later development. Currier was a dresser of skins, Webster a weaver, Wainwright a wagonbuilder, and Baxter a baker. Such names as Smith, Taylor, Barber, Shepherd, Carter, Mason, and Miller are self-explanatory.

Some surnames of today which seem to defy classification or explanation are corruptions of ancient forms that have become disguised almost beyond recognition. For instance, Troublefield was originally Tuberville, Wrinch was Renshaw, Diggles was Douglas, Sinnocks and Snooks were Sevenoaks, Barrowcliff and Berrycloth were Barraclough, and Strawbridge was Stourbridge. Such corruptions of family names, resulting from ignorance of spelling, variations in pronunciation, or merely from the preference of the bearer, tend to baffle both the genealogist and the etymologist. Shakespeare's name is found in some twenty-seven different forms, and the majority of English and Anglo-

American surnames have, in their history, appeared in four to a dozen or more variant spellings.

In the United States a greater variety of family names exists than anywhere else in the world. Surnames of every race and nation are represented. While a substantial number are of English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, and western European origin, brought to this country by scions of families that had borne these names for generations prior to emigration, many others have come from central and southern Europe and the Slavic countries, where the use of surnames is generally a more recently established practice. Some families had no fixed surname until after their arrival in America; and in other cases emigrants from continental Europe or their descendants have translated or otherwise modified their names. These factors contribute to the difficulties encountered by students of etymology and family history.

Those Americans who possess old and honored names---who trace their surnames back to sturdy immigrant ancestors, or beyond, across the seas and into the mists of antiquity---may be rightfully proud of their heritage. While the name, in its origin, may seem ingenious, humble, surprising, or matter-of-fact, its significance today lies not in a literal interpretation of its initial meaning but in the many things that have happened to it since it first came into use. In the beginning it was only a label to distinguish one John from his neighbor John who lived across the field. But soon it established itself as part of the bearer's individuality; and as it passed to his children, his children's children, and their children, it became the symbol not of one man but of a family and all that that family stood for. Handed down from generation to generation, the surname grew inseparably associated with the achievement, the tradition, and the prestige of the family. Like the coat of arms---that vivid symbolization of the name which warrior ancestors bore in battle---the name itself has become a badge of family honor. It has become the "good name" to be proud of and to protect as one's most treasured possession.

Harry Adelbert Odell, Genealogist, P.O. Box 999, Church St. Andover

A SHORT HISTORY OF WESTPORT, NEW YORK, ON THE WEST SHORE OF LAKE CHAMPLAIN, AS FAR AS IT CONCERNS THE ODELLS, THE LOBDELLS, THE FERRISES, THE HANCHETS, THE CADYS AND THE DAVISES . . . TAKEN FROM CAROLINE HALSTEAD ROYCE'S "BESSBORO" AND LETTERS FROM F.C.HAACKER, JEAN IMOGENE ODELL, I., HARLAN BIRD ODELL AND OTHERS.

Double parenthesis (()) are my own notes. H.A.O.

Some of our forbears spoken of are often found in this very excellent history of the little village in which we all had our origin but the Odells are mentioned very sparingly, barely a half dozen times. On page 216 we see where Coll's Bay is called Odell's Bay in the county atlas, Mrs. Royce says: "this name being sometimes heard, from a family who seem to have lived at the bay in early times." That seems to have been before 1810. On page 318 under the proceedings of the annual Town Meeting of 1820 we see mention of Odle's Bay and Mr. Haacker discovered in the Essex County Records in 1806 that Robert A. Odle purchased land along Lake Champlain in the Bessboro Tract. This would make it on Odell's Bay. At this time his son Robert Ferris Odell was one year old. This bay, usually called Coll's Bay, is where Jogue's Island is, sometimes called Cherry Island, about three miles south of the center of the village.

On page 382, 1834, is the first mention of an Odell person: R. S. Odell was one of a committee to purchase a parsonage for the Methodist minister. ((This is without doubt our Robert Ferris Odell, the letter "S" in old days being written the same as "F", in fact in English books more recent than that we find "double s" is written "ff," and it was so pronounced.))

On page 528, 1861, Lewis Odell is one of those who enlisted in Co. A. for the Civil War. On page 547-48 we see the names of Mrs. R. Odell, Mrs. William Davis and Mrs. Alvin Davis as belonging to the Ladies' Soldier's Relief Society. ((The latter was the mother of Capt. Charles Henry Davis)); and on page 559, R. Remington, who represented Jay Cook of Philadelphia, the J. P. Morgans of Civil War days, as having bought some mines, among them the Odell iron ore bed.

((That is all and very meagre it is but we must not blame Mrs. Royce, one does not write things into history unless there is some way of finding them out. (Right now things are being left out of this Genealogy because some members of our family just will not answer letters.) The Odell's were very retiring, are just as retiring today, they never pushed themselves to the fore like the author, but then I am one-half a different kind of an Odell -- an Odel, and most of the time they lived across the township line into Elizabeth Township, in "the Kingdom."))

((In this connection I want to tell Mrs. Royce, if she reads this, that John Brown's body must have been laid in state or at least in public view in Westport for my father certainly saw it and he surely was not one to put even one foot an inch forward unseemingly. I bet a month's pension he was last in line.))

((THE FERRISES, from whom grandfather got his middle name, his mother's name, are mentioned in over twenty-five places, at first prorinently; later mostly at Town Meetings, which seem to have been attended by all who wished to come and all the names were taken down. They held small offices, thank you jobs, such as Commissioner of Highways; also called Road Masters, Pathmasters and Fence Viewers. The latter settled disputes as to property lines. Once in a while one popped up as a Poormaster, probably they knew about the poor. At that time they lived near Odell's Bay but when Pathmasters were in the opposite, NW, corner of the township.))

((While reading this keep in mind that the whole place was less than ten miles square, yet Mrs. Royce wrote a very interesting book about it of over 600 pages. A whole nation in a teapot. It is so interesting that I forgot sometimes that I was looking for Odells and had to go back several pages to see if I had missed any. The roads they had to oversee could well have been gone over any morning before breakfast and then not have to get up early; and, if there were as many poor as there were Pathmasters then I am sorry for the Village in those days.))

The first Ferris spoken of lived across the lake in Vermont, at Arnold's Bay, then called "Ferrises," in 1770. There John Ferris entertained Benjamin Franklin and a Commission sent to Quebec to try to influence Canada to join the Colonies in the Revolution. This was on the 24th of April, 1777. In 1787 they lived in a log house on Coll's (Odell's) Bay, page 199.

"In 1820 Judge Hatch married Lydia E. Clark, and later in life he married a third time, Maria, daughter of Jacob and Sarah Ferris; he died in 1856 aged 88 and his wife survived him by twelve years. Of members of the Baptist Church prior to 1812 was Squire Ferris. The pilot of the lake steamship "Vermont" in 1808 was Hiram Ferris of Panton. Page 223, in a Genealogical Table of Diadorus Holcomb we find "9 Henry Harrison Holcomb married Amelia daughter of Darius Ferris. He was the last Survivor of his family, dying in 1902, aged 86." Among those soldiers graves decorated on Decoration Day was Darius Ferris, from a list made by the G.A.R., page 289.

In the first Town Meeting of Westport, in April, 1815, we find John Ferris, list of Methodists of 1816, John Ferris, 305.

In January, 1821, John Ferris took the oath as Mail Carrier. "He lived at the turn of the road as you go down to the ferry at Barber's Point," ((maybe the same house mentioned before as near Coll's Bay)), and brought the mail across the ferry from Vergennes, Vermont, 322. At Town Meeting of 1822 he lived in that house. ((Some of our people who have a car could add to the enjoyment of a vacation by taking a trip up there and checking up on these points.))

1836. Page 386. Mary Ann Ferris in Westport Academy, also Parmelia Finny.

1843. ((ROBERT FERRIS ODELL MARRIED ROXY ANN HANCHET.))

In 1852 and '55 Peter Ferris was a Poor Master and in '53 John Ferris also, had an office as Pathmaster. ((Poor Master and Pathmaster are just as mysterious to me as Bedroom and Dining Room.)) In 1855 John Ferris and his son Peter Ferris were in a boat accident in which two brothers named Webster, relatives of theirs from Montreal, were drowned. This is the only mention of descent in this numerous family to be found in the book, except that on page 219, where we read: "John Ferris must have been the father of Peter Ferris, often called 'John Ferris, Jr.,' to distinguish him from his father, John A. Ferris." et seq. ((This was in 1811, and not the John and Peter mentioned above who were in the boat accident in 1855)); and on 210, "the pilot Hiram Ferris of Panton,--a descendant of that Ferris who entertained Benjamin Franklin in the spring of 1776." In 1857, '58, '59 he, Peter, was Poor Master and in 1859 a Julius Ferris was Pathmaster, in 1861 Peter was again appointed Poor Master to take the place of Reuel Arnold who went to the Civil War as Captain of Co. A. of the 77th. During the war he was honorary member of the Ladies' Soldiers' Aid and "ferried their packages across the lake free of charge;" ((so, he must have owned the ferry,)) page 549.

1849. 1859. ((EDITH AND HATTIE ODELL BORN.))

In 1867 John Ferris was Pathmaster, and finally, in 1868, Julius Ferris was Pathmaster of Road District 24, "from the bridge of Brainard's Forge to the town line near Clelands and from Lee Proutys across to I. Johnsons." ((He could probably "view" all his roads from his kitchen window; but as to paths that is quite a different matter, probably followed the cows around.)) 121

That is all of the Ferrises, not a word of Parmelia Ferris or Permelia or Pamela, or which was her father or grandfather, etc., etc., for further the book sayeth not.

THE LOBDELLS get much more attention in "Bessboro" than the Odells and Ferrises put together yet they have no Pedigree Sketch or short Genealogy as many other families have. L O B

1798. "Sylvanus Lobdell was first Clerk of the new town of Elizabethtown, elected; and was probably father of Boynton and Capt. John Lobdell. ((CAPTAIN CHARLES HENRY DAVIS, who married Eurette Roselthy Odell was our best known hero in the Civil War, with Levi Lobdell Odell, also entitled to be a captain but refusing the position, according to his son Harlan Bird Odell; Darius Orcutt served through the war and was at the Battle of Shiloh or Pittsburg Landing, 1862; Harlan Bird Odell says: "He died in the eighteen-eightys; I recall father going to Chicago to be with her during the obsequy and I believe he sleeps in a Chicago cemetery." the battle field, leaving nothing for his dependents, 1864. It was little enough, considering Capt. Davis heroism and the honor they had brought to his home town; but some people would probably have had him walk back and beg his living by the way.))

Rappahannock under fire. ((Corp. Lewis Odell sent home, Dec. 10, 1862, raised, each lost a leg, Gettysburg, July 12, Fort Stevens.

523, Battle of Cedar Creek, Sheridan's Ride.

"Up from the south at break of day,
Bringing to Winchester fresh dismay,
The first that the General saw were the groups
Of stragglers, then the retreating troops,--"

Only Westport's 77th did not run, "it did not have to be rallied for they had not scattered"; 525, "only 3 of 50 returned: Maj. C.E. Stevens, Capt. Chas. Davis and Lieut. Sorel Fountain, 8 killed in battle, 14 died of disease and starvation, some in army prisons" 22 lie in southern soil, remainder invalidated home.

526. "Capt. Chas. H. Davis. Went out as a corporal, although only seventeen, and was promoted 2nd Lieutenant Oct. 16, 1864, 1st Lieutenant of Company E, Nov. 15, 1864, and Captain April 25, 1865. He is the son of Alvin Davis." ((All this is much better told in the photostat of Uncle Charley Davis and Aunt Eureka.))

527. Patrick Henry's birthplace, near Richmond, called Liberty Hall, was turned into a hospital. Lewis Odell was among those wounded or sick in this hospital, he was invalidated home. Capt. Reuel W. Arnold also returned home about this time, 1862.

On page 513, Mrs. Royce says: "This regiment was called 'the 77th' or 'Bemis Heights Battalion' in allusion to the Surrender of Bourgoyne at Saratoga in 1777. In actual numerical order it stood somewhere in the forties."

((There is much more about the Civil War and very interesting reading, but I cannot include it here. While a real Genealogy should contain whatever may be found of history regarding the family described it should not go beyond that.))

MR. F. C. HAACKER, who has been of the utmost help in this work, since he is working about other branches of the Odell Family, must be credited with what follows:

BORN	Census of Westport for 1850.		C
1805	Robert Odell,	age 48, Carpenter	E
1826	Roxy Ann Odell	25	N
1832	Elizabeth Odell	18	S
1833	Levi Odell	16	U
1835	Robert Adelbert Odell	14	S
1837	Lewis Odell	12	"
1843	Euretta Odell	7	1
1845	Alexander Odell	5	8
1846	Charles Odell	3	5
1849	Edith Odell	2	0
	Diana Ferris	57

((This census is given just as it was copied by Mr. Haacker. The ages agree in most places with the birth dates to the left which are our figures.))

((Diana Ferris must have been a cousin of grandfathers who was living with him.))

Thos. Odle had 50 acres in Morgan's Patent in 1861. ((This could have been in "the Kingdom" or in Ferris' Road District.)) Morgan's Patent was of indefinite boundary, land just west of Westport township. See map.

"Robert Odell purchased land in the Iron Ore Tract in 1838. He is referred to as of Elizabethtown. He purchased and sold several parcels of land between 1838 and 1867. His wife Roxanna appears first in 1844. In 1869, Robert F. Odell, of Cedar Falls, Iowa and wife Roxy Ann conveyed last parcel of land in Essex County."

But here is a poser: Wm. E. Odell and wife Susanna R. of St. Mary's Illinois, Conveyed land in Elizabethtown in 1867. ((Who could that have been? Outside of this one item there are no other Odells mentioned in all our research in Westport that do not belong to our family. There was a farm laborer named Odell there when I visited Westport in 1937 but I was unable to see him.))

Our greatgrandfather, Robert Andrus Odell, also appears in this census of 1850.

BORN

1777	Robert Odell	age 67	((This would make him born in 1783.
1786	Mary Odell	64	Probably wife, then how about Parmelia?))
1847	Martha McLaughlin	3
1840	Henry Cinney Odell	10	((The date 1777 is mine taken from a paper
1844	Frances Odell	6	of RFO. The other dates are figured from
1846	Mary Odell	4	the time of the census.))
	Halen Odell
	Hiram Odell
	Helen Odell

Haacker says apparently most of these were grandchildren. ((If so then grandpa RFO had a brother with a family living there then. Now this distinctly does not agree with what I remember. Grandpa wrote me he had a brother who visited him from Burlington or Bennington, Vermont. Father also spoke of this brother and said: "When they saw each other they cried." Surely someone of us should remember if anything was ever said that would show there was such a family, and nothing in "Bessboro" indicates such a family.))

Robert A. Odell appears first in Essex Co. records in 1806, when he purchased land along lake Champlain in the Bessboro Tract. ((This is in the south part of Westport, just where Odell's Bay is mentioned in the minutes of the annual Town Meeting of 1820.)) He also purchased land in the Iron Ore Tract in 1822 and sold land in 1855 with his wife Parmelia.

In the 1800 census he had a family of two:

One male between 16-26

One female between 16-26.

Probably himself and wife only. ((It seems that the census takers in 1800 classed names between certain ages, as:

Under 16. Between 16-26, 26-45. Over 45.

In 1820 he had four sons under 16, and he himself was 26-45. ((If he was born in 1783, he could not have been over 16 years old when married, and our grandfather, RFO, was born when he was 22, and his first wife Mary was 18 or 19, but we have him born in 1777, in grandfather RFO's own handwriting in 1857, also in a pedigree written by Judge Robert ~~Ferris~~ Odell in 1893.))

Adelbert

((In 1820, he, Robert A. Odell, had four sons under 16, himself between 26 and 45 and one female between 16-26, probably his second wife Parmelia. Most of these figures check O.K. except that grandpa RFO was born in 1805 and his father Robert A(ndrus) Odell was born in 1777. if he was 26-45 in 1820 he could have been born in 1777 or 1783. At that time, (still is), it was necessary to lie about your age to hold a job. If he gave his age as 73 in 1850 he might have been fired. They had no Social Security then, nor Unions either. In New York City today men dye their hair and hold jobs on Wall Street as 40 who are really 60 years old.))

((If this census is O.K. and we properly understand it, then RFO's mother was Mary Odell. There was a Mary Ann Ferris in the Essex County Academy in Westport in 1836, perhaps she was named after an Aunt who was grandfather's mother.))

My Dear Mother-

Newark, Jan. 9th /06.

Nearly one year has passed since I visited you. Now I am going to tell you about my trip to the Adirondacks. Jerome Lobdell met me and took me home with him. I found many changes along the plank road - the R.R. Station stands where the toll gate used to be and there is lots of heavy timber along the road by the farm where I did my last work, there and all along the way to the Red Schoolhouse - there I found they had painted it white; but the big rock was there. The timber between Green Hill and Raven Hill is very heavy and valuable, mostly Pine - after you strike the Asgood Farm the cottages or city people are planted on both sides of the road.

Elizabethtown is a pretty village. The change from there to Lobdell's Farm is not much, except the many cottages on the plains. Jerome has five children: four boys and one girl. Two of the boys live at home, the other two at Rice's Mills and do a building business. The daughter married a son of Martin Vaughn and live on Leonard Wane Farm. They did everything to make it pleasant for me.

One day Jerome took Max and I to the Kingdom. We drove through New Russia. There is one house standing there. All the rest ruins and such timber all the way up the hill. The first house was the Old Walcott House. There was a family living there, house not changed. Heavy Pine timber everywhere. The house on the Hatch lot is gone and everywhere a forest - the Willard Simonds place we found the apple trees growing in the woods, some of them loaded with fruit. I couldn't find the ore bed, the timber was so thick and the heavy growth of underbrush.

At the Kingdom one might hunt a long time to find evidence that anyone had ever lived there, but I knew where to look. I found the foundation of the house where I started from; and then the old forge. I found the anvil block and near it a Birch tree 12 inches in diameter, but the Alder brush was so thick that one can hardly get through it. Within the last year the dam at this place has been built up and they carry the water down the river to the Josh Smith Mill and there make electricity to run the ore beds at Moriah, carrying it over the mountains via Nickol's Pond. One family lives at the Smith Mill - heavy timber down from here to our old place where the forge stood, there is a clearing about 10 acres - and from the river back over the Storrs lot and Smith lot, all a wilderness. A son of Ira Daniels owns this place (except the minerals). On the second flat from the river he has a Sugar Camp of five thousand trees, where we used to cut hay at one time and pick blackberries. No one lives here or at Meig's Forge. The school house hasn't grown any. It don't seem possible that we used to get 60 to 70 scholars in the small place, but it is as much too large now as was too small then. I found Elias Storrs living in the house that Uncle Theron built across the river from the old red house of John Lobdell. He tells me that there are seven children in the district that draw public money but not near that many attending school. The next habitation is Ira Daniel's place. I found Mary Ann living there, (The place is in good condition.), with her son Elbert who married Caroline Stringham's only daughter. Mary Ann looked neat and sweet, but she had dried up to nothing. She says she remembered me but I don't think she did.

I visited Black River burying ground two or three times, found my mother's grave and Austin's, the grave of your father and two brothers and many others. On the whole I am glad I made the trip but it was like going to a funeral all the time. I visited Elbert Hanchet, his wife is dead and he is living with his wife's youngest sister Electa. Her husband has been dead about a year. He was sick a long time and Elbert carried on the farm and will probably stay with Electa till she sells the farm. She married Alva Blood and they own the Anqu (may be Angier) Finney farm near Wadham's Mills. Now this is the only letter I have written in years and fear you will not be able to read it. With much love for Frank, Lill and your

Governor Odell
In the Executive Chamber at Albany

Map of the State of New York

The Argus

ESTABLISHED 1813.

OFFICIAL CITY AND COUNTY PAPER

ALBANY, N. Y., FEBRUARY 27, 1901.

GOVERNOR ODELL'S ANCESTRY.

An Interesting Letter of Genealogical Research.

To The Argus: The article in your issue of this morning, copied from the Kingston Freeman, is so manifestly erroneous in the statement that the name Odell did not exist a century or so ago, and that our distinguished Governor's family name was formerly Woodhull and not Odell, that while I am unacquainted with the particular immediate line of ancestry of our chief executive, I feel that common courtesy due to our fellow-citizens bearing the name of one of the most honorable and patriotic families of the colony and State of New York, demands that the meaningless attempt of the writer, Ian Van Doll, to cast a slur or at least to detract from the honor of, their family name should not be permitted to go unrebuked. Whether Ian Van Doll derives his cognomen from the ancient Vandals, a most barbarous people, notorious for destroying the monuments of art and literature, or from the old Anglo-Saxon word denoting "erring" or foolish, with the Dutch prefix Van, the American public is not particularly interested. But true sons and daughters of New York justly revere the names of those who assisted by their noble deeds of bravery in establishing this nation's independence and in the foundation of this Empire State. The name Odell is that of a numerous family sprung from William Odell, Jr., who was a first settler of Rye, in Westchester county, as early as 1662, where he owned a large estate and died about 1700. His father, and probably the first ancestor of the family in this country, was William Odell, of Concord, Mass., in 1639, and a resident, in 1644, of Fairfield, Conn., where he died in June, 1676, leaving an estate valued at £447, 1s., 5d. The first William emigrated from England and his family arms are described in the family pedigree published in Bolton's History of Westchester County (1881), volume II, page 653, as "Arms, argent, three crescents, gules; Crest, An eagle displayed, gules; motto, Fac et Spera."

The Odells were conspicuous for their military valor from the earliest history of the New York colony. As early as 1715, Jonathan Odell was a member of a militia company in Westchester county. In 1738, Samuel Odell was a captain of a regiment of foot militia in Orange county. In 1758, Gilbert, John and Joshua Odell volunteered from the Westchester county militia into the Colonial service during the French and Indian war. In 1760, Joseph and John Odell enlisted as volunteers from Dutchess and Westchester counties for an expedition against Canada, and in 1762, Jonas Odell, of Dutchess county, enlisted in the Colonial service. (See State Historian Hastings' Reports for 1896 and 1897.)

In the list of soldiers of this State actively engaged in the Revolutionary war, compiled by State Comptroller Roberts, the index of the second edition shows that there were no less than 45 persons by that name whom we have reason to bless for their patriotism. Isaac Odell, of Westchester county, was a favorite guide to Gen. George Washington. Gen. Jacob Odell, of Yonkers, born July 25, 1756, was a distinguished officer in the American army, and Col. John Odell, of Greenburgh, served with distinction in the War of the Revolution and received his commission from the Continental Congress.

In the town of Greenburgh, near Dobb's Ferry, and contiguous to the river, is the old Hamilton estate, formerly owned by James A., son of Hon. Alexander Hamilton, which contained many valuable family relics, among others, an original painting of Washington by Stewart. This property formerly belonged to the Odell family. Bolton says: "Jonathan Odell, father of the distinguished Col. John Odell, was residing here in the autumn of 1776, when the British army, after retiring from White Plains, encamped in the neighborhood. The enemy upon their final retreat to New York, arrested Mr. Odell and four of his neighbors as prisoners of war. On their arrival in the city, they were consigned to the provost. Here, four of them died of poison, said to have been administered in their food. Jonathan Odell escaped through the kindness of a friend who daily brought him provisions. Each of the sufferers had sons in the Continental army, which was the cause of this inhuman treatment."

Bolton says also: "In the Saw Mill Valley, in the town of Yonkers, was situated the residence of the late Gen. Jacob Odell, a descendant of the ancient and honorable family of the Odells. Gen. Jacob Odell, at the early age of 21 years, embraced the military profession, and in the year 1776, took arms in defense of his country. He used to recount with pleasure the time and the very spot where himself and three cousins of the name, volunteered their services to the Continental Congress. It was beneath the whitewood tree where the Westchester farmers stopped Major Andre and found the papers that revealed the treason of Benedict Arnold. After enlisting he served in Captain Samuel Drake's regiment, belonging to the brigade of General Scott. On the memorable retreat after the battle of Long Island, he was on picket guard. At the close of the war, and as soon as the militia was formed, he received his commission from Major-General Morris.

"Like the rest of the neutral ground," this part of Yonkers was infested with marauding parties of "Cow Boys" and "Skinners," the former of whom claimed the title of Loyalists; the latter, under the mask of patriotism, called themselves Whigs.

"During the war, when General Odell's father and family were living in the homestead, a party of these lawless ruffians with blackened faces, armed with muskets, entered the house. Their first act seems to have been to secure the females in the cellar; having affected this, they proceeded to interrogate the general's father, and demanded his money. On his refusing to satisfy their demands, they immediately hung him by his neck to an adjoining tree and when life was well nigh extinct, they cut him down and again repeated their threats, but to no better purpose.

Whereupon they once more suspended and lowered him, leaving him for dead. During these proceedings, the females had escaped from the cellar, and Mrs. Odell, the general's mother, a woman of great intrepidity, boldly assaulted them, upon which these cowardly villains attacked her with the butt ends of their muskets. She managed, however, to escape with a few broken ribs. On this occasion the general was too young to take an active part in the affray, and narrowly escaped by lowering himself with a cord from the garret window."

Now I will give Mr. Van Doll this "tip," if he desires to start anew in his genealogical research as to the Governor's line of ancestry, that in the published pedigree above referred to, appear several persons named Benjamin Odell, and he will doubtless find that Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., comes by his honorable name by descent from the worthy Westchester county family of Odell.

Respectfully yours,

EDWARD H. LEGGETT.

HON. MOSES F. ODELL, MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM BROOKLYN, N. Y.—(PORT. BY WILLIAMSON.)

HON. MOSES F. ODELL.

THE HON. MOSES F. ODELL, the patriotic Member of Congress from the Brooklyn District, was born at Tarrytown, Westchester County, on the 24th of February, 1814. His family removed to New York City shortly after his birth, and here and in Brooklyn Mr. Odell grew up, receiving his education in the common schools of the city. Early in life he received an appointment in the Custom-house, where he soon proved himself a peculiarly valuable public servant, and for merit was promoted step by step till he was made Assistant-Collector, which post he held during the Administration of President Polk. Being a Democrat, when the Taylor Administration came in Mr. Odell was removed from his post and put to another desk. He was, however, shortly replaced, notwithstanding his politics, the Collector finding him indispensable. He continued to hold his place under Collectors Brown and Re-field till he resigned, under the latter. During this long tenure of a responsible, laborious, and often irksome office, he gained and retained the esteem of the merchants of this city, and achieved a reputation for clear-headedness and the ability to transact a great amount of business, in a manner satisfactory to all with whom he came in contact, and which has made him a great favorite with the business community of New York. Under the Administration of Mr. Buchanan he held the post of Public Appraiser in this city.

Mr. Odell has always been a Democrat. In early life he was for a short time President of the Brooklyn Empire Club, and all his life he has taken a strong interest in the success of the Democratic party, though never seeking office. Last fall he was nominated, on the Douglas ticket, for Congress. The chances for his election were not good. The member of Congress from the District, Mr. Humphreys, was a Republican and a gentleman of exceptional character, personally liked by his constituents; and the Brookbridge wing of the Democratic party nominated a candidate, and thus caused that horror of politicians, a "split ticket." Nevertheless, Mr. Odell was elected over both his competitors, his sterling character and great personal popularity carrying him far ahead of his ticket. He was, we believe, the only Democrat elected on the ticket.

He did not take his seat in Congress till the meeting of the extra session, on July 4, 1861. Meantime the rebellion had broken out. Brooklyn had risen to send a regiment to defend the capital and the Union; and in those first days, when Democrats and so-called Union men were still looked at with some degree of suspicion, he took his stand in a speech delivered to his constituents and to the soldiers going away to the war. The following short extract from that speech is an index to his conduct ever since. He said: "The position I stand in toward the Government and toward you, makes it right that you should know my views. I am for the Constitution of the country and for the enforcement of the laws—for the Stars and Stripes—for the flag which has protected us all. That flag has been trampled in the dust and spit on by those whom it protected. I have an apology to make for those who did this, and I have an apology to give until that insult has been removed. It is well known to you, gentlemen, that I was elected as a Democrat. I have been elected with that party since I came to Brooklyn—more than twenty years ago, but I have, as you have thought, I stand by the Union. I shall be as true to the Union as I can be. I shall go there—it was doubtful at that time—and I shall give my support to any measure that will defend the honor of the Government. I will vote

I could to prevent the election of the President. I labored as earnestly against him as many of you did for him. But he was elected—legally, fairly, honestly elected President of this country. He is its President. I shall sustain the President in every thing which I believe to be right, and calculated to put down the men who have made war upon our flag and trampled it under foot. I am with you in this inspiring movement which has spread over the North. My prayers are with those who have gone forth to defend the country, and I believe and pray that God will defend them; for the right is with them, and they will prevail."

He has well kept his word. When Congress met it was expected by many who knew his peculiar experience and abilities that he would be placed upon the tariff and tax committees. This was not done, probably because the speaker did not know him. But he was reserved for as important a work. His patriotic speech attracted attention, and, we have heard, gathered around him quite a number of Congressmen, Republicans as well as Democrats; and when it was determined to appoint a Joint Committee on the Conduct of the War, Mr. Odell was wisely selected as one of its members. Here he has labored earnestly and effectively ever since, to improve the effectiveness of the army, to expose and prevent frauds, and to aid the Government in its immense labors. We have reason to know that his conduct has secured him the affectionate regard of the President, who values his advice as that of an honest, clear-headed, and single-hearted man, such as Mr. Lincoln is himself.

Mr. Odell is not a speaker, but a man of action. He has not made a speech in Congress, yet; but he has given all his time to the important labors of the Committee room. During his residence at Washington he has greatly endeared himself to the soldiers by his constant and personal care for their comfort. After the battle of Bull Run he looked after the sick and wounded who crowded the city, and especially those of the gallant 14th (Brooklyn) regiment, many of these young men who had grown up under his eye, in business and in the Sunday-school of the Sands Street Methodist Church, of which he has been for many years the efficient and beloved superintendent. The following paragraph from a recent number of the Washington Freelance shows that it is not only soldiers whom his active benevolence seeks to help.

"We returned yesterday to the comfortable and airy of Senator Wright in the neighborhood of the city. It is our pleasure now to add to that comfort the aid of a gentleman who has the name of Mr. F. Odell, who represents the State of New York in the House of Representatives, a gentleman who devotes very materially to the interests of the soldiers and sailors of the 'Union.' The newspaper which Mr. Odell has been a member of the House since the same acted ever since their residence in Washington."

ODELL GENEALOGY OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

 Pub. by Emery A. Odell, Monroe, Wis.

A Review with Additions by Harry A. Odell.

THE MOTTO on the Coat of Arms is "Fac et Spera," Do and Hope. The crescents signify: Watchman of the world. They are Gules-Red, which means Courage and Valor. The Crescent is called a half moon and when turned up it means: increasing greatness and power, as the new moon increases every night.

The chanticleer (rooster) stands for noble courage, ready for battle, watchfulness, heroism, herald of the morn, a daybreak of prosperity for the name, or for the Odells themselves. --Pool, pages 8, 9.
 Alice Earle, nee Morse, 1853-1911, "Stage Coach and Tandem Days."

((Note: While Mrs. Pool gives the same Coat of Arms, as we do, in her book, the description given here applies to that given by Rufus King in his chart. The bird on our Escutcheon is not a rooster but an eagle displayed.))

In 625 B.C. the Odells started from their town in Phoenicia, on the eastern border of the Mediterranean Sea, named Odellum, or Odellam in the Hebrew, which translated means a dell or small valley with a stream in it.

((I don't seem to be able to get the stream by word analysis unless the language at that time presupposed a stream to be in every valley, or rather that the word valley included a stream.))

Odellum had come to be a trading station of the Phoenicians, who at that time were becoming the chief maritime nation of the world and spreading out into the great nation which later established Carthage. The family journeyed to the west coast of the Black Sea, to the Baltic, in which is now northern Prussia, thence to Holland and the England in the time of Queen Mary. (This is disputed by another account, which says:)

The first Odell was Walter Flandrensis, brother of Matilda of Flanders, wife of William the Conqueror, and came with him to England in 1066. (He must have visited there before that time because there is some account of his having reported from there, before the conquest). In 1086 the Conqueror made him the First Baron of Odell. (In the caption under the picture of the Odell Castle Mrs. Pool puts it at 1066.) The Barony was located in Buck, England, the county seat of which was Wahull or Woodhull (wood-hill) and his descendants were called Barons of Odell and were related closely to William the Norman, Alfred the Great, Edward II and Henry VIII.

Still another account says Odell was made head of this Barony, (which was at Odell, Bedfordshire, about 60 miles northwest of London, England, where Odell church and Odell castle still remain) because of distinguished Military service in the Conquest.

"Blood Mary", 1553-1558, confiscated their estates and drove them from the country. (Probably they had been of the party which espoused the claim to the crown of Lady Jane Grey who was Queen from July 10 to July 19, 1553, and who with her husband, was promptly beheaded, when Mary became Queen.) Many Odells changed their name for protection and some were compelled to flee to other lands, many migrating to Ireland, however there is no historical authority for spelling the name, "O'Dell". (English protestants fled to Ireland to escape the Marian Persecution." Ency. Britannica, 9th Ed. P. 263 Vol. XIII.

These varying accounts may be reconciled if we remember that frequently people who have names signifying some particular thing or place are popularly believed to get their name from that fact, which is absolutely not the case. An instance is the case of Joseph Wilder, who lives on top of the ridge of mountains west of Los Gatos, California. He is supposed to get his name from the wild place where he lives. The fact is the Wilder family was in existence centuries before any of them ever thought of going to California.

Probably Walter Flandrensis was originally named Odell, Flandrensis being substituted when the family first became powerful, as most royalty drop their names when crowned and other people when made Counts or Lords. It is easy to see how an unlettered priest could mispronounce the name Odell as Wodell and how the Bishop, when he came to copy the records, when the state took the originals away from the church, should try to give some sense to the spelling and write it Woodhill, giving it a local meaning. Eventually it came back to its proper spelling and pronunciation when some better educated person found the name of so many of the people was the same as that of the town, Odell.

Flandrensis being originally an Odell, renamed Flandrensis because of his being created Count of Flanders, and his sister, William the Conqueror's wife being Matilda of Flanders, what was more natural than for the Norman to confer honor on his wife and brother-in-law, to honor the name Odell, the old family name that they traced way back to King Priam in 1200 B.C., and make Walter Flandrensis the First Baron of Odell, and considering an English Baron above a Femish Count he dropped the former, therefore was the last Count of Flanders. There are no Counts in England.

We can readily see how they could be related to Edward II and Henry VIII, but if related to Alfred they must have been in England some 200 years before the Conqueror's time, or related to Alfred outside of England, for Alfred reigned 871 to 901 A.D. History says they were closely related to all four of these Kings.

A relative of Baron Odell was among those who compelled King John to sign the Magna Charta, June 15, 1215. They were noted for their religion and help in establishing the Church of England and built many small chapels. There is no way in which specific descendency can be established with Walter Flandrensis except the general one of the Barony's succession.

((I do not agree with Mrs. Pool in this regard. The descendency of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, an Odell from the female side is very clear back to Flandrensis and there is a mine of records as yet unresearched.))

((Probably all the Odells now alive in America sprang from this family, though direct descent has not yet been established. This is because Americans have been so careless in these matters. For many centuries, during the pionsering times no records were kept, and those which were kept in New York and some other

RANK OF BRITISH PEERAGE, excepting Court Attaches, etc.:

Royalty, Dukes, Marquises, Earls, Viscounts, Bishops, Barons, Baronets, Knights, Esquires, Gentlemen. This is modern usage, doubtless when the Odells were made Barons that title took a higher rank than now. The Odell Coat-of-Arms bears as a crest a Ducal crown. Dukes were relatives of Royalty and Odells sprang from the brother of the wife of William the Conqueror, so they must have had the highest rank then known, and they would not have given up the rank of Count of Flanders to take a lower place in English rank. There are no counts in England. In France, Spain, Portugal and Italy Counts were of the same rank as an Earl in England.

MORE ABOUT COUSINS

Your First Cousin is the child of your Uncle or Aunt.

The child of your First Cousin is your First Cousin Once Removed, sometimes improperly called Second Cousin.

The child of your First Cousin is a Second Cousin to your child.

Where sisters marry brothers their children are Double Cousins as with the McGowan Odells.

There are, of course, Third Cousins, Fourth Cousins and so on; also First Cousins Three, Four and more times removed and Second, Third, etc. of different Degrees of Consanguinity, or Affinity.

Some states have laws regulating the Degrees of Consanguinity or Affinity, in others the courts have set up rulings. There is no universal law on the subject.

Consanguinity means blood relationship, Affinity is the term applied to marriage relations.

The variance of the laws and rulings on this subject is so great that when the Social Security Act was passed there was a clause incorporated definitely specifying who should benefit where the original beneficiary was deceased, and even here the law finally reverts to the Estate, which may be anything according to where the court is located.

WHAT IS LIMBO?

In genealogy "limbo" is an indefinite date similar to its use in theology, except that it has nothing to do with heaven or hell, and is much more recent. After William the Conqueror's time the English began to consider the matter of keeping records of important events, especially matters of heraldry or descent. It was necessary to have a starting place and that was called "limbo". It was sometime in the 11th or 12th centuries. Where a sequence of dates says: "beginning with limbo", it simply means that point beyond which no dates were kept or could be found. This might be one date with one family, another date with some other family.

* SIXTH GENERATION?

After the Fifth Mrs.Pool lost

all track of Generations.

For balance of comparison of King's Chart see our rewrite of same: KING--1, et seq. Mrs. Pool, who started off with King, got farther and farther away. She followed the Manning Odells, the Loomers (p.55), which led to the Sawyers and the Lewises, and finally, to herself, which is really the object of nine out of ten genealogists. Finally we find on page 114:

"IX Minnie Alice Lewis (Mrs. Sherman Ira Pool), daughter of James S. Lewis 8 (Joshua Odell Lewis 7, Sarah Odell 6, Joseph 5, Joshua 4, Isaac 3, William 2, William 1.)"

This was perfectly all right for her part but not of much interest to our Odells; however we follow and cull out what we hope may lead to our ROBERT FERRIS ODELL.

near the Odells in Canada.

Of course there are many interesting stories about Odells in this book and all who can afford the $3.25 for the paper bound edition should buy it by all means but I have made a careful search and cannot find the connection, which must exist, between these Canadian Odells and RFO.

Mrs. Pool's genealogical style is to mark a Roman numeral before each generation when it first appears, a common practice, as: "X Emery A.
Odell" and when the same name occurs again she puts an Arabic number after the name, as: "Emery (10)", or "Emery 10". I have followed the style of each author, when compiling, where possible, within the range of the typewriter and an 8 1/2 x 11 loose leaf sheet.

Arms.—Or, three crescents, gules. Crest.—An arm embowed in armor, holding a sword, all ppr. Motto.—Pro patria invictus.

(Barb's Landed Gentry.)

The name of Mr. Odell's wife is not known. She was probably married in England and it is conjectured by Mr. Baird that Mr. Odell, William, was born there about 1634. There is no trace of Mrs. Odell's residence in Concord, the first book of the records of that town having been lost. In the early records of Boston, however, may be found a Register of the births and burials in Concord from the year 1639, until the first month of 1644, according to the account. In this Register are the following entries: "James the sonne of William Odle was borne the 2^d of the 1st month 1640, and was baptized the 13th 1641." "Rebecca, the daughter of William Odle, was borne the 17th (15th) 1642." It is supposed that Mr. Odell died in 1644, the year of her husband's removal to Fairfield, Conn., as the records of that town make no mention of her name, nor do Mr. Odell's name in 1676, refer to her. ODELL GENEALOGY, SIMPLIFICATION OF KING'S CHART by which names in the following Simplification may be found in King's Chart. The Line No. is for reference only, Errors will occur. This work is corrected for King's. I am not responsible for faulty arrangement, for instance: many of the Generations in King's are to be found in the text of the Previous Generation. To facilitate the finding of these names I have kept them there in this Key, however each Generation No. in the following pages is correct.

KEY TO LINE NUMBERS

Gen. No.	COLUMNS
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
1	MR. WILLIAM ODELL-Wife Unknown

9	42	65,66		80
10	43			81

In casting up the above Table we have used the utmost caution to have it correct and we believe any name in the Simplification or Synopsis that follows will be readily found by its use. Some of the dates we have supplied from other sources, and one or two names. The Asterisks (*) are to help in looking up the wives, etc. of the Odells in the Chart. A complete reading of the Chart will be found interesting. Any 10x magnifying glass will be sufficient help to the eyes or ordinary spectacles.

The end of King's Chart

NOTE. In writing up this brief synopsis of King's Chart I followed the Paragraphs from left to right except in some instances where the fact that one family of descendants only was given it seemed better to follow that column down. H.A.O. H3-1.

PATRIOTISM DOES NOT THRIVE ON AN EMPTY STOMACH.

An article in the "White Plains Reporter", 1934, (See photostat), blames the Tories for the outrages, said by Mrs. Pool, to have been committed by "Cowboys and Skinners". We would call them "Gangsters" now. Mr. Haacker agrees with the newspaper. It does not make much difference, probably both were concerned, the fact remains that these lawless gangs made life for the Odells impossible up the Hudson and forced them to seek new homes in Canada where some semblance of law and order was enforced. The "Reporter" lends proof to Mrs. Pool's Statement. War sometimes leaves such conditions. Probably there was little difference in starving hordes--whether ex-Tories or ex-Revolutionists. We had no Relief Laws then.

In writing the Synopsis and Symplification it was necessary to leave out all reference to the wives. These were noted by numbered stars and they are given here, also a few others.

- *1. Daughter of Joseph and Abigail Walker. Mrs. Walker afterwards married Richard Hubbell.
- *2. In 1711 mentioned as Mary Odell, widow, her family name unknown, had one son Samuel.
- *3. Son of Thomas and Isabella (Keeler) Morehouse.
- *4. Daughter of Richard Vowles, seven sons, one daughter.

- *9 $\frac{1}{2}$. Daughter of Rev. Dickinson, First President of Princeton.

Eight minutes for marriage

MR. AND MRS. JACK PERIER
He'll spend his honeymoon in Africa—alone

Jack Perier and Betti Odell have been "going steady" for seven years, and such a lengthy courtship might be expected to culminate in a big church wedding with orange blossoms, bridesmaids and all the rest.

But yesterday the couple had been married during a brief plane stop in Tucson, Ariz.; Perier left for "somewhere in Africa," and his bride went back to Hollywood to continue in her job with the telephone company.

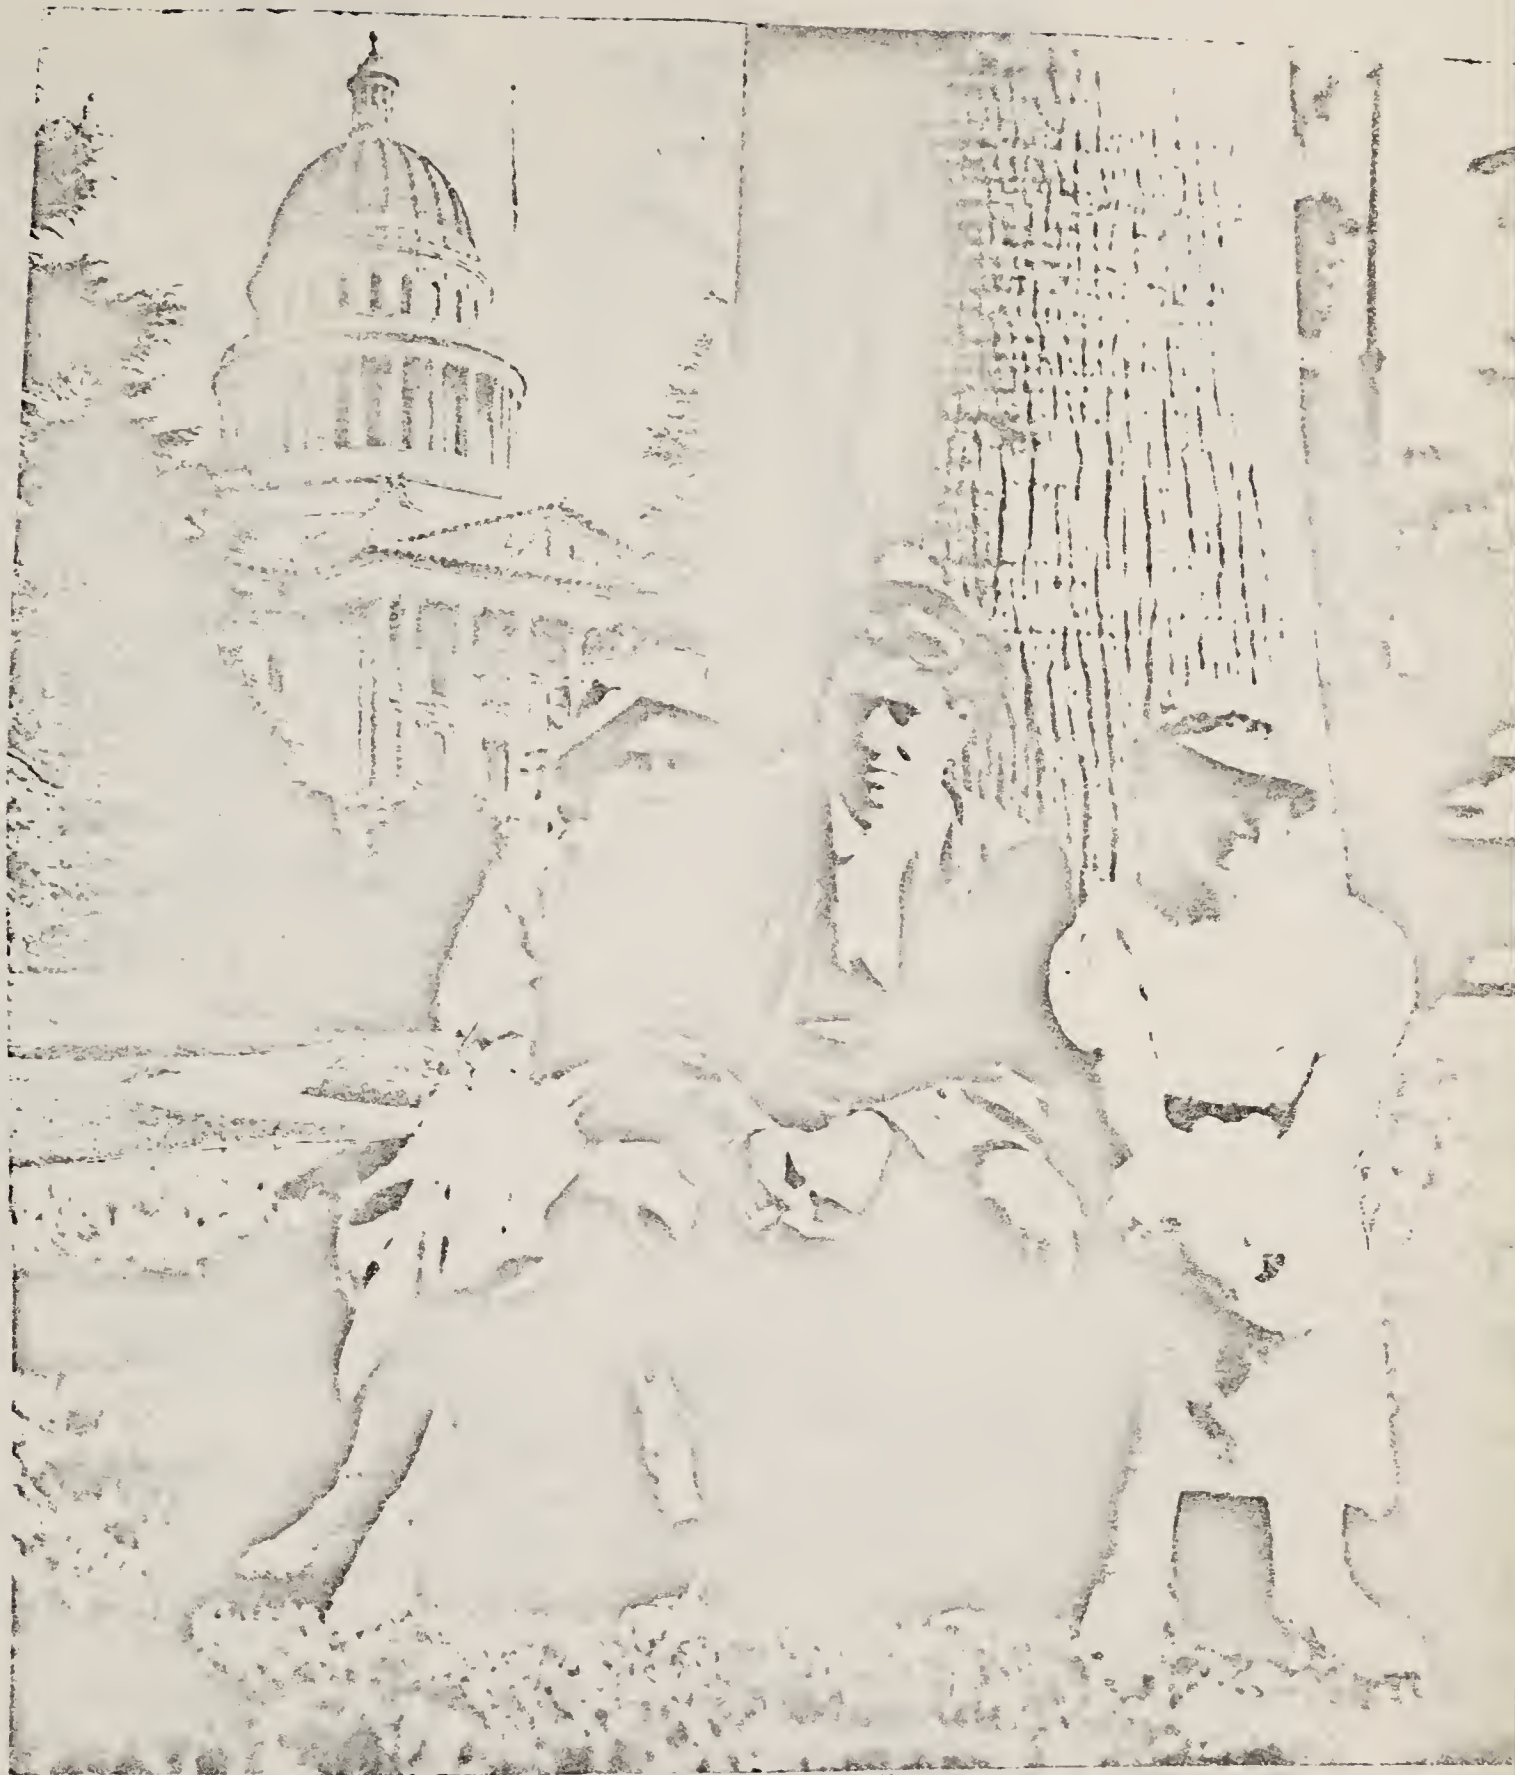

Perier, for the last year a maintenance clerk for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., was offered a post in Africa by Pan American Airways. He accepted and immediately popped the question to Miss Odell, but found he had to catch a plane and didn't even have time to be married.

The Tucson ceremony during an eight minute refueling stop was arranged by sympathetic American Airways officials, and when it was over Perier continued east on the plane. Mrs. Perier took another plane home, to wait for a year until her husband returns.

CASA TOYOPA

The surroundings of Casa Toyopa, Supreme Gives one the Exclusiveness fit for a Queen
Listen and hear those Normandie Chimes
Aren't you glad you live in these Modern times?
Step into the Entrance, just for a visit
And you will exclaim, "My, how exquisite".
Walk through this Home if you'll be so kind
And the latest Equipment in Gas you will find
A most charming living room, also the Hall
Opens out onto a Terrace and that is not all
An old fashioned Fireplace that goes without work
A Modern gas device that never does shirk
From the Large Dining room one can see far and wide
Through windows that open, from the east and west side
In the gleaming white kitchen all tiled to the ceiling
Gives one a sort of Superior Feeling
A Beautiful range stands in just the right place
The latest thing out with its tubular base
A fine large Electrolux that just seems to say
"Keep me filled with goodies, and I'll more than repay".
One look at that Breakfast room with its knotty pine top
And you'll know right here is where you want to stop
But the den is adorable in soft frosted green
A place thats so restful, so cool, and so clean
An Air Conditioner that is Automatic
Keeps fresh, cool, or warm air from Basement to Attic
Just wait until you have been up the Stair
Those bathrooms, those colors so dainty and rare
The bedrooms are lovely and beautifully done
One feels it the finest place under the sun
Yes, Venetian Blinds at the windows are there
To let in the Sunshine without any glare
When you have been through it you will say it is grand
With the works of an artist all drawn in by hand
O there's nooks and there's corners most everywhere
Just to make things more comf'y for those who live there
The boat like effect that long porch gives to me
A feeling of sailing right out on the sea
Santa Monica Bay is so pretty out there
With the silent white sails gliding by everywhere
You look down on the Canyon so gorgeous below
Or off to Mt. Baldy all covered with snow
As for the Garage, which you'll think's a Mirage
'Presto' Overhead doors, parallel with the floors
The architecture is of Old Monterey
With grounds that are spacious and flowers all the way
All of this and much more for a sum so enticing
Just ask and you'll be amazed at the pricing
In Huntington Palisades, Heart of the Best
Makes you know you have come to the end of your quest
Once you have lived there you'll ne'er care to roam

ODELL GENEALOGY
PRELIMINARY REPORT
IMPORTANT NOTICE

This letter will probably never be repeated so keep it carefully with this Preliminary Report. It helps to confirm the authenticity of my work.

Please read your name in all these lists very carefully, also any other names that you know about in the same manner. If your name or marriage is left out, or you are dead and it is not recorded in the CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX do not become angry with me about it. It is because I have no date for the same, being chronological it contains only those names where dates have been sent in. It may be not your fault either, some of the names of children being sent in by their aunts and I do not have the parent's addresses.

I also make mistakes, plenty of them. Don't be bashful about telling me of them. That is one of the reasons why this Preliminary Report is being sent out in advance, that and the fact that the book has grown to such proportions and my health being not so good I will feel better to know that everybody has the most important part of the work now, in a condensed form, of course. At least my work will not have been all in vain and I will feel better to know that has been done. I am retiring from my other work and will continue on the Complete Genealogy with more vigor. The only thing discouraging is the fact that some are a bit slow about answering letters and so far I have nothing from the Orcutts, somebody should know more about them, whoever sent in the time of Eliza Ann Odell's death might know; Uncle Austin died, the second Austin, and his wife Aunt Lilo married a man named J. Morse and moved to Stuart, Iowa. Whatever became of the three boys: Milo, Charles and Henry Odell we have no record. Perhaps some of you might write to the Methodist preachers in Cedar Falls and Stuart and see if they transferred and thus get a line on them. The present Minister in Cedar Falls is Rev. Earl A. Baker, 804 Washington Street. I will write him but I am so far behind it may be three months before I can do it. I have over thirty letters unanswered now, so if someone would do this for me it might advance the work that much.

On the Other Hand I am very happy to report that the Lobdell branch of the family is now complete. I have received pedigrees from Ross Clark Odell with six people; Harlan Bird Odell with eleven persons and Miss Jean Ingelow Odell, I, sends in the Newark Odells with twenty-seven names, all of which appear on the Preliminary Genealogy enclosed.

SPELLING OF NAMES -- MIDDLE NAMES

If someone has changed the spelling of their name that is their business. I think Mae looks prettier than May, Maude than Maud. The new name goes in the book, (with the old one if requested); but don't try to change somebody else's name to fit your spelling.

The best authority for the spelling of anyone's name is that person themselves; of young children their mothers and grandmothers; Old Bible records, wills, deeds, letters, war papers and other official documents - for persons long dead. Our great progenitor Grandpa Robert Ferris Odell, in his Bible and letters and a family pedigree he wrote, never signed his middle name in full and I was not able to get his signature to put under his full page picture, in the frontispiece, except with just an "F" in the middle.

Of course Ferris stood for Grandpa's Mother's name. The whole family has been very careful in this regard, middle names always meant something to them. Grandpa wrote it Uretta in his Bible, but Eurette in a pedigree he wrote for Judge Robert Adelbert Odell about 1858 and the Judge in a similar pedigree many years later wrote it Euretta. (Facsimiles of both these papers are being reproduced for the book). This name Euretta is the slender thread that binds us to the Odells that came to Concord, Mass. in 1635. There were three Eurettas in their descendants that lived around or near Westport, N.Y. just before Aunt Euretta was born and the name is not common. I have searched diligently and will never give up until I have made this point sure. Perhaps one of you holds the key. Please let me know if so and relieve my mind of this burden. The name is scarce and Grandpa was a stickler for such things. Mr. Haacker, whose wife is an Odell, spends his vacations motoring around New York and adjoining states looking up county records and he is a great help.

If you were christened Henry and want to call yourself Henri it is perfectly all right with me, but God help the man who tries to change my name to Harrie. But if you were christened Henry and your name is Henry in any Bible or official record you better be careful. Someday you or your child might lose some property because of such confusion of names. In any event, don't try to change the name of your grandfather or uncle from Henry to Henri. His name must not be fooled with. It has been recorded here, in the family Bible, on other official documents or records, perhaps signed to deeds, I hope not to mortgages, etc.; or it may be engraved on more permanent marble tombstones. You may let some future genealogist in for a headache when he comes to photographing them. LET IT ALONE.

In looking over Our List I find many pretty names, in fact most are so, people who have helped me in a secretarial way have remarked about it. Ambrozone, Euretta, Bonnigene, Elmina, Leslie, Patricia, Wilma Effie, Carol Ann, LaVonne Jacqueline, Ethel Mae and Aletha Maude, Lynne Joy, Diane, Dale Glenn Wallace Jerry appeal to me. Velma Salina Berends is nice to hear, I bet she is nice to look at too.

As a small boy I was greatly taken with the name Della Odell. I loved her and her name. The couplet was only completed when she married Uncle Alex. She seemed to especially like me, as Aunt Lima does. I think the Alex Eugene group should have given that name to some of their girls. Aunt Della first taught me how to use firearms, both a revolver and shot gun, and it came in handy in the Navy. I often wonder if our Mail Carrier, Ned McGowan ever shoots prairie chickens in the Blue mountains around Dayton now-a-days.

I think Jay Bernard sounds distinguished and he lived up to it. So does Davin Wynn and Kenneth Lloyd.

NICKNAMES OR PET NAMES ARE IMPORTANT.

I am putting in all such names, (in parenthesis), wherever I find them. Often a whole family or group of families knows Levi as (Lee) or Robert Adelbert as (Dell), Washington as (Winn or Wynn), Lewis as (Lew). Elmina as (Minnie). I put them in parenthesis () because others often are really named Wynn, Winn, Bert, etc.

If a son was named after his father Robert, confusion was bound to arise when addressing one or the other so Mamma got to calling her son (Bert or Bobbie), or Edwin (Ned). Soon the neighbors, aunts and cousins never called them anything else; even they, themselves, forgot their real names and were recorded in school by Mamma's pet name. The school record is often the first official record.

Sometimes even near relatives write to me and I find out they never knew their nephew's or niece's real name. If you enlisted in the Army or Navy under an assumed name be sure to write me about that. I can not look up a record that never existed. The Civil Service gives FULL CREDIT for such service under assumed names but you must so state. There is a printer here in New York who has been arrested twice because he enlisted under an assumed name in World War I. He used the name of a widow he had been boarding with, and being reported killed, the widow collected the insurance. He came back with a bride from France and was accused of being an accessory to defrauding the government.

John Graham Odell was always called (Jack) but Jack Dell Stone was so named. Jim B. Odell was thus named. At first my father and brother and I just tried to tease mother, but she began to love him under that name and would have no other, it was from James G. Blaine. Ask Addie who reveres him him under that name now. Washington Emmet McGowan was (Winn) for short, but David Wynn Peterson is so named. (Stop me if I am wrong.)

Putting "Lobdell" in Levi Lobdell Odell was my own idea until his son confirmed by guess by using it himself. Grandpa wrote it simply Levi L. Odell, but the Judge, in his list, wrote it Levi Losey Odell. Grandpa did however write out Harriet Estella Odell, up until I read that I had never had anything but Hattie.

You know art. (Now he's 'goin to talk about art, lets see if he knows anything.) I think art consists of experiencing, (not from feeling, hearing, seeing, etc.) but from a sixth sense, not a fifth column, things that are close to something we are already acquainted with, perhaps in a previous incarnation, the more familiar we are with it the better; and the metaphor, (used from it's analysis) must be very subtle, the more elusive the more artistic, the Better Art. Patriotism comes from this, the poet boils over with: "Be there a man with soul so dead." Sly without being insinuating, (artful is given) but artful without being crafty, treacherous; discriminating in a refined way. The refinement that pleases but does not offend, for ostentatious refinement is not refinement but vulgar display.

It is psychological, a something we sense without our senses. Something that appeals to us without our knowing why. A similarity so fine we feel it like an extra sense; we know but we do not know why we know.

Nellie is a common name familiar to all, sweet to many, but Nesie is the Art of Nellie. Harry may be Art for Henry but Harrie is sissified. Art may not be art to us unless we are acquainted with the prototype, for instance an Alligator Pear is Art in the taste sense to those who enjoy olives. When a New Yorker motors along the petite mountains of West Virginia a twenty-story factory building, being constructed in a lonesome, wild country, gives him a thrill, at the same time the buildings in the nation's capital, usually considered so imposing, seem squatty to a big city dweller.

Someday I may write an essay on Art and Psychology.

THE DESCENT FROM WALTER FLANDRENSIS

This part of our book is not put here with any idea of conveying the impression that the Odells descended from George Washington, or from the same ancestors, except and but, that he descended from nine of the Surety Barons of the Magna Charta, a line of twelve Odells descended from William Malet, one of the Sureties, and finally merged into the Chetwoods, who by right should also have been named Odell and who came from four of the Sureties. This marriage led to the Bulkeley's who trace their ancestry through two lines of Odells, (Wodhull-Wahul, Chetwood) and other Sureties, making fifteen in all; and enables us, with the aid of the several pedigrees shown, to trace the whole 31 or more generations from Walter Flandrensis down to Ralph Waldo Emerson and the Mayor of Hartford, Governor of Connecticut and U. S. Senator Morgan Gardner Bulkeley, without a break; and as later research may show, to the offspring of Robert Ferris Odell.

GEORGE WASHINGTON descended from King John and nine of the Sureties of Magna Charta as follows:

Robert de Ross	Saher of Quincy
* William o Aubigny	Roger O'God, has son
Richard de Clare and Grandson	Hugh O'God
John de Lacy	Robert of Vere

Beginning with Robert de Ross, Washington was of the twentieth generation. Sir Richard Chetwood of Northants, descended from four of the Sureties, and from him came Rev. Peter Bulkeley, who came to America with the first Odell, William in 1635, and from him came Ralph Waldo Emerson. It is no use to argue, class will tell and smartness in a family goes on and on in each succeeding generation through the ages. There is no doubt of it. Brilliance may slumber for a few generations, but it bobs up every once in a while. --Priam of Troy.

WERE THE CHETWOODS ALSO ODELLS?

This Pedigree shows twelve generations of Woodhulls from William Malet, one of the Magna Charta Sureties, down to an only daughter, Agnes, who married Richard Chetwood, also a descendant of four of the Sureties: Robert Fitzwalter, Roger and Hugh Bigod and Henry de Bohun. Richard Chetwood was not a Baron Surety but a descendant from them in the 14th-18th generations. Hudson, in his "History of Concord, Mass." page 327, says: "The names of Rev. Bulkeley's children by his first marriage were: Edward, Mary, Thomas, Nathaniel, John, Mary, George, Daniel, Jabez, Joseph, William and Richard; by his second wife: Gertrude, Eleanor, Dorothy, and Peter." The Pedigree on the opposite page: "Genealogies of Mahul and Chetwode," shows the name Helerwyfe, as a daughter of Hugh de Viron and Walter de Mahul as her husband. After him came: John, Thomas and John again, with Nicholas, as his brother, not son. From Nicholas came another Thomas and he married a daughter of Sir John Chetwode, (the first union of these families); another Thomas, (and Roger, not Richard). Here from Thomas came John, Fulke, Nicholas, Anthony and Agnes;— and from Roger came Thomas, Roger, Thomas, Roger and Richard; who united the branches of the family again by marrying Agnes.

* It seems these two brothers took, one his proper name Mahul, and the other his mother's name Chetwood, and the two families continued thus for six generations, when Agnes, being an only child, they were reunited.

Sir Richard Chetwood, son and heir of Agnes Wodhull by her first marriage, was father of Grace Chetwood, second wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. It is a remarkable circumstance that Mr. Bulkeley was Rector of Odell, and that his wife's family through her grandmother, Agnes Wodhull, had been lords of the manor at Odell since Domesday Book (1086), the earliest record of the ownership of lands in England. This ancient lineage is shared by all who descend from the second marriage of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

THE MAGNA CHARTA BARONS and RALPH WALDO EMERSON

Browning's Magna Charta Barons and Their Descendants, P.180.

"Sir Nicholas Woodhull, (Odell, see article "Philological"), Bedfordshire, had only one son, Anthony Woodhull, who was Lord of Thenford Manor. His sole heir was Agnes who married Sir Richard Chetwood, third son of Washworth, Northants, and their combined estates were thereafter known as Chetwood-Woodhull Manor. He was ^{descendant} one of the Magna Charta Barons ^{with} after King John signed this historic document (June 19, 1215) ~~he was well~~ chosen as one of the 'Sureties', a group of the higher Lords to compel the King to live up to his pledge." Through this descent Mrs. Pool (Odell) became a member of the Magna Charta Dames.

Burke's Colonial Gentry, Page 821, 2nd Col. (See photostat) says: "Rev. Peter Bulkeley" (They spelled it in various ways), "was . . . allied to the Odell family through his marriage with Grace, daughter of Sir Richard Chetwood." ~~This must have been a later Sir Richard, John was king from 1199 to 1216.~~

Hudson in his "History of Concord, Mass." says: "Rev. Peter Bulkeley descended in the tenth generation from Robert Bulkeley, Esq., an English Baron, who, in the reign of King John was Lord of Bulkeley in the County Palatine of Chester."

The line of descent in America, according to Hudson, is:
Rev. Peter Bulkeley-....., to America with Wm. Odell, 1635. Rev. Edward Bulkeley, b. June 17, 1614 in England, m Luycan.

2. Elizabeth Bulkeley, (the second child), m. Rev. Joseph Emerson, 1680. They had Three Children: Peter m. Brown; Edward m. Mary Moody; Joseph m. Rebecca Waldo.

(Here the record is mixed as it says:)

He served in South Africa, receiving the South African medal and clasp for 1879, and was mentioned in despatches. He d. s. p. 1894.

Parentage.

The Odell family in England is an ancient one, having been founded there by WALTER FLADGERS, who came over with the Conqueror in 1066, and as his share of the spoils of conquest, received, among other states, that of Wadhull or Wadhull (now Odell) in Radfordshire. From this possession, which he made his principal stronghold, Walter Fladgers acquired the title of Baron de Wadhull, and became the progenitor of a noble family of that name who were, for many generations, summoned to Parliament by the King as Barons de Wadhull and de Wadhull. The orthography of the name has gradually changed, however, from de Wadhull to Woodhull, Woodhull, Woodhull, etc. In a pedigree of the family in the Visitation of Northampton in 1618, we find mention of "Nicolas Woodhull alias Odell," and in All Saints Church at Maddington, Oxfordshire, may be seen a mural tablet erected in 1626, to the memory of "Mrs Elizabeth Woodhull, late wife of Richard Woodhull, alias Odell, Esq." The alternate use of the two names Woodhull and Odell is also found in the earlier records of the American family; a petition in 1668 by the second son of William Odell, the founder of the family in America, being signed "William Woodhull."

WILLIAM ODELL, the founder of the family in America, emigrated to New Brunswick early in 1666, in company with the Rev. Peter Bulkeley, who was rector of the parish of Wadhull in Radfordshire in 1620, and allied to the Odell family through his marriage with Grace, daughter of Sir Richard Pierrepont, m. Odell settled at Concord, Massachusetts, but removed to Fairfield, Connecticut, about 1644, where he became the owner of a large estate. He d. in 1676, leaving a will, recorded at Fairfield the same year. He had issue, three sons and one daughter. The eldest son, JOHN ODELL, of Fairfield, was made freeman in 1647 by the General Assembly; in 1666, in behalf of his father, he joined with Francis Hull in a deed of partition; in 1673 and 1682 he received grants of land from the town of Fairfield; in 1707, he made a will, appointing his wife, Mary, executrix. He had issue, two sons and three daughters.

FRANCIS SYMUEL ODELL, of Fairfield, was b. 16th March, 1677; in 1700, he received deed of lands from his father; in 1722, was commissioned ensign by the General Assembly; in 1727, his estate was administered on, with inventory, mentioning his widow Deborah.

He had issue, two sons and three daughters. The second son,

JOHN ODELL, of Stratfield, removed to Connecticut Farms, New Jersey, and m. Temperance, daughter of Rev. Jonathan Dickinson, First President of the College of New Jersey, whose wife was Joanna Mayhew. He d. 25th June, 1759 (will recorded at Trenton, N.J.), leaving issue, one son, Jonathan, and three daughters. The son,

HON. AND REV. JONATHAN ODELL, M.A. of Frederickton, N.B., the noted loyalist; was b. 26th September, 1737, in Newark, N.J.; in 1754 he graduated at the College of New Jersey, was educated for the medical profession, and served as surgeon in the British Army. He afterwards studied for holy orders, and in 1766 was ordained by the Bishop of London, at the Chapel Royal, St. James'. In 1767, he was appointed rector of St. Anne's Church, Burlington, N.J. He was prominent during the war of the Revolution for his sympathy for England, and was employed by General Sir Guy Carleton (Lord Dorchester) in many important and confidential trusts. He was joint author of the Loyal Petition of Stanbury and Odell. At the close of the war he removed to Frederickton, N.B., where he was made secretary of the province, and held many other responsible offices under the Crown. He m. 1772, Anne deCot, who survived him, and d. 25th November, 1818, leaving one son, William Franklin, and three daughters. The son,

He resigned this office the same year, on being made deputy provincial secretary, registrar and clerk of the Executive Council. In 1847, Mr. Odell was a judge of the Court of Common Pleas; in 1850, he was made a member of the Legislative Council of New Brunswick, by royal warrant; in 1853, on the formation of what was known as the Anti-Confederate Government, he was appointed member of the Executive Council and postmaster-general, remaining in office until the resignation of the government the next year; in May, 1867, he was called to the Dominion Senate by royal proclamation, and for twenty-four years was a member of that honourable body. Mr. Odell m. Elizabeth Ann, daughter of the Hon. William B. PHILOLOGICAL

NAME

PHILOLOGICAL

ODELL, through the ages, has had numerous variations in spelling, as have most words, in every language.

Odellum in Phoenicia, Odellam in Jewish.--Mrs. Pool. Um is the Latin singular ending. The whole tribe of the Odells in those days would have been called Odellae. Woodhull in the Genealogical and Biographical Record for July, 1870. ((The spelling of the next word is not ours.)) Note the date when this magazine came to the Public Library, in 1877, Dec. 1. Perhaps then is when their genealogical division was started. Jean Imogene Odell, IX, in the caption under the picture she took in England, says there is every variety of spelling of Odell in Bedford.

Wadehull, Wodell, changed to Woodhill by the Bishop in his transcriptions, ((He tried to make a very badly misspelled word sensible, and made it worse.)) Wahull, Wodhull, Woadhill, Oadell, Woadell, Nodle, Noddell, Odell, Odel, Odle, etc. ((Some of my mother's relations insist it should be Noodle, due to the large quantities of soup they had to eat at one time and, carrying this reasoning on, claim the family must have originated in the Netherlands, have a Dutch origin. There is one fatal upset to this reasoning. There is no such word as "noodle" meaning soup, in the Flemish language, though the family once did live in Flanders.)) This is one of the reasons why we have taken the pains to include so many photostats that do not seem to have any important significance to our genealogy.

Max Muller, a great German philologist, has concluded that the difference in languages and changes in spelling and pronunciation has been responsible for the wars of the world and no doubt sometimes in the past it has been a contributing factor. The Bible (Gen. xi, 9) speaks of "the confusion of tongues" stopping the construction of the tower of Babel; but we do not get the word "babble" from that incident. The Semite enemies of Babylon made a pun on the word "Babel" which means the "gate of God" and called it "babble" which means meaningless talk; to confound. Both words have their origin long prior to that time.

In the author's immediate family we have had much discussion as to which; Odell as used by my father's people, or Odel, as from my mother's side of the house, is correct. Both are right. Anybody has a right to spell his own name as he or she sees fit, but it is better if they spell it as their father did.

To set all these arguments at ease, ^{the} show exactly why name is spelled Odell by most people, I have taken the pains to include the photostats that follow. My own brother Ed. has dropped the final "l" as unnecessary, but I tried to show him that anything steers better if longer. Streamlining does not mean shortening. The oldest Fords were nearly square on their wheels and they were the cars that insisted on turning around and going down a wet street backward.

The copies from the Bible of Gabriel Odell, page 677, "Family Record, Marriages" and page 680, "Deaths," which Bible in its entirety is to be found in the New York Public Library Genealogy Division, shows conclusively how "Odell" was corrupted the "O'Dell" (in a different hand). As long as the original Gabriel Odell lived he wrote his name "Odell" as it should be.

Even the tory Odell, Hon. and Rev. Jonathan Odell, when he was afraid to remain in the United States, after the Revolutionary War, and finding himself still more unpopular in England, went to live in Ireland and changed the eagle displayed on our escutcheon to a rooster, did not change his name to O'Dell, but there is an O'Dell castle, town and bay on older maps of Ireland, on the southern coast. I have never contacted any records of this branch of the family.

Page B10, Vol. II, MILTON ERNST BAPTISMS; 1685-1698. of the twelve volumes of the "Records of Bedfordshire, England," (attested typewritten transcriptions) proves that "Wodell" spelled "Woodhill" by the Bishop, is the same family whose name is later spelled "Odell" and "Odel" on the same page; and the widow in "MARRIAGES" in a later volume, signed herself: "Eliz Odell, Widow" ((photostat not given but easy to look up if anybody doubts it.)) Can anybody doubt this evidence? Page A30, "ODELL MARRIAGES: 1735-1754," is given to show how important the town must have been at that time to have so many, all on one page, give their address as Odell. On page 821 "Burke's Colonial Gentry" we have further evidence of changes in the spelling. All these authorities are of the very best. They are admitted as evidence in the courts of England in the settling of estates.

There was an Odell who went to Michigan and has many descendants there who changed his name to O'Dell. He was a politician in Detroit and probably wanted to catch the Irish-Catholic vote. He sprang from the same original emigrant as we do.

In Canada in 1799 ten Odell Families spelled their name Odel and three Odell. It is supposed Janiah Odel's family came from these Canadian Odells. This is a job for a future genealogist.

Bedfordshire Records, Vol. II. Index: Adel, A72. 1734 Mar. 25, Mr. Odell, curate, on Mar. 2, 1719, baptised a child.

Thenford, England, is in Northampton, adjoining Bedfordshire on the northwest, about 70 to 100 miles northwest of London. "Northants" is Old English for Northampton.

An early record is that in Bedfordshire Parish Records which says: "BAPTISMS. 1569 Jan 13 Thomas Odell son of John Odell."

May 13, 1654, Court of New Haven, Conn. "Goodwife Odell was present when goodwife Knapp was hanged for a witch." Lockwood Genealogy, Page 6.

The editorial terms: "We", "I", "My", "Our", etc. are used indiscriminately in "my" work, whichever seemed to make the best sense where used. The limitations of the English language sometimes makes it hard to express whether I/We/Me mean the (particular book under discussion) or the book we are writing. Grammar is subordinated to clarity and common sense. I have ever tried to express the truth, shoved aside all modesty or prudery. This book is for ODELL'S to read and I am trying to tell the story as I would tell it were I sitting in your (My/Our/We'r) living room. If any outsider thinks it is bombastic or too much given to self praise he is respectfully invited to lay the volume down and take up other reading that suppresses facts in the interest of social usage and so-called polite society. The Odells are a very plain people. They know what they are among themselves and don't care a hoot what others may think they are.

The author wishes to give thanks for help to Mr. H. C. Stippel, in charge and his able assistants: Miss E. Weidinger, Messrs. B. Bledsee and B. Sorby. Miss Soderberg of the Long Island Historical Society has also been of much help.

The Main Reading Room of the New York Public Library has 865 seats. all filled in busy hours of the afternoon and half occupied to closing time at 10 P.M. There are separate rooms for: Pictures (2), Science, Genealogy, 328; American History, 300; Patents and Engineering, Music, Lending Library, Children's Room, Social Economy, Actors, Manuscripts, Maps, Magazines and many others. The readers in the Main Reading Room do not read fiction, but reference works which may not be taken from the library. The Magazine Room has recent as well as back numbers. It is much overcrowded. There is also an Art Gallery, a Lecture Room and an Exhibition Room where antique and rare exhibits are held. The formation of a Genealogy Guild is proposed.

TARRYTOWN PRESS RECORD, Tarrytown, New York. June 13, 1884, has a picture of Odell Inn by the courtesy of M. D. Raymond, Esq. NOTE: This picture was so defaced by folding and careless handling that making a presentable photostat was impossible. The place has great historical interest. Though it would be considered a saloon today, at one time religious services were held there, while it was a bar room, I don't know if they sold drinks on Sundays at that time.

BEDFORDSHIRE, ENGLAND, PARISH REGISTERS, 1592-1812, 12 Vols. Complete Indices in back of each volume. They contain Births, Deaths, Marriages and Baptisms for several hundred years. Only 25 copies were transcribed in typewriter. When the state took these books from the church many years ago a bishop made copies and these agree in every case except that some missing records were added. Where the originals were illegible the BT (Bishop's Transcriptions) are used. Several of these pages are to be found in my work in photostats. From this work I believe a persistent laborer could construct a Genealogy of the Odell Family in England. (Mr. Haacker is engaged on this now.) King's work in this regard is insufficient but will help. Rufus King journeyed to England and copied all the Odell names in these records, but he did it in such a way as to be of little use in tracing the descent of the family except as a check on some future worker's efforts. This latter volume is in the Long Island Historical Society Library. Just how the two works could be brought together will be a problem. The author has a letter from Mr. King written in 1920. He then lived at 222 North Broadway, Yonkers, N. Y.

Mrs. Pool says, page 15: "Richard Woodhull, Gent. progenitor of the Woodhulls in this country and to whom his kinsman Lord Crewe sent the "Woodhull Achievement", about 1687, * * * described as Richard Odell, and William Odell, Jr. of Rye, N.Y. signed his name Richard Woodhull in 1668. Harvey's "Hist. of Willey Hundred", Bedfordshire.

Mrs. Pool also has diagram of township of Sutton and, same, of Hemmingford, Canada, showing names of Odells as land owners. All Joseph, Sr., sons, except John Odell are shown on this map.

In the Library of the Author

NEW YORK IN THE REVOLUTION, as Colony and State, by Comptroller James A. Roberts. Official publication of the state, 1894, 261 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ x12 pages, reproductions of lists of troupes, by photo engravings: complete lists of all men who served in the Revolutionary War (from New York State only), from pay rolls, pension papers and other documents. Maps and accounts of battles, 35 illustrations, 83 regiments, 154 commanding officers in index. My search shows 40 Odells, 2 Cadys and 2 Lobdells in this book. Mrs. Pool refers to a book by the same name, in more than one volume, but none of her citations appear in my copy. There is a second edition.

COLONIAL CONCORD, by Alfred Sereno Hudson, is also in the author's collection on genealogy. Over 500 6x9 pages, has Odell references in many places, useful as collaborative material only. Has whole story of Ralph Waldo Emerson's descent, pages 333-34, but is badly mixed up. Only Vol. I. was ever published. The Erudite Press, Concord, Mass, 1904. I also have some manuscripts of Dr. Hudson which are valuable Genealogical material; also an unpublished work on psychology. Dr. Hudson was also a lawyer with a large legal business. All of his works are written from a religious standpoint and history is considered as of secondary importance. This he writes in his preface and it is very apparent in his text; but, the book is, nevertheless, of great historical importance. The language is fine, descriptions unexcelled and pictures very excellent. A valuable work. The 500 pages, 6x9, printed on good paper are interspersed with over sixty engravings, printed in 1904, when pressmen still took pride in their work, contain "The Old Manse" made famous by Emerson and Hawthorne: homes, libraries and graves of Emerson, Hawthorne, Peter Bulkeley, Thoreau, Frank B. Sanborn, Elisha Jones, A. Bronzon and Louisa May Alcott and many others. To me it is a bi-product of running a second-hand book store for several years.

"BESSEBORO" (Elizabethtown) is a history of Westport, N.Y. by Caroline H. Royce, who was born there. She was at one time employed in the New York Public Library, N.Y.C. I have written a history of the Odells, etc., in this town, from this book.

THE PHOTOSTATS included in my work from the Bedfordshire County Records are: page B10 "Milton Ernst Baptisms", 1685-1698, which is given to show how the name "Wodell", "Woodhill" (as spelled in the Bishop's Transcriptions), is changed to "Odell" and finally "Odel" on the same page: 1st Col. lines 22, 23, "Wodell"; lines 53, 65 in same Col. "Odell"; and line 22, 2nd Col. "Odel"; and A30 shows 37 Odells on one page.

"WODELL FAMILY", in Long Island Historical Society, is a grewsome book, author defends himself against charge of wife murder: good poem and style form for genealogical workers.

"THE WOODHULL ACHIEVEMENT" shows Chetwood as the third of the 18 Quarterings added to the Odell Shield, the "Ros" is the ninth.

ODELLS IN AMERICA

An old English record says: "William and John Odell went to America and settled in that part of New Hampshire" which later became part of New York State. They scattered to Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada. There are five towns named "Odell" in the United States.--Pool, page 11-16. Note by Editor Odell: This does not conflict with our records, for part of New York State was once included in New Hampshire, in fact every New England state claimed all the land immediately west of their colony as far as it went, and they did not know at that time how far that was: and the English, naturally, at that time, immediately after we licked them in the Revolutionary War, would want to claim such a family as the Odells, were still on British soil and so make the most of the Tory Odells, Rev. Jonathan Odell's family being still loyal. They paid him and his family well. Rev. Jonathan was given high office in New Brunswick, his grandson, though he found it convenient to live in the United States, was made a Major in the British Army. The family are still, so I have heard, in fine positions on account of this one act of treachery.

-----X-----

William Odell came to Concord, Mass. with Rev. Peter Bulkeley from the Parish of Bedfordshire, England in 1635. This was characteristic of the Odells. They were seldom preachers, but always lived and traveled with those who preached.

-----X-----

The series or articles on Genealogy in the New York Herald, 1902-3, though true in a sense, was one of the numerous newspaper fakes of that time. It was in the form of questions and answers, the editor of that department simply asked himself some questions then answering them; pretending they came from subscribers. It was an easy trick, it being only necessary to ask questions about such families as there were pedigrees of in the public library, something like the questions and answers that come over the radio today, (1941). They copy the answers out of books and then ask the questions. It might be a good idea to give the answers first and then ask what the questions are. Anyhow the great proportion of these questions about the Odell family proves that even at that early date, there was much Odell data in the books. In every case the answer about the Odells was to be found in King's Chart. Nothing is found that could be traced to Mrs. Pool's book, simply because Pool did not come out till the last decade, the 1930s.

Capt. John Lawrence, sheriff of Queen's County, now part of New York City, Newton, Long Island, married Deborah Woodhull, also descendant of one of the Magna Carta Sureties. The name Woodhull, while it is the same family as Odell in England, should set that family apart from consideration as part of the Odell family in the United States.

Odellum, in the Latin, is the singular, the plural would be Odellae.

Wisconsin, from whence he removed to Illinois, where he was married. In 1849, he moved to Cedar Falls, Iowa, and he removed to Iowa, in 1850, and located where now is the business center of Cedar Falls, then but a remote farm wilderness. He built and operated the first store building in the county, in the second story of which the county business was long conducted. He was accidentally drowned in the mill race on the evening of the 12th of December, 1863, leaving his wife Ellen and three children, named respectively, Owen Edmund, Lizzie Ellen and Kate Emma. Mr. M. was a man thoroughly valued with the spirit of Western enterprise, of great force of character, possessed of wide and comprehensive views, and with full confidence in the successful future of his adopted State. He directed all his energies to the end that Iowa should not be behind in the race for supremacy among the sisterhood of States. The now thriving city of Cedar Falls is largely indebted to his ability and untiring exertions in her behalf for the proud position she occupies to-day. And it is the conviction of one and all that had he lived, many other and larger enterprises than are now occupying the attention of the people, would have been successfully inaugurated and vigorously prosecuted. Through his mercantile transactions, he amassed a competency. He held many local positions of trust and honor, in the Council, School Board, railroad and other corporations; was Postmaster for a number of years, but never sought prominence in official life. Kind and generous to the deserving, his early death was sincerely regretted by every one, for by the exertions of his type of man are the resources of a new country fully developed.

THE GENEALOGY DEPARTMENT OF THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Genealogy Division administers Genealogy, Heraldry and Local History in a collection of 47,000 books and pamphlets; also 40,000 volumes of English and American local history, shelved in room 325, with an overflow on Stack VII. This special field calls for a special background and technique. Additional strength is given the collection by extensive holdings in American patriotic and British local historical societies, publications, parish registers, etc. This room is 36x72 feet, has 60 seats and an average of over 140 readers use 647 volumes daily.

The collection on Heraldry is also strong and much used. It includes all literatures except Oriental and Slavonic. The history of other countries may be secured in the main reading room except Canadian, West Indian, Mexican and Central and South American, which is part of the collection of American History, room 300, which is the same size as the Genealogy room.

Large collections on Biography, which have been shelved on Stack IV, have been added to the collection, the Bancroft and Ford collections in particular. In 1896 the Robinson collection of American Genealogies and local histories was purchased and in 1909 Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge gave about 400 British Genealogies and town and country histories.

The indices and catalogues are very complete. A printed series of special note is the index to New York City vital records: births, marriages and deaths beginning with 1888. In receiving these the Library agrees to permit the use of volumes covering births and marriages only after they have been published more than ten years. The record of deaths is not considered confidential.

Quoting from the Public Library "Bulletin" of May, 1935, the last official report, the books on Genealogy at that time were classed as follows:

General	350 Vols.	Heraldry	800 Vols.
American	10,000 "	Reserve	250 "
British	3,800 "	Directories before
Other Countries	2,500 "	1870	1,300 "

Later directories are available on the shelves in the main reading room.

In Biography there are:

Dictionaries, etc.	7,500 Vols.
Collective Biography	7,800 "
Individual Biography	38,400 "

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The first part of the history of the United States of America is the period from the discovery of the continent by Christopher Columbus in 1492 to the establishment of the first permanent settlements. This period is characterized by the exploration of the continent by Spanish, French, and English explorers, and the establishment of the first permanent settlements by the English in 1607.

The second part of the history of the United States of America is the period from the establishment of the first permanent settlements to the American Revolution in 1776. This period is characterized by the growth of the colonies, the struggle for independence from Britain, and the establishment of the United States as a new nation.

The third part of the history of the United States of America is the period from the American Revolution to the Civil War in 1861. This period is characterized by the expansion of the United States, the struggle for slavery, and the establishment of the United States as a major power in the world.

The fourth part of the history of the United States of America is the period from the Civil War to the present. This period is characterized by the Reconstruction era, the Gilded Age, the Progressive Era, and the modern era.

The fifth part of the history of the United States of America is the period from the present to the future. This period is characterized by the challenges of the future and the hopes for a better world.

OVER MATTER

A stubble field, a furrowed "quarter", piles of manure, loads of gypsum dumped along a fence, rolls of wire fencing, horses, harness, wagons, plows, cultivators, and tractors; mowers, reapers, binders, cows, pigs and chickens; smoke houses, ice houses, milk houses, churns, milkers, hay stacks, barns, pig pens, cow sheds and chicken coops are the materials out of which a farm is made; but, without human labor, human brains and co-ordination they will never make a farm.

Many genealogists never write a Genealogy. They become so much interested in genealogy as a hobby that they never find time to create a Genealogy, to work their materials into a book. They are wonderful collectors but are not assemblers. I have tried to avoid being merely a gatherer and I do not work toward membership in any patriotic society, for while giving all honor to those who do, just being an Odell is honor enough for me. I admit the absorbing interest of research work, but I came into this work late in life, perhaps it is better so, else I too might have drifted into a piler and not a compiler, but as it is I should be disappointed if I did not leave some connected narrative of my own family behind me.

In searching out the records of the Odells, of which the libraries hold much; and of contiguous relatives, some of whom seemed more remote than apparent I found many piles of material which do not fit in yet they ARE Odells or near Odells.

The Hanchet Family was a contingent case. The Mather Hanchett Chart, when I first saw it, seemed just a beautiful specimen of handwriting; a remote possibility that it might connect, its very completeness, probably inspired by a WISH THOUGHT which in a short time became a reality, encouraged my keeping on. It became a reality, not through any hard work on my part; for though I did spend many days on it I was working in the wrong direction; but through the volunteer assistance of about six persons, the Hartford Times, and a few letters left behind by those not long dead -- by sheer good luck, instead of good management -- was I able to solve this problem. Of course I was there ready and equipped for the task when the opportunity came along.

The Lobdell Family I also put about a year of thought on when suddenly I found, in more than one library in New York, and one through the mail, the complete story already in print. I simply had to thread through a rather complicated code at the beginning of the book, two hours work. Sometimes it seems miraculous how these things come about -- and yet maybe it is not all a miracle. One library, whose card index never held a Lobdell card, had had the book for several years, as was shown by a letter from the author pasted on the front fly leaf.

Sometimes also it seems as if librarians or secretaries of historical museums and societies send for these books after you tell them of your failure to find them in their index files. Maybe they do not have to send farther than their own basement. Anyhow this is an idea worth adding to the technique of research. It may be just psychic power, magic, thought transference, spiritualism or mind reading, who knows. "Seek and you shall find," ask and books will appear.

I am sure, absolutely certain, I should never have connected up the strands that made the Hanchett Family if I had not confided in others. So much for those who say I "talk too much." Several died and one went insane while working on this job. Those who never talk about themselves seldom hear much about others. The wise man speaks and listens, the fool it is, who holds his tongue; he inspires no confidence in others. 197

So I am leaving in the following pages bits of unconnected Odell material that perhaps others may work into a later part of OUR BOOK. Some of this data I have found in books, some of which does not agree with the facts as shown in our book; some has been contributed by others: Mr. F. C. Haacker; Mrs. Llywellyn W. Lewis of Pocantico Hills, New York; the Syracuse Public Library; and Mrs. Eda Whitney Safford, State Cor. Sec. D.A.R., whom I employed for a short time to search records of the M. E. Church in Burlington, Vermont, in a vain attempt to find family history that grandpa RFO once wrote me was there.

I conclude by adding that it seems peculiarly fitting that I should do this work -- an Odell on both sides of the house -- the oldest bearing the name Odell of both the Hanchet-Odells and the Odels; fitted for this work with a mind trained by a half century of newspaper work; an originality that goes around, over or through all preconceived ideas of what such a work should be; an utter disregard of genealogical rules or dogma; combining the old ideas with new methods; financially able to carry it through, having the time to spare and absolutely and completely independent -- ignoring all criticism and sneers from whatever source.

The fact that I know my father, were he alive; and my mother, were she in possession of her fine discriminating mind, would both have heartily approved of my efforts and been proud of the results are reason enough. Perhaps there is some higher power that shapes our ends, who knows? Ida, my dear wife, who helps all she can, and contributes some of her own private funds, believes my father's hand helps guide the pen.

HISTORIC ODELL HOUSE PASSES TO WEEKEND

This famous old home on the old Saw Mill River Road, not far from Tuckahoe Road, Yonkers, is to be demolished. Now a part of the Homestead development, it was once the home of General Jacob Odell of the War of 1812 fame. This structure is well over a century old and is on the site of the original Odell farmhouse.

By MARTIN R. HAYWARD
This is the place . . .
Let me review the scene,
And summon from the shadow past
The forms that once have been——Longfellow.

So quotes this rambling writer, viewing the approaching demolition of one of Westchester's historic homesites in the interest of modern real estate development.

This frame masonry to progress to the old Odell house on the Saw Mill River road about half a mile north of the Tuckahoe road and a short distance past the railroad trestle to the Homestead section.

It is historic, thus, homestead. More than a century old in its present state, it was the property of General Jacob Odell, a commanding officer in the State Militia in the War of 1812. In later years, members of the general's command were wont to ride up in a body from New York city to enjoy the famed Odell hospitality.

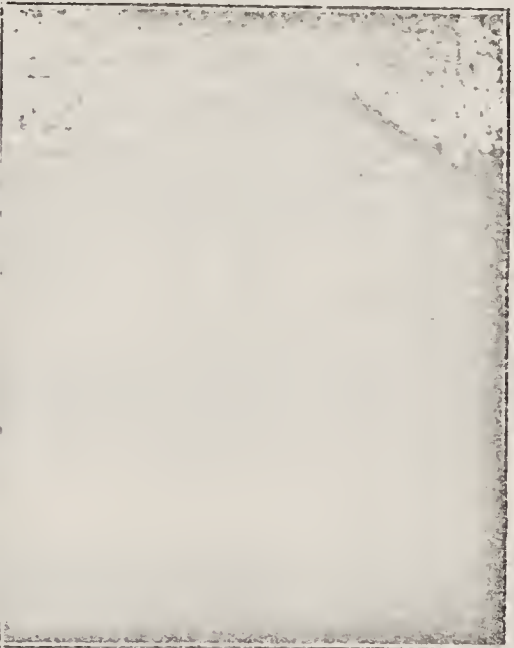

In the early days the farm property reached down to the river and abounded in fine terraced gardens and bedflowered slopes. The Odells then lived in an older home on the farm but later built the one that now is to become material for the wreckers. In 1880, some alterations were made to the house.

There are many interesting anecdotes associated with the old place. It is recalled that in the days of the General, the little girls of the neighborhood loved to go to his extensive orchards and get fruit, and so goes the story, "gallant gentleman that he was, the General always raised his hat to his charming visitors regardless of their young years."

Of course the structure had the name of being haunted. It seems, according to the neighborhood tradition, that the place was used as a boarding house about the time the second Croton aqueduct was being built and one of the boarding women died there presumably a violent death. No one ventures for the speaks and apertures but legend has it that the ghostly workmen occasionally revisit the scene of his demise.

We learn, too, that General de Rochambeau was once a stranger to the Odell farm land and the whole picture conjures to this writer's eyes visions of brilliant social moments, witty repartee and gay give-and-take, early Spring breeze wafts overtures of romance and joys in an ever attuned mind to the graceful melodies of "those days" than to the ceaseless tempo of modern living.

The old Dutch oven and brick doornut Odell farmhouse, a part of the original kitchen wing still are to be seen at the old saw mill river road. The wide high arch held many a snow-buried road on the split and doubter's a great variety of Colonial delicacies were baked to perfection over the heavy slotted grating along just above the touch of the flames.

Not far from the old house stands the historic well, just as it was in those early days when, perhaps, the twilight twilight hour's cup was held jointly in eager young hands . . .

Not far from the old house stands the historic well, complete in detail just as it was in those early days. Mental pictures recreate the procession of true American gentlemen and ladies who walked the grassy green well side path. Perhaps it was for a cool cup to quench the thirst, perhaps for brimming pails for household use or perhaps—and we pause to hold the beauty of this dream picture the two girls trotting home a cup held jointly by eager young hands.

At Andrew's Golf Club, the oldest golf club in America, had a humble but picturesque beginning one summer afternoon as the result of a friendly discussion between a group of neighborhood boys seated in the forked branches of apple trees on the Odell farm.

And now the screen of smiling wood beams the sharp clatter of falling shingles, and the Odell house on the old Saw Mill River road will yield to the newer order of things as they shall be.

A land's history throws some light on the Odell family and its connection with the house that is the subject of this article. We read—

The name Odell was at first spelled Wayhull, then Woodhull, Wardell and Wodell. William Odell, of Connecticut, was the emigrant ancestor of the family. His son, William, was one of the proprietors of Rye in 1681-1682. Members of the family settled in Rye, Greenwich and Yonkers. Abraham Odell of Revolutionary times married Miss Rebecca Dyckman, who was granted from Holland. Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Odell lived in the old Dutch farmhouse in the Saw Mill River Valley.

The house originally was a long, old-fashioned building the name of which was standing on its ground could touch them with his hands.

Abraham Odell, who lives in the old house during the Revolution, was an American soldier.

One night a party of Tories, with blacked faces, came to the Odell house on the Saw Mill River road and demanded of Mr. Odell his money. He refused to reveal where it was hidden. They beat him down and took his money. A few days later the Tories came back and found the money was well with the bread of but over the century threshold to burn brightly for a little while in the flames of Yonkers' burning poor—then ashes.

CENTENARIAN CLIMBS OFF ANOTHER MILESTONE—Abram Brevort Odell, 101 Sixteenth avenue northeast, who will be 101 years old today. He is shown receiving a basket of flowers from Vice Mayor Vernon Agos when he reached the century mark last year.

ABRAM B. ODELL 101 YEARS OLD 1934 Invites Other Centenarians to Call on Him Today at Daughter's Home

Abram Brevort Odell today reaches his first milestone beyond the century mark and will observe the anniversary quietly at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hubbard Graham, 508 Sixteenth avenue northeast.

Mr. Odell was born in Yonkers, N. Y., March 21, 1834, and was a resident of Bridgeport, Conn., for 25 years later making his home at Litchfield, Mass. He came to St. Petersburg from there two years ago last October. In his younger days Mr. Odell was a farmer but he has been retired for many years.

There will be no formal celebration at the Graham home today, but a number of friends are expected to call to pay their respects. Mr. Odell, who is unusually active despite his years, says he also will be glad to have other St. Petersburg residents who are over 100 call on him today.

Mr. Odell's wife died several years ago. In addition to his daughter, he has one son, Herbert O. Odell in Toronto, Can.

When the Tories probably did not live far away, for Mrs. Odell thought she recognized the voices of some of them. How refused to reveal where the money had been hidden. They knocked her down and broke through of her ribs. Then they took the feather beds out into the road and ripped them up, hoping to find the concealed coin. The next morning the daughters gathered together the feathers which were heaped in the highway.

"Jacob Odell, the son of Abraham, was the General Odell of 1812."

The house and well shown on this page will be recognized by the thousands of persons who use the old Saw Mill River road in their travels. It is a historic house on a most historic road.

It was up the Saw Mill River road, we read, that a large force of British and Hessian troops in February, 1779, to attack the Continental troops near Tarrytown.

And so we leave this old Odell house, its aged timbers and floor planks were well with the bread of but over the century threshold to burn brightly for a little while in the flames of Yonkers' burning poor—then ashes.

Family Tree

Two, At Least, Not Afraid of What They Will Find

Tracing one's Family Tree is interesting. Mark Twain tells of his researches in that direction. He found that the tree of one of his ancestors was the last place from which he sprang.

But there is nothing of that sort in what is to follow. This has to do with two recent inquiries here by those tracing families. Allen Wyman received a letter from C. A. Wyman, Auburn, Wash., who said he once lived in Galesville and that he is of the same strain of Wyman known to Galesvillians—in fact, a cousin of the late William A. Wyman.

"That's strange," said the Galesville man. "Never heard of this man, nor recall my father ever mentioning him." But correspondence proved that the Washington man knew his kin. As boys, he and his cousin Will were wheelmen here. His parents moved to Minnesota. His father and A. W. Wyman, grandfather of Allen Wyman, were brothers. The Washington man is a preacher and now at an advanced age.

Next in line came a letter to Postmaster Carl Anderson from Harry A. Odell, New York City. He has for some time been tracing the Odell family. In his searching he found that two men of that name were once president in Fremont county—Robert A. and Levi L. He had heard of them through a Miss Nellie McGowan, of Fremont, who dated and a Mrs. March, of Madison.

Postmaster Anderson turned the letter over to The Republican and now the New York man shows a list about "Lee" Odell and his family, long of Galesville and also of Robert A. Odell, a merchant in Galesville when stores were on the Upper Table and who later served a long period as county judge.

My g.Grandfather was Joseph Odell, b. 1779, son of Wm. Odell, a sea captain. Joseph Odell was b. in New Bedford, Mass. & came to N.Y. State abt. 1800, m. Sally Cooley. In some way they were mixed up with the Fullers. Joseph had many brothers & sisters, but do not know a name of one of them. The Odell was divided in Rev. time. Some Tories and some not. There are many Odells buried in the Old Sleepy Hollow Cemetery at Tarrytown, N.Y. & the records are kept there.

I have not yet located my copy of the Odell records sent to me, but the address of the sender is,--Ray Webb Chatterton, Bellville, Wisconsin. As soon as I locate it I will let you know. The copies from the Bible of Gabriel Odell, P677, "Family Record, Marriages" and "Deaths", which Bible in its entirety is filed with the Gene. Dept. N. Y. Pub. Lib., shows conclusively how "Odell" was corrupted to "O'Dell", (in a different hand), As long as the original Gabriel Odell lived he wrote his name "Odell" as it should be. Also see the article on P821, "Burke's Colonial Gentry."

Samuel V. F. Odell, younger brother of Congressman Moses Fowler Odell, was American Consul-General for the Kingdom of Hawaii for many years. --N. Y. Civil List.

There seems to be some doubt whether Rev. Edward Bulkley or Rev. Peter Bulkeley was the one who came to America with James Odell, in 1635. Page 821 Burke's Colonial Gentry says Peter, and 1639. Rufus King in his Chart of Odell pedigree says "Peter", and Hudson in his History of Concord, Mass. says "Peter" on page 20, 22 and on page 333 "He (Edward) was admitted as a member of the First Church in Boston in 1634". (Formerly said he came to America in 1635.) As Hudson admits he lays more stress on religion than on history I think we must conclude "Peter" was the right one, and the date 1635.

2. Odells live in Odellum, Phoenicia, tribe of Benjamin or Levi, Mrs. Pool, 10. 565 B. C.

Workmen from Odellum helped King Solomon's Temple.

3. Leave on travels across Europe, via Black Sea, Danube, Prussia, Holland, etc. 550 B. C.

Mrs. Pool says 625 B. C.

4. NOTE: From studies of Archeology and Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary.

Hallstat, a necropolis near Salsburg (Salt City) in Upper Austria now Germany, has 1,000 tombs of armed Gallatian warriors, back to 1,000 B. C. when Gauls established culture of the Oriental kind along the Danube and among the roving tribes.

From Funk & Wagnalls, Webster and the Bible. The weapons found in these graves were both of Bronze and Iron, some were of Bronze embellished with Iron which indicates the time was the beginning of the Iron Age. See Webster, pictures, etc., p. 974. They had agriculture, art, domestic animals. This proves that travel across Europe was not only possible but common at that time. Since the Iron Age began at the time of our narrative, 500 B. C. this proves the Odells were among the first to use that route.

5. Walter Flandrensis, last of Flander's Counts, made First Baron of Odell. 1066 A. D.

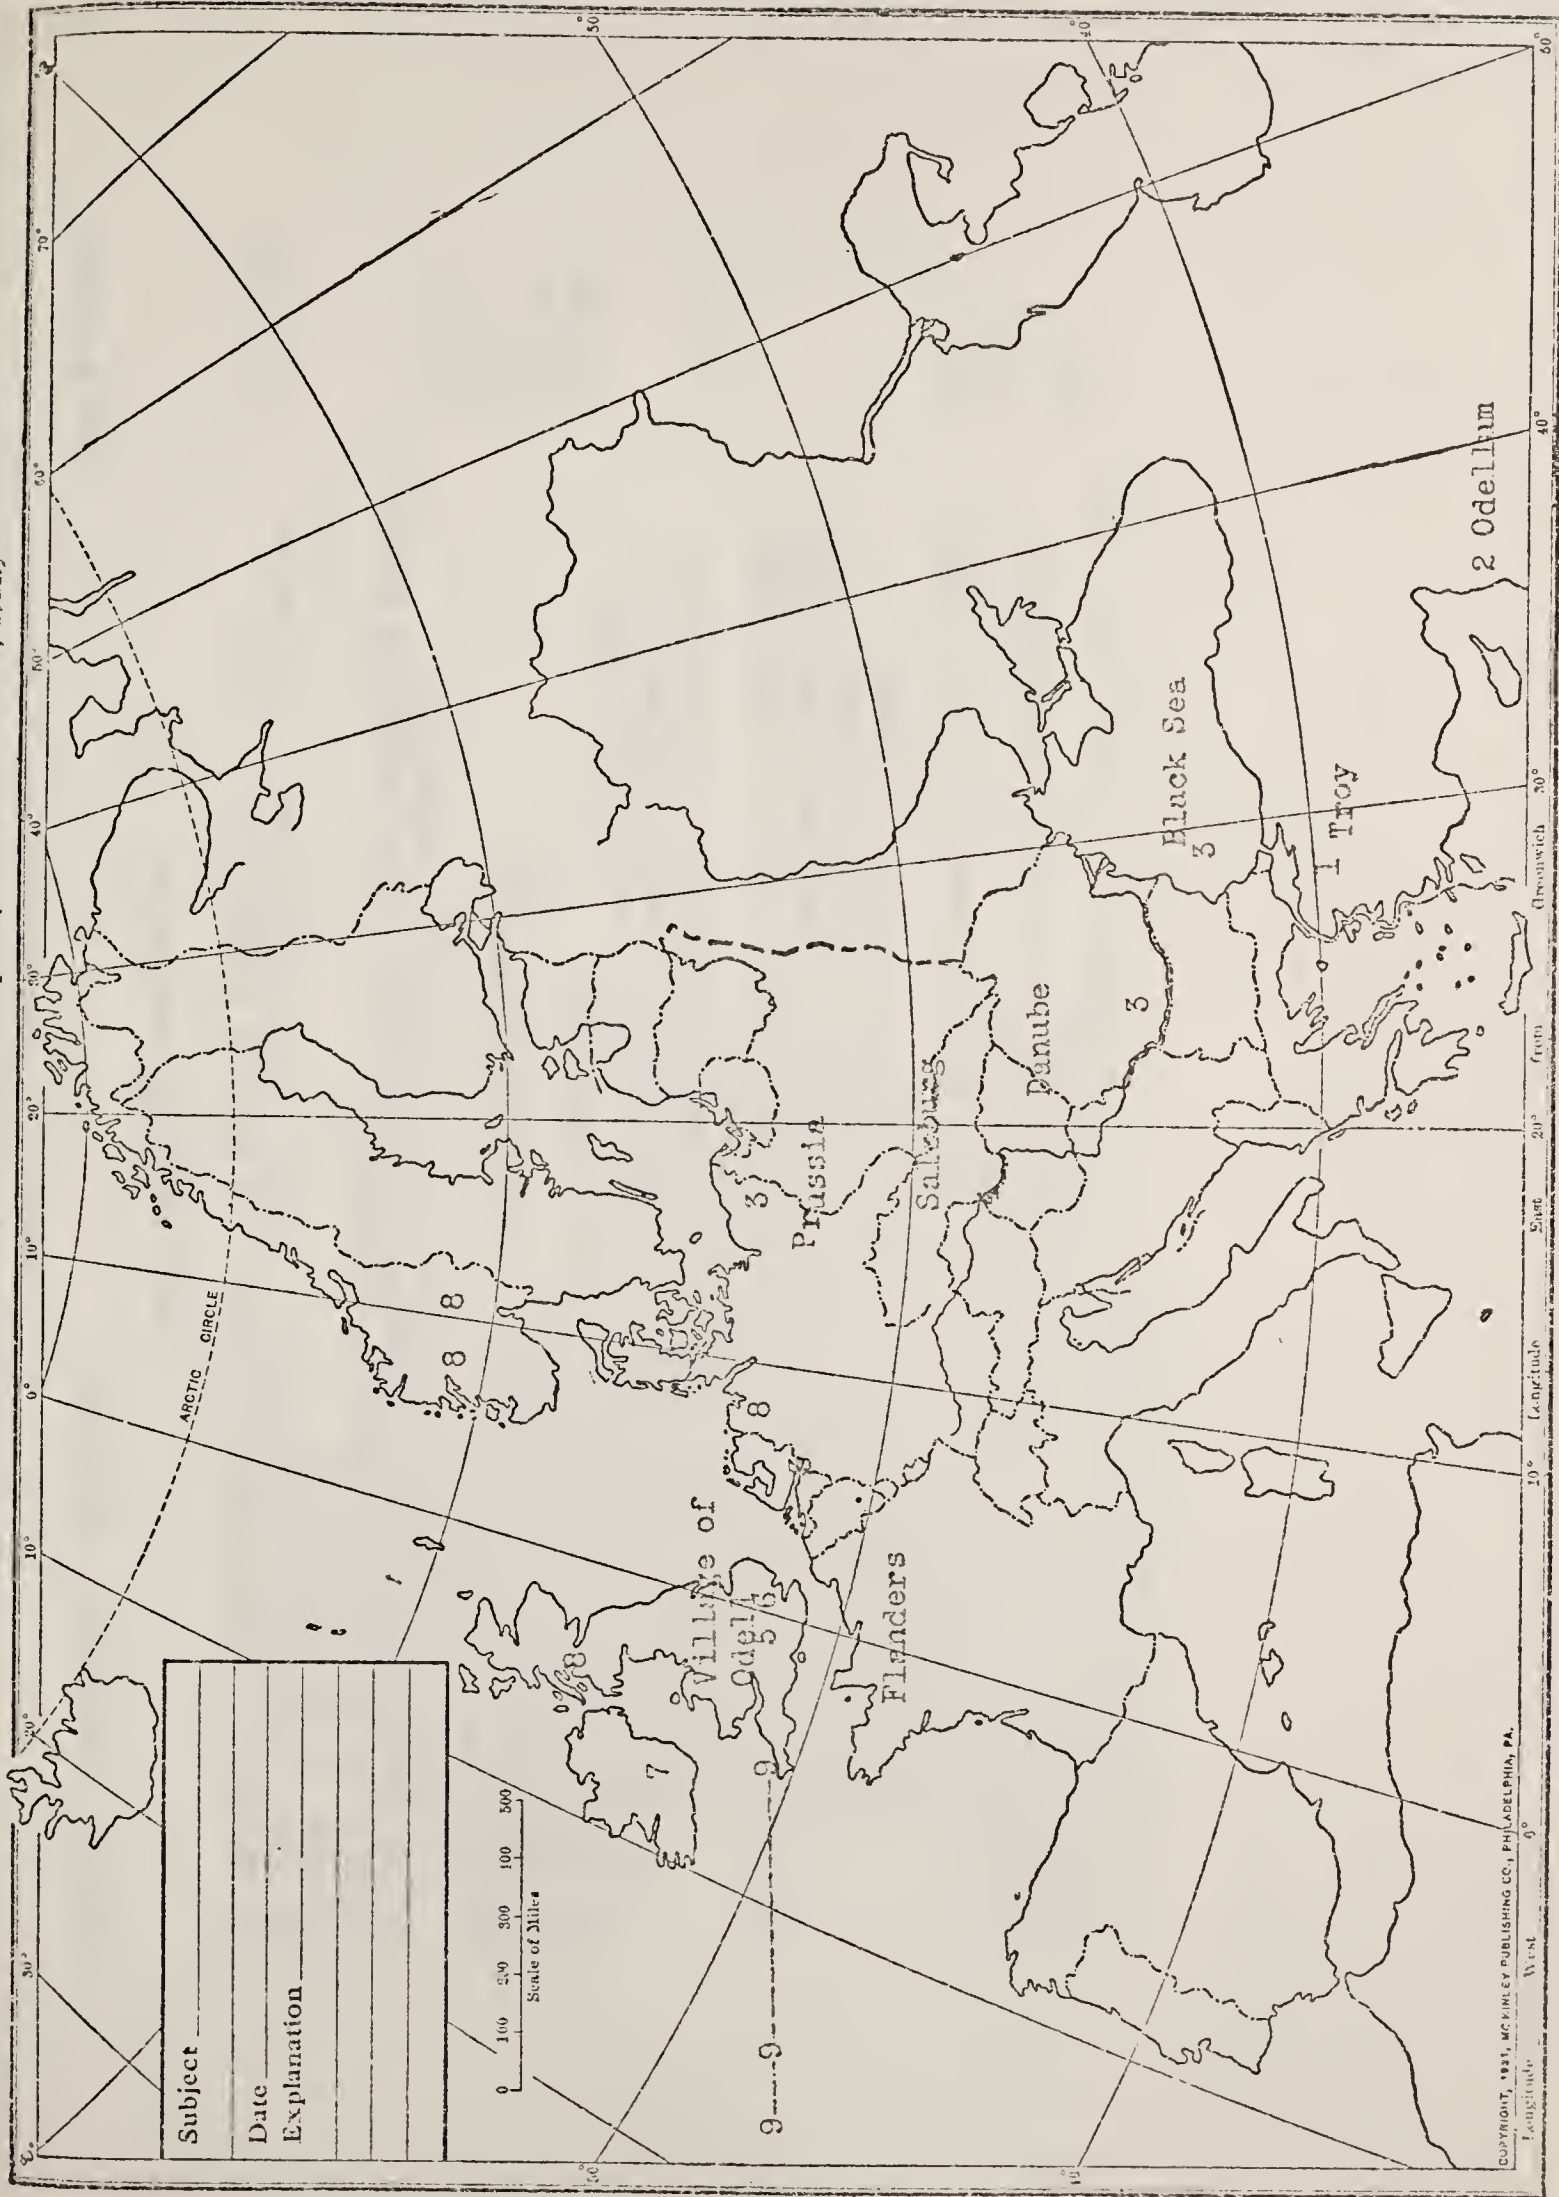

This was the highest title at that time, the fact that the Odell shield at the time of its Eighteen Quarterings bore a Ducal Crown shows the family to be next in rank to Royalty. The Counts of Flandres trace their ancestry back to King Priam of Troy, No. 1.

6. Take part in forcing King John to sign Magna Carta. 1199-1216
7. Flee to Ireland in reign of Edward II. 1307-27

8. Odells forced to leave England by Bloody Mary, were scattered all over Northern Europe and many changed their names. 1553-58

BIRTHDAYS BY MONTHS

SOME OF US may wish to send Birthday Cards to EACH OF US. I think this would be a wonderful idea. There are only thirteen in the biggest month, March. Even a penny post-card would be better than nothing and that would cost less than $1.25 a year. Tell them who you are, ask some questions, write in ink, very fine but plain. You will be surprised how much you will treasure your collection in a year or so. I believe I would rather have a half dozen words about a dear one on a penny post-card than any fancy card we can buy. These fancy cards are now sold in all the 5 and 10s and just alike all over the U. S. so unless you can send local views use the penny cards. It will knit the family together as it should be. Life is too short to write many long letters. Let us, now that we have discovered the lost and relocated the near lost, resolve to become acquainted all over again and keep the family together.

The following are the LIVING ODELLS so far as I have their dates. Compare with the Genealogical Index, Address List and Odell Genealogy, the short one sent herewith; send children's cards care of their parents. Sign your own name very plain with the Address complete. The cost will average about 10¢ a month.

After consultation with my photostat man I find it is not practical to send out negatives of the preliminary table, it being necessary to make the same double the size of the positive and reduce, for an 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ x11 sheet, when making the positives; otherwise the figures, notably 3 and 5, become indistinguishable. After this table has all the corrections that may come in in a reasonable time, I shall reproduce it on a two-page spread and make it part of the book. A reasonable number of any photostat negatives will be furnished to those having grown children with families. There are machines in all large cities and in most County Clerk's offices. They should make these pictures for not more than 25¢ each, or free if in the Clerk's office. Photostats used for pictures are not commonly used, but the results are often superior to photographs. Probably they have not been exploited because there would be less profit than in regular photography. I have paid as much as \$2.75 for an enlargement that was inferior to a two-bit stat, and you can retouch them yourself; take out the light shadows, which produce the dark part of the picture with common black ink, or paint in dark places; take out a tree or a person, with white ink, or even by scraping with a knife; or substitute another person or scene; or join two or more pictures into one. Here is an opportunity for a bright young person to start a new industry. It is a new use for an old art, photostats having been used for the base upon which large crayon reproductions were drawn for over fifty years.

A F T E R T H O U G H T S

WHEN THIS GENEALOGY WAS STARTED it was intended only to include the Family of Robert Ferris Odell and his descendants, the twelve pages under R.F.O.; and to put a picture of each family head opposite the page describing that family. I thought I could make carbon copies, five of each, on the typewriter and by doing this five times I could produce twenty-five copies, enough for each branch in the third generation. With about the same number of photostats and the individual covers the work would have been finished long ago and I could have returned to my microscope and the natural sciences -- my former hobbies. Then I decided to make thirty copies and send a very few to the libraries in large cities near where Odells lived.

Well the reader can see how it has grown. Now I know it will never stop growing for already, with only one copy in a public library, some researchers, who are artists in pen work, are copying and rewriting my poor efforts. The Coat-of Arms has been done over in water colors and is soon to be done in oil. Genealogy is a subject of overpowering interest.

In the Preface I laid out a plan of the work as it looked then. I could not keep within the bounds there shown; but that Preface and the editorial "Why a Genealogy" expressed my thoughts as they were then and still express my thoughts today. I cannot revise it and do as well so must let it stand. As the book has grown subject after subject came in that properly belonged in various places among the pages already numbered. These pages had to be numbered "a", "b", etc. and there are nearly fifty of them. I am sorry it is impossible to renumber all the pages as copies had been sent out and various possessors of them were already corresponding citing the page numbers. To renumber them would cause a state of affairs rendering the whole work useless to the researcher.

Later on I found the data that showed the Odell Family from a far broadened view point. I suddenly woke to the fact that I was working with a family with an extensive historical background. Efforts to confine myself to the Family in America only were impossible. My own personal pride in what I had discovered forbade any such idea. I also realized that nobody had done the subject even partial justice. It was as if nobody had ever written a history of America. Former writers: Rufus King and Mrs. Pool had left outlines on which to erect a great structure of Odelliana. Histories, both in England and America, had hundreds of disconnected facts about Odells but nobody had attempted to assemble these items into one book -- into an Odell Genealogy.

From time to time other Odells, and genealogists with Odell connection, began to write to me, began to ask questions which, as I sought the answers, brought new facts to light. Libraries and Historical Societies from all over the United States wrote for copies. With all this urge I could do nothing but keep on. I rallied all my failing energies and tackled the subject with what strength I could muster late in life. Perhaps this urge loaned me new strength, maybe my life has been lengthened thereby, who knows? There is much yet to be done. Perhaps those who are now conning these pages over the library tables may revise what is here written; rearrange what is now something of a "Hodge-podge" into a more chronological order. I surely hope so. If I was ten years younger I should do it myself and have it printed as it deserves. To bring out such a book, at present prices of printing and photo-engraving, would easily run to over $5,000, but an edition of several hundred copies could thus be produced. As it is the part that should come first is in the middle and perhaps, with a view of the family as a whole, as distinct from our own Robert Ferris Odell's branch, that part should come after the Westport pages.

I am sorry it was necessary to leave out over three-quarters of the pictures submitted. One single contributor sent in more pictures than the total number in the book. I am also sorry some families sent in none. They did not understand what I was doing. I cannot blame them. I did not understand myself. I am disappointed because they must be disappointed, but nobody is to blame.

Before I finish this I must give credit to one more contributor. Mrs. Llywellyn Williams Lewis (Violet Edna Odell) has done more than any other living Odell to help the work along. She furnished many books which enabled me to do the work at home when my health forbade my going to the library and directly and indirectly was responsible for over eighty pages of the work. As an inspiration Mrs. Lewis was second only to my sister Effie Stone and must be credited equal to Rufus King and Mrs. Pool as a source of information. When I look back at this mile stone of the Odell Genealogy it seems something beyond human effort had something to do with it. My Dear Wife believes my dead father's hand guides the pen. Who can say?

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of the proposed system on the performance of the system. The study is divided into two main parts: a theoretical analysis and an experimental evaluation. The theoretical analysis is based on the principles of the system and the experimental evaluation is based on the results of the experiments.

Dec. 27, 1902. MEMOIR OF HON. WILLIAM HUNTER ODELL.
By Rufus King, Esq., of Yonkers, New York.

Hon. WILLIAM HUNTER ODELL, member of the Senate of the Dominion of Canada, from the Province of New Brunswick, died at Halifax, N. S., July 26, 1891, aged seventy-nine. His ancestry may be given as follows:

Mr. WILLIAM ODELL, the founder of the family in this country, was of English ancestry. (Harvey's History of Willey Hundred, Bedfordshire, p.345.) He came to New England in the early part of the seventeenth century, probably in company with the Rev. Peter Bulkeley, who was rector of the Parish of Odell, in Bedfordshire, England, in 1620. Mr. Odell settled at Concord, Mass., where his name appears in the town records as early as 1639. He removed to Fairfield, Conn., about 1644, where he became the owner of a considerable estate, and died in 1676.

His will, proved at Fairfield, June 6 of that year, mentions: sons, William and John, daughter Rebecca Moorehouse, daughter-in-law Mary Odell, and others, and disposes of lands held in Concord and Fairfield. (Schenck's History of Fairfield.)

John Odell, Sen., of Fairfield, eldest son of William preceding, was made freeman in 1664 by the General Assembly; in 1666, in behalf of his father William Odell, he joined with Francis Hall in a deed of partition; in 1673 and 1682, he received grants of land from the town of Fairfield; in 1697, he was a member of the Church in Stratfield, and in 1707 made will appointing wife, Mary, Executrix. (Fairfield Probate Records, 1702-50.)

Ensign Samuel Odell, of Stratfield, was born March 16, 1677; in 1700, he received deed of land from his father John Odell, Sen.; in 1722, he was commissioned Ensign by the General Assembly; in 1727, his estate was administered on by Joannah and Samuel Odell, with inventory mentioning widow, Deborah, John Odell and others as appraisers. (Fairfield Probate, 1724-49.)

John Odell, of Stratfield, in 1730 called son of Ensign Samuel Odell, deceased, removed to Connecticut Farms, N.J., and married Temperance, daughter of Rev. Jonathan Dickinson, first President of the College of New Jersey; in 1750, he made will, proved June 28, same year, mentioning son Jonathan Sergeant and Timothy Whitehead executors. (Trenton, N.J. Probate Records, vol. E, p.435.)

Rev. Jonathan Odell, A. M., of Fredericton, N.B., the noted loyalist, was born Sept. 25, 1737, in Newark, N.J.; in 1754, he was graduated at the College of New Jersey, and studied medicine, but afterward became an Episcopal clergyman; in 1767, he was rector of St. Anne's Church, in Burlington, N.J. He was prominent during the war of the Revolution for his sympathy with England, and was joint author of the "Loyal Verses of Stansbury and Odell." In 1772, he married Miss Anne Da Cou, who survived him. At the close of the war, he removed to Fredericton, N.B., where he was made Secretary of the Province, and held many other responsible offices under the Crown. He died Nov. 25, 1818, leaving one son, William Franklin, and three daughters.

Hon. William Franklin Odell, of Fredericton, N.B., was born Oct. 19, 1774, in Burlington, N.J. In 1812, he succeeded his father as Provincial Secretary of New Brunswick; in 1817, he was engaged in the location of the boundary line between New Brunswick and the United States under the Treaty of Ghent. He married Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Elisha and Sarah (Cooke) Newell of Allentown, N.J. Mrs. Newell's father was the Rev. Samuel Cooke, D.D., sometime rector of the Church at Shrewsbury, N.J., and afterwards at Fredericton. Mr. Odell died Dec. 25, 1844, leaving four sons and four daughters.

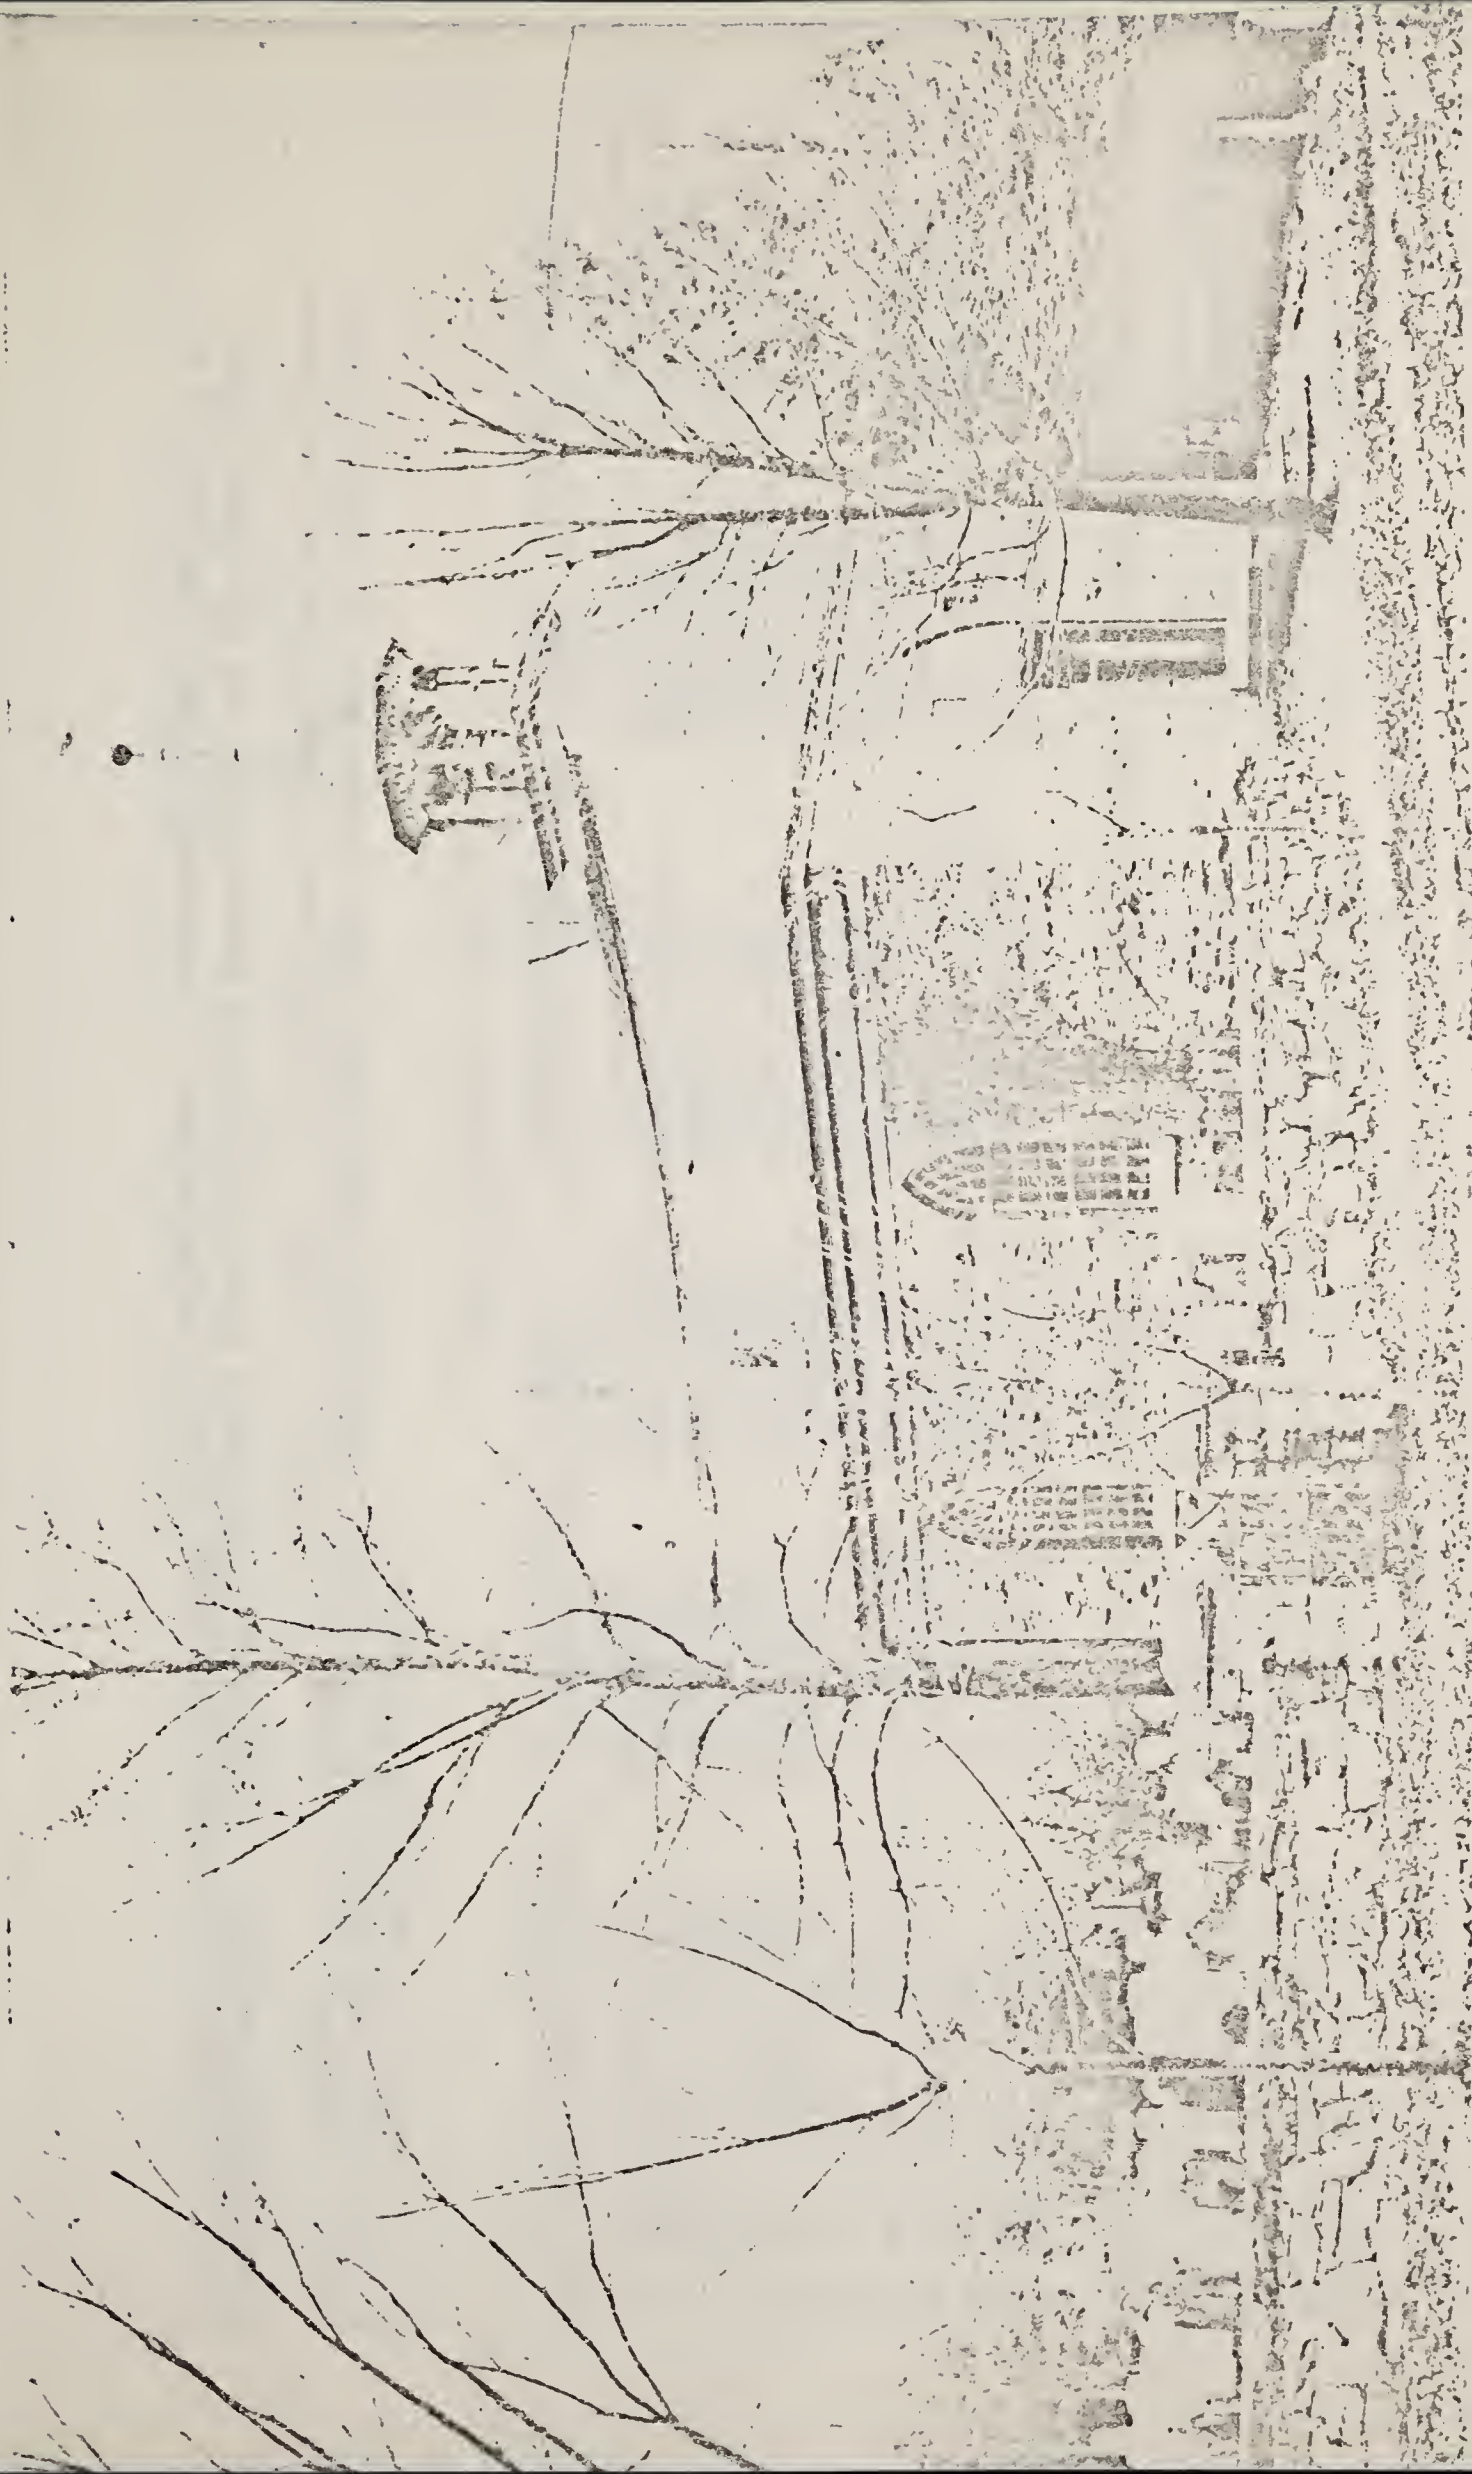

Hon. William Hunter Odell, of Halifax, N.S., eldest son of William Franklin, preceding, and the subject of this memoir, was born in Fredericton, N.B., Nov. 26, 1811. He was educated at King's College -- now the University of New Brunswick -- Fredericton, and graduated in the class of 1832. He studied law and was called to the bar in 1838, when he was appointed clerk of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. He resigned this office the same year, on being made Deputy Provincial Secretary, Registrar and Clerk of the Executive Council. In 1847, Mr. Odell was a judge of the Court of Common Pleas; in 1850, he was made a member of the Legislative Council of New Brunswick by Royal Warrant; in 1865, on the formation of what was known as the Anti-Confederate Government, he was appointed member of the Executive Council and Postmaster General, remaining in office until the resignation of the government the next year; in May, 1867, he was called to the Dominion Senate by royal proclamation, and for twenty-four years was a member of that honorable body.

Mr. Odell married Elizabeth Ann, daughter of the Hon. William B. Bliss, Judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia; she survives him together with one son, an officer in the English army, and three daughters. Mr. Odell, in addition to his property in Halifax, was the owner of a considerable estate at Fredericton, called "Rookwood," where the writer, a kinsman of his, had the pleasure of meeting him several years ago. This interview resulted in a very pleasant correspondence later on, and the communication of many interesting genealogical facts, which have been availed of in the preparation of this memoir.

Mr. Odell's career was a long and useful one, both in public and private life; his quiet and retiring disposition prevented his taking a very active part in political debate, but his wide and varied experience and excellent judgment were highly valued by his colleagues. Though Mr. Odell's life had reached nearly four score years, he had none of the infirmities of old age and was exceptionally active and vigorous. His death was entirely unlooked for. He had only recently reached home from Ottawa, apparently in excellent health, and had expected to return thither in a few days. He was, however, seized with a sudden and fatal illness on Saturday, July 25, and the next afternoon passed peacefully away. The announcement of his death was received by the Senate at Ottawa, with many expressions of surprise and sorrow, and resolutions of sympathy were offered by his associates at the session of Parliament held on July 29, 1891.

Mr. Odell was, in his church relation, an Episcopalian; his funeral took place on Thursday, July 30, and his remains were interred in Camp Hill Cemetery.

This is another case of using the same name as a second name twice in the same family; See Odell Gene. page 45: "Roxy Ann Odell James" and "Zada Ann Odell."

Just giving the word "wife" instead of the maiden name makes the tracing of lineage very difficult and might, in some cases, deprive rightful heirs of their property. Full names of father and maiden names of mother should be given in all cases. Such incomplete records also cast doubt as to the legitimacy of children. (H.A.O.)

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business and for the protection of the interests of all parties involved. The author argues that without accurate records, it is impossible to make informed decisions or to identify areas for improvement.

2. The second part of the paper describes the various methods used to collect and analyze data. It outlines the steps involved in designing a study, selecting a sample, and collecting data. The author also discusses the importance of ensuring the reliability and validity of the data collected.

3. The third part of the paper presents the results of the study. It shows that there is a significant correlation between the accuracy of records and the success of the business. The author also identifies some of the factors that can lead to inaccurate records, such as poor training or inadequate resources.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the implications of the findings. It suggests that businesses should invest in training and resources to ensure that their records are accurate. The author also suggests that governments should consider implementing regulations to ensure that businesses maintain accurate records.

5. The fifth part of the paper concludes the study. It summarizes the main findings and suggests areas for further research. The author also expresses his appreciation to the participants and the funding agency.

((I am inclined to think "Aaltie" is the "Aaltican" in King's Chart and "Aaltieen" in mention of mother of Hannah Vermilyea. King gives her as female, says: "daughter of Hannah and Altien"; 1st Col. 3rd Gen. See my rearranged King's Chart, pages 141, 142, Odell's Genealogy. H.A.O.)) Jonathan was the Original Odell of this vicinity, lived in Odell Inn, still standing on the west side of Broadway (Albany Post Road, U.S. Highway #9), below Irvington; was a prisoner of war in another Old Dutch Church in New York City, for a long time. A Jonathan Odell, probably his father, is on the Westchester Militia List of 1715. Gabriel, Capt. Verplank's Co., 1778, (See pages 185, 186 Odell Genealogy, may be his descendants.); John in Capt. Fowler's Co. 1759; and Joshua in the same company may be his close relatives. See Robert's "New York in the Revolution," two volume edition.

108c Jonathan D. Odell, son of Isaac Odell (108); a broken red stone marks the grave. Phoebe Odell his wife was a dau. of Elijah Tompkins (and his wife Sarah). Phoebe lies in (108b), having died 4/15/1834, ag. 55.

199a David Buckhout, d. 1844, ag. 48, son of John J. (Jan) Buckhout, m. Rachel Odell, d. 1865, ag. 64, dau. of Abraham Odell (67b).

42b William A. Dutcher, d. 12/13/1831, ag. 33, son of William Dutcher (42) and Anna Van Wart; m. Rosetta Odell (42c) who d. 10/11/1882, ag. 75; she was dau. Abraham Odell (67b). CHILDREN: Clinton, Anne, Caroline, Elizabeth. Anna Van Wart, dau. Isaac Van Wart, of captors of Maj. Andre.

111 Jasper Odell m. Sarah Wildey, dau. Caleb Wildey (111). This stone is for Caleb, there being no burial record of Jasper Odell or his wife.

((Note: In some places the numbers of the graves are not the burial places of the persons described, but simply the place where they are found in the book, the children being listed under the burial numbers of their ancestors. There are however very few of these. H.A.O.))

A TRIP THROUGH THE CEMETERY.

The gate has been rusted shut for ages but you can climb over the wall of the stone steps near the Church door. Turn to the right and pass the rear of the Church, about twenty feet north east we come to the graves numbered in the 37s: 37a, b, c, d, e. in a row. 37b is the grave of Daniel W. Odell's wife, Charlotte Dean. 38a is the grave of Benjamin H. Odell and 38b of Jacob Odell. 42 and 42a, c, b are in a row ten feet towards the path; 42b is the grave of William A. Dutcher who married Rosetta Odell, who is in 42c. She is a daughter of Abraham Odell in 67b, (A very delapidated stone).

67 and 67a and b are three graves in a row of eight, within a few feet of the path as we go west from 42. 67 is the grave of Jacob Odell a son of Abraham Odell and 67a is the grave of Abraham's wife who was Christina Van Wart.

The path runs irregularly over the graves from the church to Washington Irving's Grave. Odells are still being interred hereabouts, so do not be surprised at the new modern stones. Those we describe are only those in the Old Church Records.

Regaining the path, and crossing it, we find a row of graves: 101, 109a, a little way apart, and then 109, 108, and 108a,b,c in a close row running north and south as do all the rows of graves. At all the book gives Jasper Odell and his wife Sarah Wildey; this grave is, however the grave of her father Caleb Wildey. Nothing is said of the burial place of Jasper and his wife. Perhaps a diligent searcher might find some graves not listed in the book. 109 is the grave of Daniel T. Odell whose wife Maria is listed as occupying grave No. 109a. 108 is occupied by Isaac Odell: 108a Phoebe his wife, and 108b is the grave of Phoebe Tompkins, wife of Jonathan D. Odell who rests in 108c and who is a son of Isaac Odell, 108.

Here we return to the path and journey on to nearly a hundred feet from the Church and turn to the right where we find a row, close enough to the path to set your camera; the 144s. There are six graves near together and two further on. 142 is nearest the Church. Lieut. Abraham Odell is buried there. 144, the third in the row, is the grave of Jonathan Odell, who was the first Odell in this neighborhood, operating the Odell Inn at Irvington. The next grave is Abigail Brown, the second wife of Col. John Odell. The stone is in an excellent state of preservation being a rather thick granite slab, up to the armpits and showing little erosion. Col. John sleeps next to the north and his first wife next beyond that. Col. John's stone is still easy to read, should make a nice snap shot with Abigails. The first wife's stone, Hannah McChain, well only an inch or so of a completely eradicated stone marks the spot. Were it not for the book one would never know. It is grave No. 146. A wife on either side. We saw the monument of Brigham Young in Salt Lake but, what's the use to speculate? In 145a, the first of the two next graves are the mortal remains of Bishop Underhill who married Hannah Odell and she lies next in 145b. She is the daughter of Col. John Odell in 145. So Col. John has a wife on either side and a child on either side of them. Abraham also being his son.

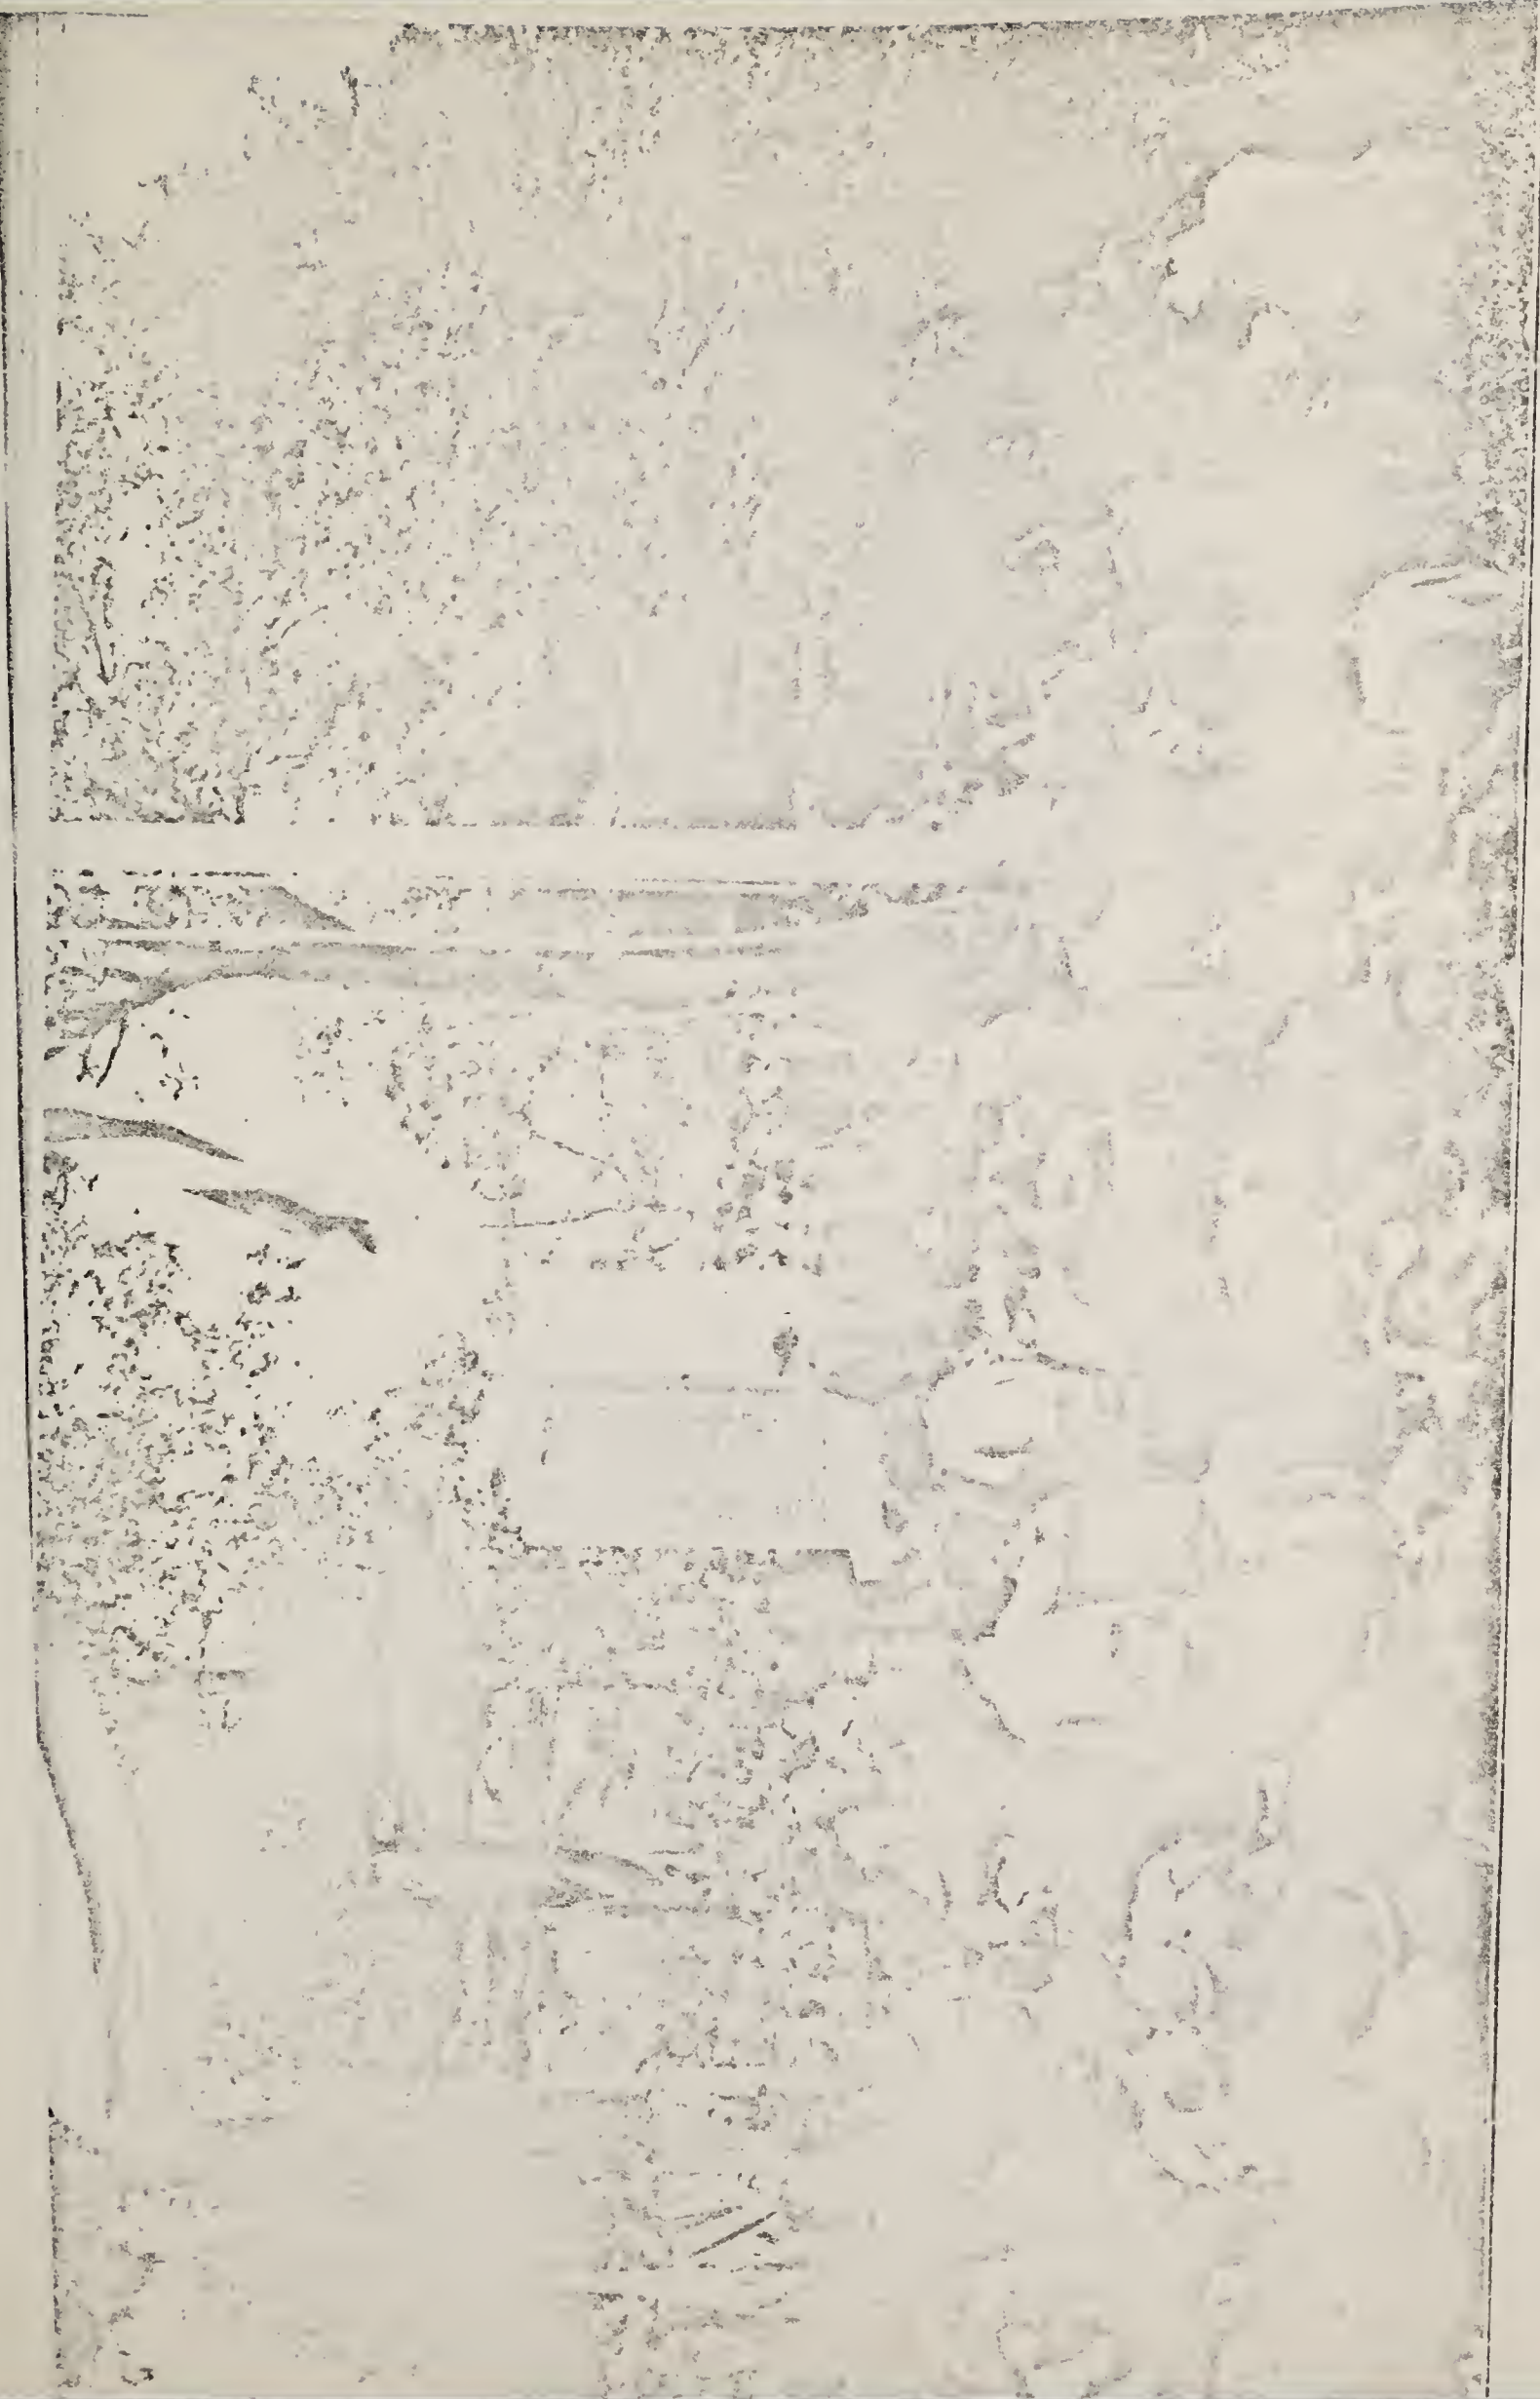

154a we cannot find on this map but, if near 154, it is off to the east from 144. It is the grave of Dyckman Odell. 162b is the grave nearest the path of a score or more south by southeast of 144. It is the last resting place of Nicholas Storm who married Elizabeth Odell; and 199a is back near the path fifty feet beyond 144. Here lies the mortal remains of David Buckhout, husband of Rachel Odell.

Go up the path and cross the road to the new cemetery and you can get a glimpse of the modest tomb of Washington Irving. It is inside a locked fence because curio hunters took a former stone away piece meal.

A more exhaustive study of this book of records of the Old Sleepy Hollow Cemetery will reveal many more people who are related to the Odell Family.

From "The Old Dutch Burying Ground of Sleepy Hollow" issued by the History Research Society of the Tappan Zee, 1928. Edgar Mayhew Bacon is said to be the author.

To visit this Cemetery take N.Y. Central to Tarrytown then Ossining Bus to Old Dutch Church; or by motor, take U.S. Highway 9, (Albany Post Rd) from N.Y. City, about 20 miles or so. Stop on the way and visit the Old Odell Inn, the Washington Irving monument and the Major Andre Capture monument; also the Philipse Castle, home of the Tarrytown Historical Society, will be found interesting. To be finished April 1st. 1942. War permitting.

The Civil War Monument and Plot of the Isaac Odell Family at Greenburgh, N.Y.

CAPT. JONATHAN S. ODELL.

"SOUVENIR OF THE REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER'S MONUMENT DEDICATION AT TARRYTOWN, NEW YORK," 1894, by Moses D. Raymond. 210 pages, no index. Contents and List of Illustrations: 2 pages. Odell Family: pages 79 to 88. Picture of Capt. Jonathan S. Odell, born 1793, died 1887; page 86a.

A CONDENSATION OF THE ODELL STORY.

William Odell was at Concord, Mass. in 1637, died at Fairfield, Conn. June, 1676. Sons: John and William, Jr. William to Rye, N. Y. had large estate; from him Jonathan of Philipse Manor, John of Fordham, wife Johanna Turner; John, Jr. - Hannah Vermilyea; their son, Jonathan born Dec. 26, 1730 - Margaret Dyckman; she died March 29, 1793, he Sept. 23, 1818, lived in the Old Stone Inn still standing on roadside at Abbottsford just below Irvington, Wendell estate; both buried Old Dutch Cemetery. He was a prisoner of war in Old Dutch Prison (Church) in New York City, 1776. His son Col. John Odell owned 563 acres from Hudson to Saw Mill River, known as "father of Odells." Old Odell Inn erected by Capt. John Harmse in 1693. New York State Convention (Provincial Congress) held here August 31, 1776.

Jonathan Odell's son, Col. John Odell was born 1756, his grandson was Jackson Odell. The ground west of the turnpike at Odell Inn was called "Odell Hill". The New York State Legislature issued a memorial to Col. John Odell, February 22, 1830. He served under Samuel Drake, Esq. to end of enlistment; reenlisted summer of 1778 to 1780.

Page 82. "When orderly Sergt. Sybert Acker called for volunteers on the Parado Ground at Tarrytown, John (afterwards Colonel) Odell was the first to step out to the front and right in the presence of Tory Col. Delancey." (Note by editor. Col. Delancey was afterwards credited by Washington as having furnished news of the Tory's plans, etc. during the war. In fact he was a super-spy among the British. Perhaps John Odell knew something of this at the time. Col. Dumwodie in Cooper's "SPY" is in part the story of Col. John Odell.) Dyckman Odell, grandson of Col. John Odell and his first wife Hannah McChain. She hid her lover in the loft of her home when it was raided by the British, so manipulating the candle, that she held for the British soldiers, as to conceal the plank, on which he lay overhead, by the shadow of her body. (There has been a very stirring poem written about this episode. I wish someone would tell me where to find it.

-Editor.)

Col. John Odell's son by his second wife was John Jackson Odell, born August 10, 1792, she was Abigail Brown, daughter of Haccalish Brown. John Jackson Odell graduated from Columbia College in 1814. He was on the staff of Gen. Pierre Van Cortlandt, War of 1812. Pierre Odell and Dyckman Odell were sons of Jackson Odell. Col. John Odell died 1835. Dyckman Odell had seven children.

Lieut. Abraham Odell, son of Jonathan and brother of Col. John, born 1760, was also guide in Revolutionary War, adjutant and secretary of Gov. Gen. Clinton; assemblyman, seven terms; supervisor town of Greenburgh, married Anne Mandeville of Peekskill, died 1820, his daughter Phebe Odell married Rufus S. King, father of Rufus King, Esq. Jr. who published King's Chart, (and I think wrote this chapter about the Odells--Editor.) Isaac Odell, another son of Jonathan, married Phebe Dean, died 1811. He had CHILDREN: Jonathan, Daniel and Margaret. William's son Jonathan married Hannah Wilton, lived at Odell Inn, had son Jonathan married Susan McChain. Daniel Odell married Charlotte Dean; Margaret married Col. Lester W. Baker, Oneida Co., had Isaac, Abraham, William, Jr., Altien; Johannes married Garret Dyckman; and William Dyckman Odell; Jacob born 1752, son Jonathan married Hannah Stymes, had Jonathan, Jasper, Jacob, Jr., who was born after his father's death, Sept. 28, 1798; Jacob, Jr. married Sarah Wildey, lived Tarrytown; his son John Odell of Tarrytown.

Capt. Jonathan S. Odell, (Capt. of a boat — Col. in the army) born in the Old Stone House (Odell Inn) at Abbottsford, Nov. 14, 1795, was a merchant and postmaster at old Hott store, corner Broadway and Main Street, Tarrytown, N.Y.; town clerk, supervisor, 1827; Col. Westchester Militia; died Sept. 12, 1887; Married Jane Tonpkins; sons: Jacob, James, William H. and N. Holmes Odell, congressman; daughters: Hannah, Martha, Angeline. Jacob was postmaster two terms, assemblyman; married Eliza H. Barber of Adams, Mass.; died 1886; two sons: George and Rev. Charles Frederick, both of Tarrytown. William H. Odell lives (1894) Wilmington, Will Co., Illinois. James Odell, died Peekskill. N. Holmes Odell, county treasurer, several times, member legislature, congressman, postmaster.

Page 87. Abraham Odell married Christina Van Wart, lived East Tarrytown — *ancestry in doubt — had CHILDREN: John, Isaac, Jacob; Benjamin, married Mary Buckhout, his son, Capt. Jacob Odell, postmaster Tarrytown. Hannah, twin of Benjamin married Jacob Buckhout; Ann married Martin Smith; Rosetta married William Dutcher, 3rd; Jane married Abraham Buckhout; Elizabeth married Nicholas Storms; Clinton Odell married Susannah Ackerman. (*See 67b, p. 30-31, "The Old Dutch Burying Ground Of Sleepy Hollow," 1926.—Editor.)

Isaac Odell brother of Jonathan Odell, Sr. of Philipse Manor, married Hannah Odell (Cousin) daughter of Abraham Odell. Gen. Jacob Odell, Yonkers, born 1756, son of Abraham, brother of Jonathan Odell, Sr.

"three Westchester farmers stopped Maj. André beneath the Old White Tree." Moses Odell had sons: Gilbert, Hany, Evander, Isaac, William. Congressman Moses Fowler Odell was of this family. The monument is on Battle Hill, 100 yards from Washington Irving's grave.

The people were evenly divided, some being on either side in the Revolution. "To be a Tory was dangerous, to be a patriot was more dangerous." Page 20. Paulding, Williams and Van Wart captured Maj. André. Read Cooper's "The Spy" for account of Col. John Odell's exploits, Col. Dunwoodie representing our Colonel. On the west side of this monument are the names: "Lieut. Abraham Odell, Lieut. John Odell" (should be Col.); on the east side are: "Abraham Odell, Isaac Odell." Andre wore high boots, broad brimmed, low crown hat. Page 211. Those who captured Maj. Andre: Abraham Williams, Isaac Van Wart, John Paulding, pp. 38, 211. (It is very unfortunate that two of these names were omitted from the list of Revolutionary War Veterans on the monument. Probably that is the reason NO FULL PICTURE OF THE MONUMENT APPEARS IN THE BOOK—Editor.)

Page 98, DUTCHER. William A. Dutcher married Rosetta Odell. (Here follows an account of the Dutcher family. It says: Rev. Dr. Jacob Conkling Dutcher, twin brother of Rachel; married Marguerite Ayers; second wife: Martha A. Warriner. (In the Odell story it says: Odell twins married Buckhouts; Benjamin married Mary Buckhout; Hannah married Jacob Buckhout and Rachel married David Buckhout. Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or a title, which is mostly illegible due to fading.

REV. CHARLES FREDERICK ODELL

Dr. Odell's grandfather was Col. Jonathan S. Odell, who was born 1795. We have his picture from page 86a of the "Souvenir of the Revolutionary Soldier's Monument Dedication". His home was next to Christ Church in Tarrytown and he owned a large farm at Elmsford, and it is thought his ten children were all born there. He was Captain of a sloop that made regular trips to New York City and Washington Irving was one of his regular passengers. He saw the first steamboat, the Clearmont, go up the Hudson.

Dr. Odell was born on the corner of Main and Grove Streets, Tarrytown and now lives next door to that house. (1942.) His mother was Harriet Eliza Barker, daughter of Dr. Barker of Adams, Mass. His father was Jacob Odell, born at the Old Stone House, Odell Inn, Abbotsford, now Irvington. N. Holmes Odell was a brother of Jacob and therefore uncle of Dr. Odell. N. Holmes was treasurer of Westchester county for nine years; owned the Westchester Fair Grounds, the Orcwampen Hotel; was many years in the vestry of Christ Church along with Washington Irving. Jacob Odell was clerk of the Vestry and it was he who caused Tarrytown to be incorporated and was its first president; a leader of the state legislature at Albany; vice-president of the National Bank, Postmaster, Treasurer of the Board of Education, director of the Gas Company, and conducted a coal and lumber business. N. Holmes Odell was also treasurer of the church.

Rev. Charles Frederick Odell inherited his father's business and added a feed business, was later president of the Gas Company, secretary of the Board of Health, treasurer of the Young Men's Lyceum, Chief of the Fire Department. He was two years in the U. S. Army, 4th Division, his son Elliott was with the 27th Division. Dr. Odell was with the New York City Episcopal Mission, New York City and State and Pennsylvania Prison Chaplain; Pennsylvania at Pittsburgh; was also Chaplain of a number of institutions. He was thirteen years at Portland and Caribow in Maine, where he held four state offices; American Legion Chaplain; Director of 4th Division Civic League, and Brotherhood of Saint Andrew. He pitched for the Yale baseball team, Dauntless Champions of Long Island, Stock Exchange team of New York and others; also won at running and football contests.

George H. Odell was his brother, Governor Benjamin Barker Odell his cousin; another cousin and brother of the governor was professor of English at Columbia University. On Christ Church Vestry in 1836 were Jonathan S. Odell, Dr. Odell's grandfather; and Jasper S. Odell.

Elliott Odell was born in 1898 and his son, Bruce, in 1927. Dr. Odell's daughter Helen was born in 1896; she is Mrs. John Squiers and has a son, James who is 14 years old in 1942, the date of writing.

AN HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE ODELL (O'DELL) FAMILY

From the Archives of Bailey H. Odell, Ossining, New York, Curiosity Shop and Antique Store.

ORIGIN. The distinguished name of Odell is a locality name deriving its origin from a county in Bedford. Lower, writes: "The seat of an ancient barony written Wodhull, and by Norman corruption, Wahull. The great Domesday Baron known as Walter Flandrensis, from his being a Fleming, held it, and his posterity was called 'de Wahull.'" Early records of the name are:

Walter de Wahull, County Oxford, 1273.
John de Warhulle, County Bedford, 1273.
Walter de Wadhulle, County " 1273.
Richard Guilyams and Ruth Odell married in 1615.
Pierce Odell and Mary Bunning married in 1791.

William Odell the founder of the family in America was of English ancestry having come to New England in the early part of the seventeenth century, probably at time of the immigration of the Rev. Peter Bulkeley, who was rector of the Parish of Odell in Bedfordshire, England and came to America in 1635. Mr. Odell is first traced at Concord, Mass. where his name appears in the town records as early as 1639. He removed to Fairfield, Connecticut about 1644 and became the owner of a large estate. Mr. Odell died at Fairfield in 1676; his will recorded there and dated June 6, the same year, mentions his son William and his son John, daughter Rebecca Moorehouse, daughter-in-law Mary Odell, and others; bequeaths lands in Fairfield and makes son John Odell and son-in-law Samuel Moorehouse executors. The name appears to have undergone many variations of spelling, such as Wodell, Woddell, Odle, Odell, Odill, Woodell and Woddle. In America the families of Woodhull and Odell have not traced any relationship though Richard Woodhull was born about 1620, the progenitors of the Woodhulls in this country and to whom his kinsman Lord Crewe sent the Woodhull achievement about 1687.

William Odell, Jr. was born about 1634. In 1659 he purchased land in Fairfield of Thomas Morehouse and in 1668 he signed a petition as "William Woodhull". He died the year 1700. He married _____, daughter of Richard Vowles, Esq. of Rye, New York. They had seven sons and one daughter.

Phineas Wodel married Rhoda _____ and by her had: Benjamin W., born in 1763; Elizabeth W., born in 1784; Ruth W., born in 1787; Jonathan W., born in 1790; John W., born in 1795; Fegleg T. W., born in 1797 and Bradford W., born in 1801.

Mary Wodell, daughter of William and Mary Wodell was born in 1640. She married Daniel Grinnell in 1667 and had: Daniel, born in 1668; Jonathan, born in 1670; Richard, born in 1675 and died in 1725.

1682--William Wodell of Portsmouth bought land in Dartmouth of Thomas Cornell.

1690-94--William Wodell, Jr. of Pocasset bought land of Christopher Almy, Seth Arnold, Joseph Anthony, John Cole, Ephriam Cole, John Cook, Thomas Durlee, Benjamin Church, Samuel Little and Gershom Mott.

1661--Samuel Sanford married Sarah Wodell, daughter of William and Mary Wodell.

Note by editor. The Odell shield is on a gold, not a silver background. The three upturned crescents are gules (red) as represented here. The ornamentation around the Arms is called the "Orle." It can be whatever the artist desires to make it, generally conventional forms of leaves. Over the shield is the The helmet, the rope, called technically a "Knot," and the displayed eagle are individual attainments, changeable with every generation. Some Odells in this list, it runs through several volumes of this publication. Also a list of those who had the lead taken out of their windows in Westchester County might contain some information. This can be found in "New York in the Revolution", second, two volume, edition.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of the differential equations of the second order. The problem is to find the general solution of the differential equation which is a linear differential equation of the second order with constant coefficients. The general solution of this equation is given by the formula

A Fabricated Pedigree has been constructed which claims that William Odell, Progenitor Ancestor, was the son of Nicholas Woodhull and Barbara Hobby. "The Miner Family" by Lillian Lounsberry (Miner) Selleck edited by Donald Lines Jacobus, page 210; "Nicholas Woodhull and wife Barbara Hobby, had a son William Recorded as baptised 29 April 1585, drowned at sea"

Mr. Jacobus was asked to comment on the above claimed lineage and he replied: "The important Woodhull family did not spell the name Odell. William Odell's name was not spelled Woodhull or Wodhull in any American record." (This is an error, see page 189, Odell Genealogy; Pool page 15: Harvey's History, 'Willey Hundred.'—Ed.) "Only an ingenu genealogist would try to place Odell in any American Wodhull family. William Odell came from Newport Co. Buckingham, England. (See New York Gene. & Biog. Record, Vol. 44, pg. 118.) My opinion is that the pedigree mentioned is probably a fraud. The imposor figured it would be difficult to disprove the claim; because WILLIAM ODELL has been located elsewhere it is unnecessary to disprove it. I doubt if William Odell was born as early as 1602; he could easily have been born as late as 1610-1625." DLJ.

From NYGB Record, Vol. 44, p. 118; contributed by J. HENRY LEE (LEA) and J. R. RICHARDSON: "Will of Richard Odell of Newport Pagnell (Bucks), miller; dated 21 Nov. 1636 — To William Odell, my eldest son, my freehold land in Cranfield Co. (Beds.) Mary Oddell my daughter L 20 at marriage or 21. Elizabeth Oddell, dau. of John Oddell my brother 10 sh. Martha my wife, whom Extrix and John Oddell and Robert Markes of Newport Pagnell, blacksmith, Overseers, witnesses: Richard Hull, Thomas King, Robert Bitchnee. Proved 10 Jan. 1636-7 by Extrix named. (Arch. Bucks. Bk. 36, fo. 80). (The above does not prove that this William came to America.—MHS.)

Archdeacon's Visitation, holder (held) in the Church of Newport (Barnell). Eo. Bucks, 17 Apr. 1637. Newport: Edward Hartley (cited) for quarreling by words with William Odell and stabbing the seyd William Odell through the arme. (Here follows a list of petty fines imposed for non-appearance in answer to the Archdeacon's Court.) He was questioned for this at the Assizes and punished. In the margin appear the words: "17 Oct. 1639, "ABSENT IN NOVA ANGLIA." Beneath are the words: "WILLIAM ODELL ET SUPRA." (Visitation Books 1635-8, no folio.

We note in the above that the Latin verb is in the PLURAL, thus clearly indicating that they are absent or abroad in New England, which is fully confirmed by the line below relating to William Odell and showing that both of the parties to the combat were then in New England.

Nicholas Woodhull and Barbara Hobby were of Thenford, Northampton, England and Hales Co. Gloucester, England

Since the above was published, (noted) Mr. Jacobus has published articles in "American Genealogist" regarding this William Odell which it may be of interest to descendants to read; notes do not include Vol and Page.

It is worrisome how often Americans are willing to pay much "coin of the realm" for an unverified pedigree if it leads to royalty and recent and disown accurate ancestry which is not to their liking.

A LETTER FROM DONALD LINES JACOBUS.

June 5, 1930

My dear Mrs. Sellack:

First about your cousin's business. Let me approach the problem from this angle. The important Wodhull family did not spell the name Odell. William Odell's name is not spelled Woodhull or Wodhull in any American record. Although the two names are probably identical in origin, this does not mean that the families are identical. To put it bluntly, only an ingenu genealogist would try to place Odell in the Wodhull family. (I have always been trying to get them out, but old and hardened genealogist seem bound to put them back in — for the express purpose of ~~skicking~~ kicking them out again — like a Communist set-up.—HAO.)

William Odell came from Newport, Co. Buckingham, Eng. For proof of this I refer your cousin to NYGB Record, Vol. 44, p. 118. This being the case, it really doesn't matter particularly about the baptismal record of William Wodhull in 1585 (should be 1585). Those baptisms are from one of the English county histories, I think from Baker's Northamptonshire, but I can't lay my hands on my original notes without some searching, and it might take time to look it up in Yale Library again. But I think in view of what I have written that it will not be necessary though I shall be glad to look up the reference for the baptisms and charge for the time if your cousin desires it. The county history took them from the parish register and I have every reason to believe them to be correct.

My opinion is that the pedigrees mentioned by your cousin is a fraud, probably. One would not have to go to England to learn that William Wodhull was baptised 1585. But this was too early for William Edell, (Odell?) so the date was altered to 1602. As this William was lost at sea, the imposter figured it would be difficult to disprove the claim. However there may be probate of this William in England and it is unnecessary to disprove the claim because William Odell has been located elsewhere. As a matter of fact, I doubt whether William Odell was born as early as 1602. As far as American records are concerned, he could be (Have been) born as late as 1610-1615.

Send this letter to your cousin to read if you care to.

Signed: Donald L. Jacobus.

The parish register of Newport Pagnell exists from 1558. Edward Hartley, the aggressor in the fray seems to have left no record of his presence in New England. He may have been connected with Richard Hartley of New London 1658-1662, who was from Yorkshire. NYGB Record, 1913, -. 118.

(Some day after I have finished all I can find of the true Odell genealogy, if that time ever comes, I may take the matter of answering these letters and date. Suffice it for the present to show that our William Odell was not drowned and DID COME to America — there are too many of us, his descendants, now living, to make such a story possible, nor do I believe he did swim over. As for the rendering of the Latin; it means simply that William Odell and his party, his friends, were absent in New England; but not Hartley. He would be ingenu indeed who could say Hartley DID come to New England yet was present and punished by the Archdeacon's court. Such rave arguments are the merest drivel. No sane person could believe them.—HAO.)

OUR CHICAGO CORRESPONDENT.

Mrs. George Andrews Abbott, (Marie Millage) , descends from Odell stock. Her mother Jannett Dillon, was a daughter of William Dillon and Thankful Ann Eliza Stone, who was in turn, a Daughter of Ebenezer Stone and Clarissa Odell. She has a fan shaped chart whereon is traced eight generations of her mother's ancestry through the Stone Family; also through Sybil Leet, her great grandmother, the line goes back thirty-six or more generations to Richard de Clare, Earl of Hertford and Baron of Runemede, one of the Magna Charta Barons, who died in 1213. See pages 179 et seq, Odell Genealogy for list of Magna Charta Barons by Browning. An Earl was a brother or other very close relative to the Royal House.

On the paternal side Mrs. Abbott's lineage goes by Four Main Lines, through a dozen or more generations, to such names as Van Epps, House of Orange; Lord Van der Pool, King of Holland in the 1300 hundreds; Rudolph I. of Hapsburgh, Emperor of Germany and the Vrooman, Vedder, Groot, Scheen. and Truax Families. From Thomas Miledge (Millage), Deed in Monmouth Co., N. J. 1714.

Mrs. Abbott traces her great grandmother, Clarissa Odell, as a daughter of Issac Odell, 1753-1811. and Phebe Dean, of the Odell* Dyckman*Dean Families. (Bolton's History of Westchester Co, N.Y. Vol. 2, (Appendix). In many years searching for her great grandmother's ancestry, in the Newberry and other libraries in Chicago; D. A. R. Records in Washington, D. C. and other places she has accumulated much Odell data and has very kindly donated all these notes to Our Odell Genealogy. There were twenty-five pages of closely written copy in Elite type. We have searched through all this material diligently and deleted most of the duplications of records already in this volume. Some of these records, while citing other sources, are evidently from the same Original Sources as our own. There is no point to adding to our already cumbersome book, material which has been copied from the same sources as we have used.

What is original of Mrs. Abbott's work is given herewith. The editor has not taken time to confirm its reliability; but, in deleting parts that were reproduction of my work, I find that the notes are reliable and give evidence of painstaking labors in the field of Genealogical Research, by a mind trained for the work. This is probably "All the ~~Genealogical~~ News" from Chicago up to date.

We are glad to have a good likeness of the lady and pause to remark that Mrs. Abbott is of the style of beauty that "Gentlemen Prefer," on the other hand she has a sister who is a decidedly dark beauty, hair and eyes brown to almost black; while our Genealogist--blue eyed with golden hair. Of course two such good looking sisters must have some Odell blood in their veins. And they are keeping up the Odell record of military pride. Mrs. Abbott adds to the three flyers on the author's side her son who is a captain in the U. S. Army in a high position at our nation's capital. To those who think a handsome woman may not be very smart we recommend they look over these pages from her work and then try to go out and do as well. It is by far the greatest collection of Odelliana ever published.

He was living in 1735 at the time his son John (4) died, but he was dead in 1753. Their children were: Catherine (4); John, married Hannah Vermillie, Oct. 29, 1713; Sarah, married Johannes Vermilje, Oct. 29, 1713; Hannah; Mary; Michael, born after 1698, married, July 6, 1720, Elizabeth Nets.

Isaac (3) Odell (William 2, 1), born about 1675, married Anne, daughter of Nathaniel Tompkins. Both were living in 1705. Their children were: Isaac, William and Tompkins. (Bolton gives a son Joshua.)

John (4) Odell (John 3, William 2), married Hannah Vermillie of Yonkers and died about 1738, leaving children: John (5); Isaac; Abraham; Jonathan of Greenburg, N. Y., who married Margaret Dyckman; Hannah, who married perhaps Garrett Dyckman; Altie. He lived at Fordham.

(3909.) ODELL, JONES. The Pedigree of Odell, by Rufus King, appearing in Bolton's History of Westchester County, N. Y., Vol. 2, page 653, shows several intermarriages between the Odell and Jones families. William (4) (Isaac 3, William 2, William 1) of Eastchester, son of Isaac and Anne (Tompkins) Odell of Eastchester, born before 1698, married — Jones. Joshua (4), brother of William (4), born Nov. 4, 1707, married Sarah Jones, born Aug. 2, 1713. John (5) of Yonkers, son of William (4), married — Jones.

Has R. E. D. any information concerning these Odells or their wives?

New York Wills, Vol. 8, Liber 28, page 474: Will of John Odell recorded in Surrogate office, New York city, dated March 29, 1773, proved May 31, 1773, mentions wife Keziah and children: John, Jonathan, Philip, Moses, Stephen, Rubine, Hester, Elizabeth and Sarah. Is this the John mentioned above, namely John (5) (William 4, etc.) of Yonkers? F. C. H.

Comment on Note 2434. Early Families of Eastchester, N. Y., R. E. D., June 22, 1931. Part VI. Odell.

Jonathan (3) Odell (William 2, William 1), born about 1675, married Mary —, living at Eastchester in 1698 and 1710, removed to Lower Yonkers, died in 1753 or 1754. The Odell Pedigree, by Rufus King, in Bolton's History of Westchester County, N. Y., makes Jonathan the ancestor of the Wilton (Conn.) branch of the Odells. Who were the Wilton Odells? Jonathan Odell's will, dated July

TRANSCRIPT

26, 1753, proved Aug. 17, 1754, appears as Jonathan Odell, Sr., of Lower Yonkers in the Manor of Phillipsburgh, Westchester County. He leaves to "John Odell, grandson of my brother John Odell, deceased, 5 shillings barring him forever coming in for any part of my estate as heir at law." This John Odell was the son of John Odell and Hannah Vermilyea, whose father died about 1738. Jonathan Odell also bequeaths lands and meadows to his "loving cousin Nehemiah Odell, son of Jonathan Odell, deceased." Who was this "Jonathan Odell, deceased," whose son Nehemiah is called "loving cousin"? Was he the Jonathan Odell mentioned in the will of Thomas Hunt, Esq., of the "Borough Town of Westchester," dated July 26, 1756, proved July 15, 1758, as husband of Helena Hunt?

The will of Mary Odell, widow of Jonathan Odell, of Phillipsburg, dated Nov. 29, 1754, proved Oct. 8, 1755, bequeaths to "my cousin, Odell Close, of Horse Neck, Connecticut, 10 Pounds,"—"to Nathaniel Tompkins, of Westchester, 5 shillings in bar of all claims as my heir at law," and the rest of her estate to "cousin Nehemiah Odell." Who were the ancestors of Mary Odell? From the contents of the above will it seems to me, that she was the daughter of Nathaniel Tompkins. Nathaniel Tompkins, son of John Tompkins, was in Eastchester in 1679, and died there Sept. 6, 1684. He married Elizabeth —, and had the following children: Nathaniel, Jr., born after 1663, died Feb. 15, 1732; Stephen; Ann, born after 1666, probably married Isaac Odell; Elizabeth, born after 1666; Mary, born after 1666, married Jonathan Odell; Rebecca, born 1679, died Nov. 8, 1761, married Joseph Close, Sr. All the children of Nathaniel were under eighteen years of age when he died in 1684.

Rebecca Tompkins married in 1701, Joseph Close, Sr., born Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 20, 1676, died in North Salem, N. Y., Oct. 4, 1760. Their son Joseph Close, Jr., born Sept. 20, 1702, died Jan. 4, 1760, married first, Eunice Hait, May 1, 1728, second, Mary Merrit, in 1744, and his son Odell Close, born Oct. 22, 1738, is the "cousin Odell Close," referred to in Mary's will.

Mary Odell takes particular pains to bar Nathaniel Tompkins as her heir at law. Nathaniel Tompkins referred to in her will is, no doubt, the son of Nathaniel Tompkins, eldest brother of Mary (Tompkins) Odell.

What is the meaning of the word "cousin" as used in both wills and particularly in the relationship to Nehemiah Odell? Who were the descendants of Nehemiah Odell? Did he remove to North Carolina? F. C. H.

5. ODELL, TURNER. Hannah Odell, born Oct. 20, 1679, who married first Nathaniel Seeley, was a daughter of John (2) (son of William 1) and his wife Mary (surname unknown). She was a first cousin of John (3) Odell (William 2, 1) who married Annetie Bastiaensen, born 1658 (not Hannah Turner, as given in Note 2434, June 22, 1931). Ibid. pp. 445-6.)

3909. ODELL, JONES. F. C. H., June 17, 1932. I do not have information regarding these Jones-Odell marriages. It is quite evident that there is still much unpublished material on the early history of Westchester County. There are errors in Bolton's account of the Odell family and all data should be carefully checked.

R. E. D.
3757. WALKER, ODELL. G. DeF. S., May 25, 1932. Jacobus, in Families of Old Fairfield, Vol. I., pp. 446-6, gives probably all that is known about John (2) Odell (William 1) of Stratfield, Conn. His children and grandchildren are given in Vol. I. and later generations are given in Vol. III. As the history of this branch of the Odell family seems to have no bearing on the Odell family of Westchester County, N. Y., it was entirely omitted from my notes on the Early Families of Eastchester, N. Y.

Mr. Jacobus gives the name of John (2) Odell's wife as Mary, this being shown by the husband's will and later by the widow's will. As a guess we may suppose that John Odell was married in 1662 to 1665. As the Odell family was living at Fairfield at that time it would be natural to look in that vicinity. However, as the family had previously lived at Southampton, L. I., John Odell may have gone to Long Island for his wife.

There is no doubt this is where Robert Ferris Odell got the name "Thomas Lewis" Odell for one of his sons by the first wife. On page 95, and in other places, occurs the name "Euretta" Odell; and on page 196, Our Odell Genealogy, is the name "Roselina" in Mrs. Violet Odell Lewis' Table. Grandpa named his first girl by his second wife "Euretta Roselthy" Odell. The fact that he spelled the second name different is of no importance. He also spelled the first name "Urette" in his Bible, p. 40.

1* This table says: "Walter de Flanders was ~~King~~ of Barney," which, in Old English, means: a celebration, good time, jollification; so perhaps the First Baron of England came from a desire to celebrate the victory at Hastings on the 14th of October, 1066.

2* The table skips many of the line of succession therefore it is hard to compare with contemporaneous rulers. The table on page 282-3 in this same book, Woodhull Genealogy, is entirely different. See other comparative Tables in this Supplement; and photostat of pages 282-3,

BEDFORD, ENGLAND.

BEDFORD is the County Town of Bedfordshire. The Village of Odell is about six miles due West on the Ouse River. Most of the land is level and is called the land of the Great Ouse Valley. The Chiltern Hills to the south rise to nearly 300 feet at Dunstable Downs. There are signs of human habitation from the Second Interglacial Period, but its real history starts with a battle in A.D. 871, when the West Saxons under Guthwulf, defeated the Britons under Bedicanford. This is where the name arises. Beddecanufford means "mount at the head of the ford". A shell tumulus still remains upon which Henry I., or the Norman Barons in his time, built a castle to control the river crossing. Coins of Roman, Celt, and Saxon, have been found which indicates it was a trading place in the earliest days of history. In the year 886 the town, now called Bedanforde, was on the frontier defined by treaty of Alfred and Guthrum, and the Ouse was the boundary line. Thirty years later Alfred's son, Edward the Elder, took the country to the north and came to Bedford. - Bedford Guild Book.

Odell Family To Meet Today

Members of the Odell family will gather informally this afternoon from 2 to 5 in the home of Mrs. Llywellyn W. Lewis of Pocantico Hills at their first meeting.

Among those who will attend are the Rev. and Mrs. C. Fred Odell of 15 Grove Street, Tarrytown, and Bailey H. Odell of Ossining, who says he has lived 83 years in Westchester County and is an authority on the Bedfordshire, Eng., branch of the family. An examination of a copy of the first genealogy ever published by an Odell of this family, prominent in Westchester history and widely scattered all over the United States, is prominent on the program.

The Odell Book of over 300 pages and 125 photostat pictures of members of the family, Bible records,

Odell Family Members Learn Much of Their Forebears at First Annual Meet

Genealogy was the main topic of the first meeting of the Odell family Saturday afternoon at Pocantico Hills.

Through the Odell book published by Harry A. Odell of Los Angeles and New York, author and printer, members of the proud old American family that has played such an important part in Westchester County, throughout New York State buildings and many kinds of documents has been prepared by Harry A. Odell of New York City.

Retired two years, Genealogist Odell is an old newspaper man. He was editor and printer of several country papers in California and was compositor for over 20 years with the New York World and World Telegram.

Eight copies of his book have been put out and the edition is limited to 30. The book to be inspected and criticized is intended for the Newberry Library of Chicago. Copies are also in the New York City Public Library and the Library of Congress.

Others expected to attend, besides the hostess, who was Violet Odell, and her two brothers and a son and daughter, are Harry A. Odell, two members of the Dyckman family, which intermarried with the Odells during the Revolutionary War; Homer C. Odell, Springfield, Mass., and Fred C. Haacker and Mrs. Haacker, who was an Odell; keeper of the Odell home at Irvington.

and in the Nation, learned much about their forebears

Examination of a copy of the genealogy, which represents many years of work by the author and contains over 300 pages and 125 pictures of members of the family, Bible records, buildings and many documents, brought commendation from the members of the family for its completeness.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., MONDAY, JUNE 29, 1942

Mr. Odell started work on the genealogy in 1913 on his own family. As he went along, interest increased and he proceeded to prepare a complete work on the Odell family. Since he retired two years ago, Mr. Odell said he worked constantly on it and his research took him over the nation.

The records, read with pride by the Odells, showed the important part in American history of the family from which came a governor of the State of New York, three congressmen, many judges, lawyers, fighting men in all of America's wars from the Revolutionary War down through history, including the present war.

Many high ranking officers are included in the list of military men. Besides the state and national government representatives that came from the Odell family, there have been a great number of public officials, including postmasters, and municipal officials.

At the close of the meeting, Harry A. Odell spoke briefly on the genealogy of the family, which he traced back to the year 1066 to William the Conqueror, asserting the first title given out by him was Baron of Odell.

Referring to the genealogy of the family in America, he pointed out that the meeting Saturday was the first time that the Odells had been called together. All voted in favor of his suggestion to make the meeting an annual event.

The meeting was held on the lawn to the east of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Llywellyn W. Lewis on Bedford Road, under sunlit skies. Mrs. Lewis, the genial hostess, the former Violet Odell, a member of the New York Odells, was highly praised by Harry A. Odell and the guests for her readiness to entertain them so splendidly.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Lewis served tea, cake and sandwiches. Mrs. Bertram J. Mortlock, wife of the Reverend Mortlock of Pelham Manor, a sister of Mrs. Lewis, poured.

Mrs. Lewis' family was long connected with this region. Her great grandmother was christened and married in the old Dutch Church of Sleepy Hollow and her great-great grandmother was married there.

The guests also saw the old family Bible of the family of Bailey H. Odell of Ossining. Mr. Odell said it became lost after the blizzard of '80 and he started a quest for it. After 13 years he located it in Brooklyn after relatives had told him often that he would never be able to find it.

Mr. Bailey, who conducts an antique business, and is one of the last of old wood clock makers in this part of the State, lived in his young years at Yonkers. He attended the old rural school which stood at Tuckahoe Road and Saw Mill River Road. He made a model of the old school so complete in every detail that it was accepted by the Yonkers museum and may still be seen there.

He said he recalls the days when the horse cars from New York City were hauled on wooden rails up near Yonkers. He attended the old Mosholou school in the south section of Yonkers in those days. The only house now standing there, he said, is the old Van Paelt cottage which was old in his time.

Harry A. Odell, who is seventy-three years old, comes from the Robert Ferris Odell branch of the family at Westport, N. Y. His father and grandfather went West in the time of the Civil War among the early settlers in the West. Speaking of the Civil War, he said that 50 men went into the war from Westport, and only two returned. The rest died, mostly from disease in hospitals in the South.

Among the most prominent Odells in the Revolutionary War in Westchester were Colonel John Odell, Captain Augustin Odell and Lieutenant James Odle, who for some reason used a different spelling of his name from the others.

Jonathan Odell, who had an inn at Irvington, the old Odell house, which stands today on the former Wendell estate, was the father of Col. Odell and was taken prisoner by the British in 1776 and imprisoned in the Bronx.

Those present at the family meeting included Rev. and Mrs. C. Fred Odell of Tarrytown, Bailey H. Odell, Ossining; Mr. and Mrs. Loring Tyson, and their children, Wayne and Lois, of Pocantico Hills; Mrs. Tyson's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Llywellyn W. Lewis; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Haacker, New York City; Rev. and Mrs. Bertram J. Mortlock, Pelham; Gas C. Odell, Staten Island; Miss Ruby Odell, Hilton N. Y., representing her brother of Long Meadow, Springfield, Mass.; Mrs. Roderick Dhu MacAlpin, Flushing; Mrs. August Schmand and daughter, Alice, of Flushing; Arthur Henshaw, who has taken many pictures for the Odell Book; his sister, Mrs. Doris McCandless, and her daughter, Mrs. Edna McCandless, of Chappaqua. Several others sent regrets at not being able to attend.
